GIVE THANKS.—Next Thursday November 30, is the day set apart by the President of the United States, and the various Governors, as a general day of thanksgiving. This is the event our forefathers recognized, and God in his infinite wisdom has perpetuated the blessings of enlightenment and freedom, we now enjoy so that we feel constrained when the day arrives, to adhere to the courtesy it demands. We are told of how in primitive life, the colonists at one time offered up thanks, when their food consisted of parched corn and nothing else. Yet these devout Christians thanked their maker for life, for health, for the preservation of strength and for the prospects of a successful future on this earth, and fervent hope and an undying promise of life eternal in the world to come. But what a bewildering contrast in then and now. This is Columbian year; the world's Columbian Exposition, the greatest fair the world has ever produced has taken place in the borders of our nation. Our own free country, the grandest and noblest on earth is arrayed in rich garments of prosperity, the fruits of truthful endeavors and enterprise, and proudly lifts her mighty head defying competition by any nation in the world. There have been adversities, trials, and perplexities, but we should be thankful there are no more. In some of the European countries today, thousands are dying of starvation, and while our incomes and provisions may not be as munificent as should be, let us be thankful for the many blessings we enjoy, from which our unfortunate fellow beings across the water are deprived. Real poverty in this part of our country is virtually unknown. Our supplies are exuberant compared to some, and more than this we have a promising future. Our country is broad, and there is lots of room for improvement, and each year shows some step in that direction. The edifying cause of education is being scrupulously advanced, and the gospel privileges are more substantial and effective. Verily we are to be thankful, and with sincerest gratitude we should observe Thanksgiving day.

Died, Walter Dene Smith son of F. L. and C. Smith.

About two weeks ago Dene was thrown from a horse and had his ribs broken, later he was kicked by a horse but he seemed to be getting well again, until Sunday, Oct. 23d. In the evening he said he did not feel well and went to bed. Mr. Smith sent for Dr. Damerall. He died about 4 o'clock a. m. Oct. 23d. He was buried at the Mt. Hope Cemetery. Rev. Horton preached the funeral sermon. The bereaved family have the sympathy of the entire community.

IN MEMORY OF DENE SMITH.

Husbandmen prune the brier never
But from valued trees good limbs sever,
Neither does he prize the tare
But plucks the flower most sweet and fair.
Dene's missed from home and school-room
Where he always loved to roam,
But we hope dear Dene has gained
In heaven a better home.

May we ever strive to meet him
In that home so free from pain,
And the veil that hides him from us
Will that day be rent in twain.
But we trust him with the dear ones
Who left us one by one;
With heartbroken anguish we murmur
Oh! God thy will be done. L. B.
