Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

Dr. G. C. Osgood,
Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."

Dr. J. F. KIRCHELOE,
Conway, Ark.

Castoria.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me."

H. A. ANONIA, M. D.,
111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"Our physicians in the children's department have spoken highly of their experience in their outside practice with Castoria, and although we only have among our medical supplies what is known as regular products, yet we are free to confess that the merits of Castoria has won us to look with favor upon it."

Republican Senatorial Convention.

The republicans of Nuckolls, Franklin and Webster counties will meet in convention, at the court-house in Red Cloud on Thursday, Aug. 11, at 2 p. m. for the purpose of nominating a candidate for senator for 26th district. The counties are entitled to the following representation:

Webster.....10
Franklin.....6
Nuckolls.....8

C. F. CATHER, Sec'y.
W. FOSTER, Chairman.

Senator Paddock's Position.

Senator Paddock refuses to worry himself over the apparent attempts recently made in some quarters of Nebraska to question his republicanism. I showed him this afternoon two clippings from state papers which assailed him vigorously for his vote on agreeing to the conference report on the McKinley bill and his attitude toward the Stewart silver bill which recently passed the senate. The senator said: "The parties who are criticising my action on these two economic questions will find it very difficult to drive me out of the republican party. I have never but once voted anything but the republican ticket, and for fifteen years have voted an open ticket at the polls. I am a republican and in line with republican policy, as I have always been. I have reserved to myself, what is the right of every republican, the right to struggle for my own interpretation of party declarations on certain economic questions, but I have always stood firmly for the basic principles upon which these declarations were founded."

"Did I vote against the McKinley bill? Certainly not; I fought with a united west to have that bill as it came from the house modified in accordance with the tariff plank of the republican platform of 1888 and aided in securing material changes in the bill as it passed the senate. I voted for, instead of against the bill as it left the senate, and when it was returned from the conference committee did my best to have it drawn into a second conference in order that further modifications in the line of western demands might be made. Had I received the expected republican support a second conference would, I am certain, have given the country a bill even more satisfactory than that which became a law."

His Course was Approved

"My efforts on this line received the encouragement and approbation of the most distinguished and eminent living republican. I do not need to mention his name. I have no apologies to offer for my position and work on the McKinley bill. I was in favor generally of the bill but desired certain modifications which I believe to be for the interests of our section. I placed myself clearly on record as a staunch protectionist but I did not and do not believe that loyalty to protection necessarily requires me to take, as the proper measure of protection, the views of senatorial associates not as well fitted as myself to know how their application would affect my section. I am for the bill now as it stands until a republican congress can improve it."

"How about silver?"
"I was paired on the final passage of the silver bill," said the senator. "If my pair, Senator Gibson, had been present I should have voted against the bill as it was finally formulated. What I favored and voted for and should vote for again was the substitute proposed which provided for the coinage of the American product. I felt, however, that owing to the pending international monetary conference a delay in the time at which the bill should go into effect would be advisable and so voted for Senator Allison's amendment postponing the date, and afterwards offered two amendments myself on the same line. I felt that the free coinage of the product of American mines would be a far better solution of the silver problem than the present law, which is proving unsatisfactory to both camps. I had reason to believe that such a bill would more nearly have met the views of the Treasury department and the administration in the Fifty-first congress than the measure which became a law. But I did not approve the silver bill as it finally passed, for which I am accused of voting, and had Senator Gibson been present should have voted against it. So much for silver. But I confess I have been too much occupied in looking after the material interests of my constituents to make politics a specialty. My rule has been business first and politics afterwards."

Republican Clubs.

THE CHIEF desires to say that every live and enthusiastic republican in Webster county, should at once interest himself in seeing that a republican league club be organized in every school district in the county. Now is the time to form in line. Let some republican start the move. THE CHIEF will cheerfully furnish any information needed and will also aid in getting speakers for you whenever possible. Get your clubs formed early and have them in trim.

A. CONOVER, Agt.

Please remember that the tariff robs the people because "it is always added to the cost to make the price." Steel billets sell in England for $20.60 per ton; with the tariff added the price here would be $29.64 but every man who has read the Homestead history knows that the price of steel billets here is now $22, and not $29.64. And the average wages of the workmen who produce them in England is $1 per day and here it is $3 per day. That is another way the tariff is robbing the people."
