THE WORST YET

Arrival of the Scandia After a Terrible Passage.

THIRTY-TWO DEATHS FROM CHOLERA

Dr. Jenkins and All New York Alarmed—The Hamburg Company Has Now Six Vessels Quarantined—Another to Come.

QUARANTINE, N. Y., Sept. 10.—At 1:15 o'clock this morning Dr. Jenkins received the following from Swinburne Island over the cable, signed by Dr. Byron:

"Have visited the Scandia, which arrived at midnight, and find the total number of passengers 1,098—cabin 28, steerage 981, crew 77. On the voyage there were thirty-two deaths, of which there were twenty-nine in steerage, one in cabin and two among the crew. I am starting in our tug Crystal Water to transfer seven cases stricken with the plague to the hospital here on Swinburne Island."

The Scandia sailed from Hamburg on August 25 and was due here yesterday. It was variously reported that she had about 900 steerage passengers and it has been expected that she would be held over with the plague ridden Hamburg-American steamers.

The worst fears are more than realized. No such mortality as that which Capt. Koff has been compelled to report has heretofore been recorded during the present reign of the plague. The Hamburg-American company now has six ships under the ban of the health officers, viz.: The Moravia, Rugia, Normannia, Wieland, Stubbenhuk and the Scandia.

The terrible report certainly justifies the fears of the health officer and also his great anxiety to provide a safe refuge for the souls that as yet still retain health aboard the vessels at the lower rodstead.

The feelings of those on the ships that have been detained for a week when they saw the transfer boat speed to and fro between Swinburne Island to the Scandia this morning may better be imagined than described. The moving tug tells a story, the horror of which is increased ten fold because they cannot know the exact truth. What the daylight hours this morning may produce none can tell, but that the Scandia is all that has been feared no one will deny.

Dr. Jenkins was awakened to receive the news and give it to the few newspaper men about. Others in bed were soon summoned in haste to send the grievous tidings to their papers.

Several days since Dr. Jenkins was presented a cablegram by the agents of the line stating that another of their ships, the Bohemia, left Hamburg August 31 with 670 steerage passengers, all having been isolated from five to eight days and that the steerage and baggage were disinfected. In spite of this telegram the Bohemia will now be an additional source of anxiety, and it is safe to say that as she is an old ship like the Moravia and Scandia, the health officer will not pass her without the most rigid scrutiny and an extended detention for observation.

Dr. Jenkins was clad only in his dressing gown when he met the reporters and the look of care that shrouded his face when he said there was nothing he could add by way of comment, showed all too plainly his belief that the battle had only begun.

Deputy Seguire, who had also retired for the night, when apprised of the fact of thirty-two deaths on the Scandia, exclaimed: "This is a perfect epidemic and I apprehend grave results." "The Scandia," he said, "is a sister ship to the Moravia and Rugia now in lower quarantine and as her list shows carries almost wholly steerage passengers."

In his interview with the reporters in the early evening Dr. Jenkins said in answer to a question that he expected no news from the Scandia before morning, and while his general fears regarding this ship have been well known there was nothing in his looks or tone that gave any inkling that he anticipated news like that which has broken his night's repose.

Political Notes.
Senator Perkins and ex-Gov. Anthony spoke to the republicans at Washington, Kan.

The republicans of the First Arkansas district have nominated Jacob Trieber, of Helena, to represent the district in congress.

M. T. Payne, candidate of the people's party for state senator, has been endorsed by the democrats of Douglas and Jefferson counties, Kan.

The democrats of Kearney county, Kan., have nominated their first full county ticket. It is headed by Judge Mansfield Young for representative.

William E. Sharon, member of the national republican committee for Nevada, has written to M. H. De Young, acting chairman of the executive committee, resigning as a member of the committee. He says that owing to his views on the silver question he cannot remain on the committee.

Official returns of the Arkansas election have been received from twenty-one counties. They give Fishback, democrat, for governor a majority over both Whipple, republican, and Carnahan, populist, of 7,631. At this rate Fishback's majority in the state will exceed 30,000. It is believed that the poll tax amendment has been defeated.

The Largest Steamship in the World.
LONDON, Sept. 10.—The Campana, the largest steamship in the world, was launched on the Clyde today. The Campana was built for the Cunard Steamship Co.'s New York and Liverpool service. Lady Burns christened the ship in the usual form.

J. M. Sullivan, formerly one of the wealthiest cattlemen in the west, was found dead and dragging to his cart near Abilene, Tex.

SITUATION GRAVE.

Much Anxiety at New York Over the Cholera Situation—Condition of the Quarantined Vessels.

QUARANTINE, Sept. 9.—The cholera situation at quarantine is no doubt very grave. Not only are new cases breaking out every day among the steerage passengers of the ill-fated Normannia and Rugia, the former of whom are on Hoffman Island, but it has now settled well among the crew of the big express steamer who are now on board. If anything can be added to the horror of the situation it is the fact that the cabin passengers, who have been free from any sign of the disease, are kept like rats in a trap enclosed within the sides of the steamer with the cholera raging alongside them.

"No ship to put them on, no place where I can land them," says the health officer.

POSITION OF THE QUARANTINED STEAMSHIPS IN THE LOWER BAY.

officer, while the agents whose duty it is to see the passengers cared for say nothing. Dr. Jenkins has made strenuous exertions to obtain a place to put the well passengers, but up to the present he has been unsuccessful. Yesterday he thought he had everything arranged. On his return from the lower bay, where he had been with ex-Surgeon-General Hamilton to visit the site of the encampment, Dr. Jenkins announced to the reporters that all arrangements had been made. Everything appeared to be plain sailing, but a gentleman whose friends were on the steamer had shown the correspondent of the Associated Press a telegram to Austin Corbin from Secretary Tracy, stating that the use of Sandy Hook had been refused. On seeing Dr. Jenkins shortly after he had gone to his office and had opened his correspondence he was asked if it was true. After slight hesitation Dr. Jenkins handed him the following telegram:

New York, Sept. 8.—I am exceedingly sorry to get a dispatch from the war department saying it has refused to the secretary of the treasury the use of Sandy Hook for the cabin passengers. Of course this blocks any attempt on our part to erect barracks there. I had the timber and it was being loaded and it would have been at Sandy Hook this evening. A large force had been engaged, including all from Long Island railway, and it is quite too bad that we cannot bring relief in the form proposed.

I am sure, however, that the energy and good judgment displayed by you from the beginning will relieve the very uncomfortable, if not perilous, condition of the good people.

BANDITS AT WORK.
An Attempt to Rob a Santa Fe Train in the Indian Territory Decried by the Engineer.

GUTHRIE, Ok., Sept. 9.—The north bound Santa Fe passenger train was held up at Wharton, I. T., at 9 o'clock last evening by five masked men. The engineer and fireman were compelled to get down from the engine and accompany the robbers to the express car. While on the way back to the car the conductor was made prisoner and also forced to accompany the gang.

The messenger was called upon to surrender, but refused, and the robbers immediately began firing through the car.

While this was going on the engineer, fireman and conductor slipped away from their captors and got on the train. The engineer immediately started up and left the robbers standing on the side of the track firing at the receding train.

The attempt is attributed to the Dalton gang, but the work was more like that of novices, and it is supposed that the bandits were new at the business or they would not have allowed their prisoners to get away.

EIGHT MEN KILLED.
Terrible Collision on the Clearfield & Cambria in Pennsylvania.

ALTOONA, Pa., Sept. 9.—Eight men were killed and three fatally hurt in a collision on the Clearfield & Cambria railroad at 6 o'clock last evening. A work train met an up bound passenger train in a deep cut near Eckenrode's mill. The cut was filled with wreckage. Engineer C. W. Ferry and Fireman L. Parish, of the passenger, were taken out dead.

The engineer and fireman of the work train jumped and escaped with slight injuries. Six foreigners, members of the work crew, were killed. Their names are unobtainable.

Daniel Dougherty's Funeral.
PHILADELPHIA, Sept. 9.—Funeral services over the remains of Daniel Dougherty were held at St. John's Roman Catholic church. The church was crowded with friends of the dead barrister. The pall-bearers were: George W. Childs, Gen. Daniel E. Sickles, Anthony Drexel, John Russell Young, ex-Judge Correll Brewer, E. H. Hanson, Col. Francis Grilly and Edward Shippen. Rev. Father Crowley was the celebrant of the mass. Archbishop Ryan, who was one of Mr. Dougherty's most intimate friends, delivered the sermon and spoke eloquently of the many virtues of the deceased.

THE GHOST CAME.

How a Poker Party Was Broken Up at a Critical Moment.

The quiet of this unusually peaceful locality has recently been rudely disturbed, and that, too, in an apparently unearthly way, sufficiently startling to scare the stoutest unbeliever. The scene of the spiritual visitation is an old saloon on the river road to Corville, long since deserted by all save rats and beetles.

A year ago the house had the reputation of being haunted, but nothing definite was known about it, and since the stage line quit using that road the place has been untenanted. Recently passers-by have said that they saw lights in the building of the conventional ghostly blue, and heard a hoarse, choked voice singing and laughing late at night, but the knowing ones merely winked the other eye and said "tramps," and that seemed to settle it.

Bert West and Bob Follett, two Thermanito boys, were out hunting ducks, and on their way home late in the evening were overtaken by the rain. Stumbling along in the inky darkness they ran against the old stage station. Being newcomers they didn't know the ghostly reputation of the house and accordingly they entered. Striking a match they found a candle on the old counter, and finding the place dry and comfortable and being well provided with lunch they decided to stay until morning.

From half a dozen packs of cards scattered about the floor they made up a full pack and proceeded to play poker. Bob had been having hard luck, but had just dealt himself a hand of three aces and a pair of kings when a blast of cold air blew through the place and extinguished their candle.

To their astonishment the room did not become dark, but was filled with a pale light, in which all the objects in the room were plainly visible. In this peculiar light they could see a figure attired in shirt and overalls lying on the lounge apparently asleep.

While they looked they saw a trap door in the middle of the room rise slowly up and out of the cavity below climbed a Chinaman. The heathen was thin almost to skeleton leanness. His eyes glared and his face, as he saw the figure on the lounge, assumed an expression almost devilish. He was almost naked, having only a few rags hanging about him, and tottered with weakness as he stealthily made his way across the floor. In his right hand he carried a piece of iron rudely fashioned to the shape of a knife.

While the two paralyzed boys watched him he made his way to the sleeper on the lounge and struck savagely and repeatedly with his knife at the throat and breast of the man before him. With a choking cry the sleeper awoke, grappled with the Chinaman and threw him to the floor, stamping on him with his feet savagely after he had fallen. Then, after standing a moment with the blood spurting from his wounds, he gave vent to a horrible choking laugh and fell, apparently dead, to the floor.

As he fell the light faded out and the two boys regained enough strength to betake themselves speedily from the building, leaving their guns and bag of game to be recovered later. They arrived at Thermanito late that night and next day went back after their property, which they found just as they had left it. Even in daylight they did not remain in the building longer than necessary, but noticed as they came out that there was a trap door where they had seen the ghost emerge the previous night.—San Francisco Examiner.

New Summer Hats.
Recent importations of summer hats foreshadow a change of shape, giving greater length of brim at the back to fall over the low braided chignon which is being adopted by Parisiennes. The hair is waved on the sides, and drawn down over the top of the ears in a quaint old fashion that is not becoming to many faces, and is certainly very warm-looking for midsummer.—Harper's Bazar.

Bound to Tell the Truth.
"What happened 400 years ago this year?" asked Freddie's teacher. "Don't know," answered Freddie. "I'm only seven years old."—Demorest's Magazine.

"It is a test of politeness for a man to listen with interest to things he knows all about, when they are being told by a person who knows nothing about them."—Boston Bulletin.
