Holpless for Years and Excluded from Hospitals as Incurable.

The Remarkable Experience of Charles Quant as Investigated by an Albany (N. Y.) Journal Reporter - A Story of Surpassing Interest.

[Albany (N. Y.) Journal, March 4th.1 SARATOGA, March 4th. - For some time past there have been reports here and elsewhere in Saratoga county of a most remarkable-indeed, so remarkable as to be miraculous-cure of a most severe case of locomotor ataxia, or creeping paralysis, simply by the use of a popular remedy known as "Pink Pills for Pale People," prepared and put up by the Dr. Will ams Medicine Company, Morristown, N. Y., and Brockville, Ont. The story was to the effect that Mr. Chas. A. Quant, of Galway, who for the last six or eight years has been a great sufferer from creeping paralysis and its attendant ills, and who had become utterly powerless of all self-help, had, by the use of a few boxes of the Pink Pills for Pale People, been so fully restored to health as to be able to walk about the street without the aid of crutches, The fame of this wonderful, miraculous cure was so great that the Evening Journal reporter thought it worth his while to go to Galway to call on Mr. Quant to learn from his lips, and from the observation and testimony of his neighbors, if his alleged cure was a fact or only an unfounded rumor. And so he drove to Galway and spent a day and a night there in visiting Mr. Quant, getting his story and interviewing his neighbors and fellow-townsmen. It may be proper to say that Galway is a pretty little village of about 490 people, delightfully located near the center of the town of Galway, in Saratoga county, and about 17 miles from Saratoga Springs. Upon inquiry the residence of Mr. Charles A. Quant was easily found, for everybody seemed to know him, speak well of him, and be overflowing with surprise and satisfaction at his wonderful cure and restoration to the activities of enterprising citizenship, for Mr. Quant was born in Galway and had spent most of his opens I expect to be able to renew my life there. About eight years ago I began to feel distress in my stomach and consulted several doctors about it. They all said it was dyspepsia, and for dyspepsia I was treated by various doctors in different places, and took all the patent medicines I could hear of that claimed to be a cure for dyspepsia. But I continued to grow gradually worse for four years. Then I began have pain in my back and legs and became conscious that my legs were getting weak and my step unsteady, and then I staggered when I walked. Having received no benefit from the use of patent medicines, and feeling that I was constantly growing worse, I then, upon advice, began the use of electric belts, pads and all the many different kinds of electric appliances I could hear of, and spent hun-dreds of dollars for them, but they did me no good. (Here Mr. Quant showed the Journal reporter an electric suit of underwear for which he paid $124). In the fall of 1888 the doctors advised a change of climate, so I went to Atlanta, Ga., and acted as agent for the Estey Organ Company. While there I took a thorough electric treatment, but it only seemed to aggravate my disease, and the only relief I could get from the sharp and distressing pains was to take makes a course of treatment comparamorphine. The pain was so intense at tively inexpensive as compared with times that it seemed as though I could other remedies, or medical treatment times that it seemed as though I could not stand it, and I almost longed for death as the only certain relief. In September of 1888 my legs gave out entirely and my left eye was drawn to one side, so that I had double sight and was dizzy. My trouble so affected my whole nervous system that I had to give up business. Then I re-turned to New York and went to the Roosevelt hospital, where for four months I was treated by specialists and they pronounced my case locomotor ataxia and incurable. After I had been under treatment by Prof. Starr and Dr. Ware for four months, they told me they had done all they could for me. Then I went to the New York hospital on Fifteenth street, where, upon examination, they said I was incurable and would not take me in. At the Presbyterian hospital they examined me and told me the same thing. In March, 1890. I was taken to St. Peter's hospital in Albany, where Prof. H. II. Hun frankly told my wife my case was hopeless; that he could do nothing for me and that she had better take me back home and save my money. But I wanted to make a trial of Prof. Hun's famous skill and I remained under his treatment for nine weeks; but secured no benefit. All this time I had been growing worse.

I had become entirely paralyzed from trol of my hands. The pain was terrible; my legs felt as though they were freezing and my stomach would not retain food, and I fell away to 120 pounds. In the Albany hospital they put 17 big burns on my back one day with red-hot irons and after a few days they put 14 more burns on and treated me with electricity, but I got worse rather than better; lost control of my bowels and water, and upon advice of the doctor, who said there was no hope for me, 1 was brought home, where it was thought that death would soon come to relieve me of my sufferings. Last September, while in this helpless and suffering condition, a friend of mine in Hamilton, Ont., called my attention to the statement of one John Marshall, whose case had been similar to my own, and who had been cured by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People.

"In this case Mr. Marshall, who is a prominent member of the Royal Templars of Temperance, had after four years of constant treatment by the most eminent Canadian physicians been pronounced incurable, and was paid the $1,000 total disability claim allowed by the order in such cases. Some months after Mr. Marshall began a course of treatment with Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and after taking some 15 boxes was fully restored to health.

"I thought I would try them and my wife sent for two boxes of the pills and took them according to the directions given on the wrapper on each box. For the first few days the cold baths were pretty severe, as I was so very weak, but I continued to follow instructions as to taking the pills and treatment, and even before I had used up the two boxes of pills

I began to feel beneficial effects from them. My pains were not so bad; food began to relish and agree with me: to come back into my limbs; I began to be able to get about on crutches; my eye came back again as good as ever, and now, after the use of eight boxes of the pills-at a cost of only $4.00-see!-I can with the help of a cane only, walk all about the house and yard, can saw wood, and on pleasant days I walk downtown. My stomach trouble is gone; I have gained 10 pounds; I feel like a new man, and when the spring organ and piano agency. I cannot speak

The remarkable result from the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in the case of Mr. Quant, induced the reporter to make further inquiries concerning them, and he ascertained that they are not a patent medicine in the sense in which that term is generally used, but a highly scientific preparation, the re-sult of years of study and careful exeases depending upon a watery condi-tion of the blood or shattered nerves.

THE YOUNG IDEA.

It Scores a Bull's-eye in a Scholastic Shoot ing Match. The school teacher had invited his oratorical friend to visit his school and while there he addressed the scholars. His remarks were histrionic and in the course of them he ran across Julius

"It was a time of tumult in Rome, the Eternal City-you all know where Rome is, children," he said, "and Cæsar was away in the north fighting. He knew a strong hand and a brave heart were needed there, but none dared to make the momentous step and he hesitated to rush where others feared to tread. Beyond the Rubicon Cæsar heard the din of discord and at last he came down to the banks of that classic stream and looked toward the capital city. To march thither meant victory or death and Cæsar crossed the Rubicon. Yes. children, the die was cast and Casar crossed the Rubicon. And why did he cross the Rubicon? I ask you children, wrong, why he crossed the Rubicon?

"I know," piped a youngster, interrupting the orator. "I know; he wanted to git over on BUTTER-Creamery...... 20 @ 29 my waist down and had partly lost con- the other side."-Detroit Free Press.

STATE BOUNDARIES.

Not Infrequently Difficulties Arise Concerning Them.

After one of the Emperor Napoleon's great victories the English prime minister, looking at a map of Europe, said mournfully, "Roll up the map; it will not be wanted these ten years."

What he meant was that it would be ten years before the fighting over the boundaries of the European states came to an end. And in fact these boundaries have been fought over since then for nearly eight times ten years, and are likely to be still further and radically altered in the coming decades.

This fact makes it interesting to ask how the states of our own Union came to fix their boundaries, and how claims which often conflicted were peaceably adjusted.

When territories are admitted nowadays as states, like Washington, or North and South Dakota, the answer is easy. The United States government controls the land originally, and congress fixes the limits both of the territory and of the state or states created from it.

But the situation of the eastern states at the start was very different. When their boundaries were first defined, they were colonies unconnected with and often hostile to one another. Nearly all of them based their claims to territory on vague grants from English kings to explorers, colonial companies, or royal favorites. As the interior land was almost without value and little sought after, and as the sea coast was the only important district, the grants were drawn with great carelessness.

For instance, the original grant for the colony of Connecticut included a I felt warmer; my head felt better; my strip of land from Long Island Sound to the Pacific ocean. Subsequently a I could straighten up; the feeling began part of the same land, together with territory given long before to Massachusetts and New Hampshire, were included in the grant to New York.

Examples of rival claims to territory might be given almost by the score. What is now Vermont was claimed by New York and New Hampshire; Ohio was claimed by Connecticut and Virglnia, and there were other disputes as to territory in the south.

The wholesale Connecticut grant made trouble as far west as Ohio, where until the year 1800 the New England state owned .all the land along Lake nearly opposite the academy. Pennsylvanis and Maryland quarreled so bitterly over their boundary that bloodshed of rival claimaats on the border was of constant occurrence, but the dispute was settled finally in 1767 by the running of "Mason and Dixon's line," famous a century later as the boundary between freedom and

In some states the discovery of mistakes in generally accepted boundary lines has transferred important towns the high character of Mr. Quant, and of from one state to another For inverifying the story of his recovery from stance, the citizens of Pawacket were counted in Bristol county Massachu-setts, until 1861, when a new survey transferred Pawtucket to phode Island, while a part of the now great manufacturing city of Fall River, until then supposed to be in Rhose Island, was handed over to Massachusetta.

Even with the accurate surveys of to-day, disputes arise on the same perplexing question. Ohly and Indiana still hold rival and unattled boundary sult of years of study and careful experiment. They have no rival as a blood builder and nerve restorer and have met with unparalleled success in the treatment of such diseases as paralysis, rheumatism, sciatica, St. Vitus dance, palpitation of the heart, that tired feeling which affects so many, and all diseases depending upon a watery condition of the blood or shattered nerves. these days.
