ANDREWS-McKEIGHAN.

The 9th Debate Takes Place in this City Thursday.

8000 PEOPLE PRESENT.

On last Thursday, Red Cloud was alive with politicians of all classes sizes and conditions, and thousands of men and women who had pilgrimaged here for the purpose of hearing the last of nine joint debates between Hon. W. E. Andrews and Hon. W. A. McKeighan.

Early in the morning crowds began pouring in from the four points of the compass, until an immense crowd filled out every available space.

The Red Cloud Republican club went to each train and secured the visiting republican clubs, numbering about 1000, and in addition to that number fully 4000 more republican voters from the county were on the grounds and the parade must have had two or three thousand people in line.

After parading the streets for an hour, (the republicans on one side and the independents on the other) all repaired to the grand stand where the opposing elements seated themselves for the purpose of hearing the speakers.

There were not enough seats by half to accommodate the people and hundreds stood up and tipped around to catch sight of the speakers.

About two o'clock Mr. Andrews was introduced by Chairman McPhoel, and immediately that gentleman took up his theme and proceeded to show up the Slimy condition of the platform and statements upon which Mr. McKeighan and his party hopes to gain control of the various offices of the Nation, state and county.

For more than an hour Mr. Andrews poured hot shot into his adversary, and asked him numerous questions that were of vital importance to the people, but Mr. McKeighan studiously avoided answering one of them, but showed the white feather by efforts on his part to make the people believe that he had done something for the people, when in fact he was not able to get one bill through the committee in the house, of which he was friendly terms, it being largely democratic.

He talked about the old soldiers and pensions, and how much he had done for them and the old soldier he had done for them.

His arguments, were entirely based upon free trade and the various harangues that he had constantly used in his public speeches since we have known him.

Mr. Andrews asked him to state upon what platform he stood but he only smiled a sickly smile and said he would draw up the independent platform.

The facts are he is afraid to tell where he stands, if he should, his name would be done. After he had harangued the audience for an hour and thirty minutes, Mr. Andrews again took the stand and loud applause, and proceeded to demolish Mr. McKeighan's entire speech and he did it very nicely.

Although his speech Mr. Andrews treated Mr. McKeighan fairly, and we were unable to hear one word that was disrespectful to any one, on the part of Mr. Andrews.

The meeting from a republican standpoint was a grand success and will be the means of giving the county to Mr. Andrews on the 8th of November. It is estimated that there were fully one-third more republicans than of opposing parties.

Large delegations were present of both parties from various towns, in and out of the county.

Talking about men who have been identified with the interests of the people, brings to mind the fact that each and every candidate on the republican ticket has been an earnest advocate of such laws as would alleviate any and all hardships that might have existed in the past or may come up in the future.

In fact the republican party has ever been the friend of the laborer, mechanic, farmer and artisan, and has stood between that class of people and those who would crush them.

The howl made that both old parties are rotten may apply to the democratic party, but it is not applicable to the republican party, which has been uppermost in the last 30 years in enacting laws that has made this country the best on earth to live in.

Catarrah in the head is a constitutional disease, and requires a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla, to effect a cure.

Calamity howling will not down in this county, when a farm of 160 acres sells for $4000 cash as did the McCorkle farm near Guide Rock the other day.

Do not forget to turn out and hear Senator C. F. Manderson and Hon. E. K. Valentine speak on the 27th in the opera house. Every republican and every voter should hear these men discuss the political issues. Stand up for Nebraska, the best state in the Union, and forever seal the cry of calamity, which does not exist in this state.

Every one is going to vote for Andrews Nov. 8, and thereby elect one of the best men ever nominated for congress in this district. The entire republican ticket will be elected in Nebraska. In Webster county the republican ticket will come out ahead and elect the entire county ticket and don't you forget it.

Says one of our independent exchanges: "New wine should be put into new bottles" speaking of the new party and giving it a reason that people should vote that ticket; but it omitted to say that wine is always the best when it is old, hence the republican party is better to-day and more useful because of its age, it has passed through trying ordeals and is the more able to legislate for the best interest of the whole people.

If the people of this district really and truly desire to cleanse the body politic, and want to cast their votes for a man who is the very embodiment of honesty, morality and sound judgment, with a bright intellect to back it, then they should cast their votes for the Hon. W. E. Andrews, the republican candidate for congress. No man can say ought of him, and say it honestly. It has been urged against him by designing men, that he is no politician, to that we might say, 'tis true, but two years ago, the populists or independents said they wanted men who were not in politics, and in Mr. Andrews they have a man who never dabbled in politics until nominated. Mr. McKeighan has been a politician for 30 years, and yet there are a few men who will vote for him. Cast your vote for Andrews and morality. McKeighan's followers are beginning to waiver, and now fear that McKeighan is going to get left next month. Well, their fears are all well grounded, for as sure as fate his chances for re-election are becoming less as the election approaches. There is no use talking Mr. Andrews is his superior in every way.

Catarrah in the Head. Is undoubtedly a disease of the blood, and as such only a reliable blood purifier can effect a perfect cure. Hood's Sarsaparilla is the best blood-purifier, and it has cured many very severe cases of catarrh. It gives an appetite and builds up the whole system.

Hood's Pills act especially upon the liver rousing it from torpidity to its natural duties, cure constipation and assist digestion.

King of Medicines

Scrofulous Humor—A Cure "Almost Miraculous."

"When I was 14 years of age I had a severe attack of rheumatism, and after I recovered had to go on crutches. A year later, scrofula, in the form of white swellings, appeared on various parts of my body, and for 11 years I was an invalid, being confined to my bed years. In that time ten or eleven sores appeared and broke, causing me great pain and suffering. I feared I never should get well."

"Early in 1886 I went to Chicago to visit a sister, but was confined to my bed most of the time I was there. In July I read a book, 'A Day with a Circus,' in which were statements of cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla. I was so impressed with the success of this medicine that I decided to try it. To my great gratification the sores soon decreased, and I began to feel better and in a short time I was up and out of doors. I continued to take Hood's Sarsaparilla for about a year, when, having used six bottles, I had become so fully released from the disease that I went to work for the Flint & Walling Mfg. Co., and since then

HAVE NOT LOST A SINGLE DAY on account of sickness. I believe the disease is expelled from my system, I always feel well, am in good spirits and have a good appetite. I am now 27 years of age and can walk as well as any one, except that one limb is a little shorter than the other, owing to the loss of bone, and the sores formerly on my right leg. To my friends my recovery seems almost miraculous, and I think Hood's Sarsaparilla is the king of medicines." WILLIAM A. LEHR, 9 N. Railroad St., Kendallville, Ind.

My First Day in a District School

(BY ALBERT N. WINSHIP.)

I was still in my teens when I entered the little way-side school-house, "away down East." I had graduated from the Bridgewater (Mass.) State Normal school, and had been five months in the army when, with only a single day at home, I started for the unromantic little neighborhood in Maine known as G—, where I was hailed as "the new schoolmaster." I was appointed at $20 a month, to pay my own board out of this amount.

I was on the ground Saturday night and was well looked over on Sunday by boys and girls, men and women. I was being "sized up" in the language of the day; but on the principle that "those who know nothing fear nothing" I was usually unconcerned. I had been well taught how to teach, and proposed to do it by rule.

Very early Monday morning I was up and sleigh-riding two miles to see the chairman of the town committee to be examined. It was not the custom to do this in advance. The town committee preferred to have one teach a few days first then if he was not a success it was an easy way of disposing of the new schoolmaster for the town committee to refuse a certificate. I had been taught, however, never to begin a school without a certificate in my pocket. The district committee man was quite annoyed that I insisted upon this document in advance. He regarded it as putting on airs, and styled it as one of the normal notions. But I did dread the examination. I realized even then the difference between saying what you please as you please when ever you have anything to say, and being obliged to say what another man asks you to say as he wishes you to say it when he requires it to be said. I did not then know as I now do that the ability to pass a good examination is proof of inability to do better things in better ways.

With no such concerns as appeared upon the surface, I entered, single-handed and alone, the presence of the august chairman of the town committee, who greeted me cordially and asked, "Are you a nephew of Deacon W—?" to which I proudly responded in the affirmative, and he proceeded to certify that "having passed a satisfactory examination in regard to intellectual attainments and moral qualifications," I was duly appointed to teach school in the town of G—, as much amused as relieved I rode back and walked through a group of boys and girls of all ages into the wee bit of a school-house under the hill. There was one lone abecedarian and a few straggling pupils in the lower "grades," but the great majority of the youths and maidens pretended to be in the higher classes.

All my theories of graduation were at once violated, but I had the good sense to relegate to their proper place theories did not apply, and began at once to interest, discipline and inspire the young people to try to fill the places had assumed to occupy. I had no special nervousness or anxiety about my first day. I knew I could "bank" for a few days at least upon reputation of my uncle, and my chief concern was to sustain myself.

I began by beginning. In half an hour I felt as if I had been there for months, and the only remark of the day that has had an abiding place in my memory was that of a lad who said at recess, "Seems to though you'd always been here,"—a compliment more appreciated than better phrased praise of later years.

I recall distinctly how conscience-stricken I was that first night to think that nothing had been done according to the note-book methods with which I was well equipped, and with a sigh of relief wrote a schoolmate at night, "Have enjoyed the day immensely, but thank goodness Mr.

will never drop in upon me here" It was not a "normal day," yet, but for the training and inspiration of Bridgewater, the day would never have had the characteristics which make it memorable with me. It did not then appear as it does now that the power prominent of a first-class professional school is not its training in its methods, or devices, but in the inspiration to establish personal professional ideals which adapt themselves to times and seasons, making one content with results and with results alone.

In April last, dining with the president of one of the leading banks of San Francisco, in his beautiful home, and inseparable companion in that first winter's teaching,—he said in reference to a recent address of mine upon "Modern Educational Methods," "How much better school would you teach to-day than we taught in 18—?" That is a question. Methods would infinitely better, but the spirit, the adaptability, the professional zeal, could never be again what they were when I was within a year of the tonic of a normal school in which there was no variability or shadow of turning from the loftiest professional ideals. We were undoubtedly concocted, but it was the conceit of purpose and not of attainments.—Golden Rule.

Wright's Health Underwear.

Non-Irritating. Always Soft.

And more durable than the ordinary knit.

New York, 1892.

To the Trade and the Consumer:

In submitting to you the "Wright's Health Underwear" we desire calling special attention to their SANITARY QUALITIES.

The garments absorb the perspiration as rapidly as emitted through the pores of the skin and carry it to the surface of fabric where it is evaporated, thereby preventing the body from being suddenly chilled by atmospheric changes and guarding the wearer against colds, la grippe, pneumonia, rheumatism, etc.

The finest material is used in their manufacture, and for warmth, comfort and durability are unsurpassed.

The fleecing is woven in the fabric and is guaranteed not to wear off until the garment is thoroughly worn out. Use only ordinary care in washing fine woolsens.

Upon their merits alone we commend to you
