G. M. CASTER,) C. F. CATHER, Com. . H. E. POND,

Is the sad story of many lives made miserable through no fault of their own. Scrofula is more especially than any other a hereditary disease, and for this simple reason: Arising from impure and insufficient blood, the disease locates itself in the lympatics, which are composed of white tissue; there is a period of foetal life when the whole body consists of white tissues, and therefore the unborn child is especially susceptible to this dreafful disease. But there is a remedy for scorfula, whether hereditary or acquired. It is nood's Sarsaparilla, which by its powerful effect on the blood, expels all trace of the disease and gives to the vital fluid the quality and color of health. If you decide to take nood's Sarsaparilla do not accept any substitute.

I could not help wondering if it was any more complicated than the political machine of which we hear so much.
