Catherton.

Julia Brule who has been suffering with the lung fever is some better at this writing.

Mr. Albert Rust and bride drove through these parts last Saturday.

Our weather forecaster, W. T. Foster described in last week's paper that the storm wave would cross here about the 7th or 11th, but it looked like it passed over Sunday morning about three or four o'clock; the wind being very strong and the rain fell in torrents for awhile; it did no damage to speak of.

The farmers are making haste, preparing for spring work, haste makes all things difficult; and he that riseth late must trot all day, and scarce overtakes his business at night; while laziness travels so slowly that poverty soon overtakes him.

Miss Blanche Cather spent Saturday evening with Rev. Geo. Kepler at Bladen.

Mr. Wm. Andrew of Batin attended church at Catherton last Sunday.

We understand there are a few boys who seem to take pride in fighting round the school house. We are informed there is good order in the school room. The board should be notified and make an example of them. The big boys will soon have to go to school now and then the little ones will get along better.

A good time was reported at the spelling school Friday night, especially by the big scholars and outsiders. We hear that the big scholars had not a chance to spell. We always thought it was chiefly for scholars. Such is life. When Miss Fisher had a spelling school she let the little folks spell first and there was lots of fun and they enjoyed it. Ed Painman took the cake, but Liz's Markam really was entitled to it. Miss Marker never was selfish so she let the boy have the cake.

A FREE SEAT.

He was old, and poor, and a stranger in the great metropolis. As he bent his step thitherward To a stately edifice.

Outside he inquired: "What church is this?"

"Church of Christ," he hears them say "Ah, just the place I am looking for, I trust he is here to-day."

He passed through the spacious columned door,

And up the carpeted aisle,

And as he passed on a nice face He saw surprise and smile.

From pew to pew, up one entire side, Then across the broad front space;

From pew to pew, down the other side, He walked with the same slow pace.

Not a friendly voice had bid him sit

To listen to gospel truth;

Not a sign of difference had been paid To the aged ones by youth.

No door was opened by generous hand, The pews were paid for, rented,

And he was a stranger, old and poor; Not a heart to him related.

He paused a moment outside to think,

Then passed into the street,

Up to his shoulder he lifted a stone

That lay in the dust at his feet,

And bore it up the broad, grand aisle

In front of the ranks of pews;

Choosing a place to see and hear,

He made a seat for his use.

Calmly sitting upon the huge stone,

Folding his hands on his knees,

Slowly reviewing the worshippers,

A great confusion he sees.

Many a cheek is crimsoned with shame,

And wish they had been mere courteous

To the stranger, old and poor.

As if by magic, some fifty doors

Open instantaneously,

And as many seats and books and hands

Are proffered hastily;

Changing his stone for a crimsoned pew,

And wiping a tear away,
