She is an intelligent and rather prepossessing woman. Her husband is still an active navigator and is running a steamboat in the Gulf.

The sultan has deemed the moment opportune to emphasize the entente between the porte and the Franco-Russian alliance by conferring upon M. Ribot, the French foreign minister, the grand cordon of the order of Osmanli, and upon Mefrak, the decoration of Nihali-Chakani, an order for ladies founded by the sultan himself. The bestowal of these distinctions has been interpreted as the diplomatic circle in Constantinople.

The chief of police of the City of Mexico is endeavoring to ascertain the sent on the story contained in the dispatch telegraphed from San Francisco August 31 in reference to an alleged revolutionary feeling in Mexico, and it is surmised that two persons were named in the dispatch, the other an engineer and ex-member of congress, who brought upon himself the odium of the government on account of his independence.

ADM. McCANN publishes a defense of Minister Egan and says he joined with the representatives of other powers in warning Balmaceda, not that he was a concessionalist as he proposed. Minister Egan helped get Montt and his associates safely out of the country. His assertion that Balmaceda was attempting to overthrow was a premature and unjustified remark. Mr. McCann blames himself for allowing it to come published.

It appears that Garcia, who is leading the attempted revolution in Tamaulipas, Mexico, is not the celebrated desperado of that name, but is the editor of a weekly paper printed in San Antonio and published at various points on the Texas frontier. He is a crank of the first water, and a violent opponent of the Diaz government. In this expedition he is accompanied by Luis Sandoval, who headed a similar uprising about a year ago.

A DISPATCH from Madras says considerable indignation has been stirred up in India by the prosecution of a boy who set a Phallik image before a boy that was in course of erection. The boy was arrested and sentenced to imprisonment. The sentence was called for a loud and noisy protest, and was ground that the boy was innocent of any indecent intention, and only meant to follow the religious forms taught by his ancestors. Phallik worship still having many followers in southern India.

A CABLEGRAM has been received from the navy department from Adm. Brown, dated Valparaiso, Chili, September 14, saying that the steamer "Albatross" had captured the fugitive boat to Peru, had returned to Valparaiso, and that he would sail for Callao, Peru, immediately on his flagship, the San Francisco. Both the steamer and the navy departments were in ignorance of the capture of the fugitive Balmaceda to the San Francisco, but it was said that if the ex-president had succeeded in getting aboard a United States naval vessel he would not be surrendered.

A DISPATCH from Aden, Arabia, says that the heads of the consumed Yemen rebels have been distributed about the various Turkish ports in Arabia and are on their way for the edification of the inhabitants. At Sana, which is a great trading center, no less than fifteen heads are on exhibition in various stages of decay. It appears that Ahmed Rushed, the Turkish commander, surprised a large rebel force while they were asleep in the mountains before they had taken to the water, and the dead who had been leaders in the revolt were decapitated.

A GOVERNMENT official who is familiar with the Behring sea question, is speaking of the complaint made by Sir Julian Panncofote that this government had violated the modern viresdi clause of the treaty of 1825, which allowed the North American Commercial Co. to take 7,000 seals. The treaty went into effect before the war was whether the company was to be allowed to take 7,000 after June 15 or whether the treaty allowed it to capture this number of seals during the entire season, which went into effect before the war was signed. The official says that no trouble could be anticipated in settling the difficulty.
