CURRENT COMMENT.

ART often goes begging for a good price. The auction of the Borgese art treasures at Rome on April 13 realized only 1,300,000 francs, a mere fraction of the real value of the articles sold.

It is not only in search, lots offered for sale nowadays commanding high prices. At a sale of some oak trees in Burghley park recently one tree, containing 150 square feet of lumber, sold for $400. A year ago an oak sold for $600.

THE postmaster-general has signed contracts with the International Navigation Co. for a weekly line of American built mail steamers between New York and Southampton, England, and another line between New York and Antwerp.

SPEAKING of force one is reminded that the largest steam hammer in the world is the huge piece of machinery in Woolwich arsenal, by means of which the monster Woolwich infants are forged. Its striking force is one thousand tons.

SENOR LUIS SAENZ PANA has taken the oath of office as president of the Argentine republic. All was quiet at Buenos Ayres despite the fears of trouble. Police and soldiers were on guard about the halls of congress and the whole city was well guarded and precautions were taken to prevent any rioting.

ALTHOUGH rumor says the Harpers will put Carl Schurz in the place made vacant on their Weekly by the death of Mr. Curtis, it is authoritatively given out that no successor to Curtis has yet been selected, either for the weekly or monthly. The same rumor that has selected Schurz to write politics for the weekly has named T. B. Aldrich for the easy chair of the monthly.

THE Paris correspondent of the London News, referring to the claim of the Corsican abbe, Casanova, that Columbus was born in the town of Calvi, in Corsica, says: "The pope, who appears to countenance the Calvi legend, authorized the celebration of a grand pontifical mass in the Calvi cathedral Wednesday. At that mass the abbe Casanova read a discourse in which he hailed Columbus as the benefactor of Europe."

GEORGIA seems to be prolific in geniuses for platform work. The latest development in that line down there is H. W. J. Ham, who has just dropped down from the mountains in the northern part of the state, and is drawing large and enthusiastic crowds as a stump speaker. His face is described to be that of a comedian, and his campaign arguments are almost entirely illustrative anecdotes. Everything reminds him of a story, and he is never at a loss for appreciative hearers.

SOME one asked Chauncey M. Depew the other day what it was that impressed him most on his summer trip over there and he unhesitatingly replied that it was the Passion Play at Ober-Ammergau. He had hobnobbed with dukes and princes, had climbed mountains, meditated by ancient tombs and suffered in the weariness of riding in the cooped up boxes in their railroad "carriages," and had sampled the English after dinner speech, but nothing was so interesting to him as the Passion Play.

SOME one who has kept up with the rise and fall of the great old Egyptian river says that the Nile has a fall of but six inches to the 1,000 miles. The overflow commences in June every year and continues until August, attaining an elevation of from twenty-five to twenty-six feet above low water mark, and flowing through the "valley of Egypt" in a turbulent body twelve miles wide. During the last 1,000 years there has been but one sudden rise of the Nile, that of 1829, when 30,000 people were drowned.

ONE after death, as in life, should be kept together as much as possible. Mme. Blavatsky's ashes are now placed in three fine brass urns. One of these reposes in the London headquarters of the Theosophical society in Avenue road, N. W. Another, having been transferred to India, has been placed in the headquarters at Madras. The third, under the keeping of Mr. Judge, the leader of the American theosophists, will shortly be placed in a niche covered with glass in the wall of the principal lodge in New York city.

By being "too prompt" one can become ridiculous, which is something the well bred man always finds to be extremely embarrassing. Queen Marguerite, of Italy, recently arrived in a town where great preparations had been made to do her honor, and, being offered some lunch, declined it and said that all she needed was a glass of water. The water being brought, she drank it and was about to take her handkerchief from her pocket to wipe her lips when the mayor, misinterpreting her action, bowed respectfully and said: "Your majesty need not trouble yourself. I can assure that the lunch is all paid for."

THEY are telling an amusing story about Richard Mansfield, the actor, who was not always as prosperous as he is now, and who has even tasted the cup of adversity very near to the dregs. In Boston, once upon a time, he asked a friend and admirer for a small loan, which was given to him with a little friendly advice. Mansfield was in very low spirits and his friend told him to brace up and have some style about him, bringing his trade to a climax with a "What sort of a man are you, anyhow?" "What sort of a man am I?" responded Mansfield, with a bitter smile; "I'm half Englishman and half starved."

THE WHEAT CROP.

SOME interesting statistics as to the world's wheat crop—figures from a Kansas City Paper.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 15.—The latest estimates of the world's crop of wheat, most of them being official, show that the aggregate is not materially different from the preliminary figures given in the Star three months ago. There is actually a shortage of some millions of bushels in the supplies of the world according to the most reliable figures of supply and demand and the present unparalleled depression in the wheat trade of the world is to the statisticians utterly inexplicable.

To the practical business men in the grain trade, however, it is simply a question of pressing present supplies and of an entire absence of any disposition anywhere in the world to buy wheat in large quantities for speculative purposes. If the figures of crops and of requirements are correct the present depression is certain to give way before the end of the cereal year to buoyancy and to advancing prices.

Three countries in Europe—Italy, Spain and England—have poorer crops this year than last. In the rest the crops are much better than last year, though many of them are not above the average.

France leads, with the greatest improvement. The French crop, according to the latest government estimate, is 500,500,000 bushels of very heavy wheat, against 214,500,000 bushels last year. France will require 40,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat. The rye crop is officially computed at 67,675,569 bushels, as compared with 59,569,513 bushels in 1891.

In Germany the wheat crop is estimated at 160,000,000 bushels, against 85,000,000 in 1891. The empire will require supplies from abroad of about 20,000,000 bushels. The German rye crop is satisfactory and seems to have reached 24,000,000 bushels.

The preliminary estimates of the crop of Austro-Hungary place the total yield this year at 170,000,000 bushels, against 168,000,000 bushels produced last year, permitting an exportation of about 8,000,000 bushels.

The Balkan peninsula, including Roumania, Bulgaria, Turkey in Europe, Bosnia, Serbia and Greece, has produced about 130,000,000 bushels, against 117,000,000 bushels last year. From these countries importing countries expect to obtain about 35,000,000 bushels.

Italy's returns published by the minister of agriculture estimate the wheat crop at about 110,850,000, against 124,000,000 in 1891. The deficit to be covered by importation will be about 32,600,000.

Russia, according to the latest official statistics, has a wheat crop which may be estimated at 215,000,000 bushels, against 187,000,000 in 1891. The quantity available for exportation will be not more than 60,000,000 bushels. The Russian rye crop appears, according to figures given by the Economist Francaise, to have yielded 596,000,000 bushels. Last year's rye crop was 520,000,000 bushels. The rye crop of Russia this year is 84,000,000 bushels below the average for eight years past, and as the average annual exports of rye for eight years were less than 50,000,000 bushels, it is apparent that Russia has this year hardly enough rye to supply her normal home demand.

The English wheat crop this year is not only one of the smallest ever produced, but the quality is uniformly bad. The London Times' estimate of the crop is 56,325,000 bushels, against 74,742,000 bushels last year, a shortage of 18,417,000 bushels. Notwithstanding England's extraordinary imports last year, aggregating 178,000,000 bushels, she will have to import this year fully 105,000,000 bushels to supply her normal demands and to have normal stocks at the end of the crop year.

The crop of Spain, according to the Bulletin des Halles, is 68,000,000 bushels, against 75,000,000 bushels last year. Spain and Portugal together will require 15,000,000 bushels of foreign wheat.

The wheat crops of Belgium, Holland, Denmark, Switzerland, Sweden and Norway, according to the latest trade estimates, aggregate 30,000,000 bushels, against 31,000,000 bushels last year, and these five countries will have to import 36,000,000 bushels of wheat.

If the above figures are correct Europe will have to cross oceans for at least 225,000,000 bushels of wheat. The surplus of India has already been exhausted and her exports have been 24,000,000 bushels. From the minor countries of the southern hemisphere she will not get more than 25,000,000 bushels, leaving 175,000,000 bushels to be supplied from this country and Canada. The United States will have to supply about 25,000,000 bushels of wheat to the West Indies and to South American countries so that there is demand upon her and her northern sister for 200,000,000 bushels of wheat. Canada can supply 15,000,000 bushels. Can the United States supply the remaining 185,000,000 bushels?

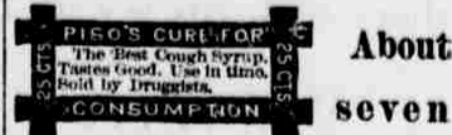

Her crop is 520,000,000 bushels, her home requirements are 370,000,000 bushels, leaving a surplus of 150,000,000 bushels.

A Confessed Scoundrel. CHICAGO, Oct. 15.—William A. Davis, of Toledo, O., while on the witness stand here confessed to conspiring for money to ruin the reputation of the wife of Charles J. Dietz, agent for a Cincinnati chemical company. According to Davis, the other conspirator was Dietz, whom the wife is now suing for divorce.

"August Flower"

"I have been afflicted with biliousness and constipation for fifteen years and first one and then another preparation was suggested to me and tried, but to no purpose. A friend recommended August Flower and words cannot describe the admiration in which I hold it. It has given me a new lease of life, which before was a burden. One day my husband went for the doctor, but he was not in his office. The druggist sent me a bottle of Piso's Cure for Consumption. I took two doses of it, and was greatly relieved before the doctor came. He told me to continue its use as long as it helped me. I did so, and the result is, I am now sound and well—entirely cured of Consumption.—Mrs. P. E. BAKER, Harrisburg, Illinois, February 20, 1891.
