Non-Partisan Caucus.

The non-partisan caucus met in the court-house on Monday evening and proceeded to put in nomination the following city officers:

For Mayor—D. B. Spanogle. For Treasurer—Henry Cook. For Clerk—T. J. Ward.

For Engineer—F. A. Kuehn. For School-Board—J. A. Tulleys and C. F. Cather.

For Aldermen 2d Ward—D. J. Myers and C. H. Potter.

First Ward—Ed Pulsifer and Joe Kubick.

The convention was one of the most harmonious conventions that we have ever attended and those present (about 250) seemed to have forgotten past differences and settled down to a realization of the necessity of the people pulling together, at least that was the way it looked that night.

The city officers, Messrs Spanogle, Cook, Ward, etc, are among our best men, and we believe will be elected, and any attempt to swerve from the decision of the non-partisan convention should be frowned upon as a disturber of the peace of this communi-

Something About Benefactors. We often read that "He was a real benefactor of the human race." With good reason could this be applied to anyone who contributes to the lessening of the evils to which flesh is heir to. Rheumatism and chronic headache have been classed as impossible of cure, yet science has finally demonstrated that they CAN be cured. Haller's Pain Paralyzer taken in conjunction with Haller's German Pills, have effected most extraordinary cures and has made life a comfort to many, who never hoped for relief. For sale by C. L. Cotting.

CHIEF SUPPLEMENT.

Inavale.

We are the boss looking couple. A distressing accident occurred over in the state of Walnut one day last week, being the complete destruction by fire of Mr. Monroe Sharp's house. The loss was considerable, but the worst of it was the loss of everything inside the building in the way of furniture, bedding, dishes, etc. A subscription was set going by Mrs. Holdredge of Scott, and a considerable sum was raised to go towards helping the stricken family. There was no insurance.

It would seem from the result of the trial in the district court that Czaridine Cather, of Catherton, is not considered as good authority on surveying as was the government surveyor that surveyed this country. Strange, passing strange. How does Dick Payne take it? Chas. Hunter has sold his hardware store here to Mr. Lewis Kenyon. Lew is a general favorite with the boys and will do well. Mr. Hunter will confine his attention henceforth strictly to the stock business and to the—buying of grain.

And now comes the South Side alliance with the good news that they are to build and equip a first-class elevator here at Inavale. We are always glad to hear of anything of the kind but there is an old adage that runs something like this: "Seeing is believing and feeling is the naked truth." At least, that's the way McKew says it.

The death of Mrs. R. R. Pitney cast a gloom over the whole neighborhood for several days. Mrs. Pitney was well-known and universally loved and the mourning was indeed great. "Precious in the sight of the Lord is the death of his saints."

Mr. E. H. Calkins and Mrs. Call of St. Louis, son and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Pitney, were present at their mother's funeral last Sunday, and visited relatives here a few days afterward.

While Mr. Lewis Kenyon, our popular hardware man, was emptying a keg of nails one day last week, he discovered the skeleton of a human finger. It was the index finger of the left hand and was in such a good state of preservation that the joints were not broken yet. Some of the shriveled flesh and the nail were still clinging to it. It had been taken from the hand at the point where it fastens on.

Mr. John McCreeth of Fremont, is visiting relatives in the city this week.

Mr. Arthur Wolcott expects to start for Iowa in a few days where he has accepted a lucrative position. The girls are all exceedingly sorry to see him leave.

A would-be writer from this city over the names of "Will" and "Constant Reader" in the Democrat and "Clip" in last week's Nation is hurling anathemas and falsehoods at the head of the Poor Farmer. Does the poor fool think he can make the people believe that different ones are doing this writing? Well, no! The cloven hoof protrudes from all of them as plainly as did the spot of blood on the fatal key that led to Bluebeard's chamber. He assumes the role of morality and virtue. Now wouldn't that cork you? He, of all men, to don that robe, and in a county where he is known. He, whose name is a common household jest. He who has scarcely a friend left but that is ashamed to own him.

It's a shame to kick a man when he's down; when credit and friends have left him and dark clouds chase each other over his skies; but if a man is bound to keep up a row until the cold clouds cover him, then the other parties might as well have some fun too.

Even as a child, by nature's kindly law, Is pleased with a rattle and tickled at a straw, So by a curious and omnipresent flaw The Honah of some citizens is Jaw, Jaw, JAW.

How long, Oh Lord, how long? The Nation has some friends up in this part of the count, but if it allows such articles to creep into its columns as it did last week from Inavale it will certainly lose those friends. An article full of fillety to the alliance and alliance men, but used only as a cloak to shield the writer while he amused the people of the town and written by one who has probably said more mean things about the alliance and its members than anyone else in the county.

And the end seems to be not yet. Bill B. Ethuer brought down the following lines Saturday in the mail bag from Otto. They were backed up but when the sack was opened they got away. The people of that township are looking for the author with a club.

The Handwriting on the wall A prominent old man of Otto, While yet young adopted this motto: "Look wise, Tell lies, But look out you do not get caught. Oh!" He was a great man in his borough, And in politics was quite thorough. He fell, Like B—, However, at last to his sorrow.

Now my friends take advice from this skit, And be careful you do not get hit, For all Your gall Will not help you the least little bit.

Col. Shinbone has come up out of his dugout and produced the following beautiful stanzas on the county seat question. Blue Hill papers please copy.

When the County Seat Goes to Blue Hill The plea will be a soaring high Like the moonbeams on the hill, And water will be turned to rye When the county seat goes to Blue Hill.

The cow may well jump over the moon And the little dog laugh to his fill. The jackass may bray a soft, sweet tune When the county seat goes to Blue Hill. "Dennis" will lead Jim Vance in prayer, And the Poor Farmer work with a will, Mc'ne and "Ed" will meet over there, When the county seat goes to Blue Hill. Truman will talk republican truths And Ho-mer forget a printing bill; "The boys" won't object to being "youths," When the county seat goes to Blue Hill. Jake Miller an office will get And McKeelha get through a bill, While Shields and Nick will cease to fret When the county seat goes to Blue Hill. The judgment day will come and go And all our tongues be still, When the Lord tells the people to Move the county seat to Blue Hill. POOR FARMER.

Red Cloud should buy the Electric light plant so that the people would not have to depend on the freaks of the river in procuring light. The dam-river, we mean the dam in the river, goes out of its way every once in a while to overflow, and as a consequence the lights go out as the water is the propelling power.

The trees in the court-house park should be looked after by the proper committee, instead of allowing them to be shovelled to pieces by horses and cows. It would cost many times the amount it would take to care for them in order to replace them.
