Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osmond, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. Kincheloe, Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. Archer, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Inavale.

Jay, sweet jay, like a printed book,
Each day creeps on apace,
Since that penitentiary look
Has left Poor Farmer's face.

Mr. Will Orchard of Omaha, son of our townsman, R. K. Orchard, was visiting relatives and friends in Inavale the first of the week. He is traveling for an Omaha live stock commission house.

Miss Jessie Warren, our popular school teacher, spent Saturday and Sunday visiting friends in Riverton.

Inavale now has a B. & M. eating house run by Mr. "Jeff" Davis. Hot meals served at all hours of the day or night.

The defeat of the free silver bill by the house lets the republican senate out of a rather interesting difficulty and strengthens the republican party. We're marching on to victory. Do you hear our heavy tread? The democratic party's fate is hanging by a thread; The independents soon will be numbered with the dead, for republicans as usual are coming out ahead.

W. N. Richardson shipped two cars of cattle from this place last Saturday.

From the looks of the plows and listers around the blacksmith shop 'twould seem as if the whole country were to be cultivated this year.

Mr. Chaplin, from near Bladen, has rented the Barker farm and is moving thereon. Mr. Chaplin is a good farmer and a good neighbor and we welcome him into our midst.

The "original and only" Harry Pond was looking after business and friends in Inavale one day last week.

The broom factory is idle, cause, no broom-corn; meanwhile houses are going unswept.

Miss Myrtle Sawyer commenced a term of school in West Inavale last Monday, having finished her term in East Inavale the previous Friday.

Jim Vance accompanied Richardson's live stock to Omaha last Sunday. Immediately after he left, "Dennis"—who has a tender heart and always looks after the innocent—telegraphed the chief of police of that city to look after him and keep the confidence men from taking him in, also to send him back in five day.

Arthur Wolcott has departed the Vale, having gone to Iowa to learn the meat business.

He's gone to be a butcher, and with the butchers stand,
A beefsteak on his block and a cleaver in his hand,
He'll carve up porterhouse and picket piggy's feet,
While tail and ears he'll grind together, and thus make both ends—"hot sausage."

The Three Voices.

VOICE I.
"No one who is sane and well
And tries to live by the golden rule,
Should help his chance of going to H—l
By parleying with a fool."

VOICE II.
"A fool, you say, that's too flip,
Would you call an onion fruit?"
The man who stuns himself as 'Clip'
Is lower than a common brute."

VOICE III.
"Hush!" an older man was saying,
"It's better to let these things slip,
An ass is known by his braying,
The same as this man called 'Clip.'"

April 22d is Arbor day. Every school that is in session shall recognize it by having appropriate literary exercises, and by planting trees and shrubbery upon the grounds. Selections may be obtained from the best authors, and suitable programs may be found in educational journals.

By the proper observance of Arbor day a stronger public sentiment may be created in opposition to that detestable kind of vandalism so noticeable in our public parks and cemeteries in the mutilation of trees, shrubbery, etc.

Children need some lessons that will create in them a greater interest in the improvement of public, and private property than that at present manifested by their parents.

It is discouraging to pupils and to their teachers to observe Arbor Day by planting trees to make the school grounds more attractive and beautiful, to find their labor rewarded by having some one mow the trees and flowers, drive over them with a wagon, or cut them off with a pocket knife, or hear their parents object to fencing the school grounds, to see the school board neglect caring for the trees during vacation, and to behold, the next year, the school grounds as bare as they were before the trees were planted.

Several Arbor Days have been observed, but not more than four or five districts in this county have anything to show for the effort put forth by teachers and pupils.

When will school officers and patrons lend a helping hand to preserve what their children do toward public improvement?

Surely the dwelling places of the children from six to nine months of the year should be made attractive for them.

Let patrons commence now to fence the school grounds about the houses that are permanently located, plant some trees, shrubbery, and flowers about them, so that those living in present and those who will live in the future may enjoy them.

Each Webster county paper will soon be requested to print an excellent circular on Arbor Day, issued by the State Superintendent of Public Instruction.

The Red Cloud schools are having vacation this week.

Miss Jessie Warren, teacher of the Inavale school, is spending vacation at home this week.

On last Saturday, Miss Ellen VanWert, closed a successful term of school in district number 10.

About eleven o'clock the patrons of the school assembled at the school-house, tables were constructed by placing boards upon the desks. Soon a feast of good things was enjoyed by all. After this an interesting literary program was rendered by the pupils.

This district is one in which teacher pupils, and patrons co-operate with one another in carrying on the grand work of education.

In a visit to the school, one could see a neat clean school room, pleasant surroundings, and happy industrious children.

That teacher, pupils, and patrons may work together in harmony in every district of this county, is earnestly desired.

RED CLOUD'S BANK FAILURE

It Results in Heavy Suits Against Its Former Owners.

LINCOLN, Neb., March 28.—[Special Telegram to the Bee.]—One of the largest and most important law suits ever filed in Lancaster county occupied the attention of Judge Field to-day. It involves financial transactions between Mary Upton, J. M. Chase and Charlena Chase on one side and J. W. Sherwood and J. P. Albright on the other. The plaintiffs sue the last two parties for the sum of $22,500 which amount they allege they were induced to pay for the Red Cloud National Bank upon the representation that it was in a sound financial condition.

Soon after they purchased the bank however, it was closed up by a receiver. They claim to have also been deceived in the matter of the collateral of the electric light company, which afterwards proved to be worthless. They also seek to recover some Lincoln city property which was turned over in part payment.

The defendants allege that the matter in dispute was purely a legal transaction, and that the plaintiffs entered into the arrangement with a complete knowledge of the state of affairs and exact condition of the bank at Red Cloud.

The case will be hotly contested, and is being watched with interest by many business men of the city of Lincoln.
