HARD TIMES IN AUSTRALIA.

The police are unable to cope with desperate housebreakers, who swarm in the rested give as an excuse that famine drove them to deeds of violence. Several of the policemen attacked by burglars at Sydney are dying. The survivors have been promoted and given bonuses by Sir George Gibbs,

On one day last week at Sydney, besides a score of petty robberies, the city hospital was robbed of all its valuables by nurses. Mercredie & Drew, manufacturers, were robbed of $50,000 by employees. F. Coxon, merchant, was robbed by an employee of a large sum. Three young women succeeded in passing a number of counterfeit checks. Charles Graham, a postoffice clerk, embezzled $200 from the postoffice.

The government's claim is that the unemployed problem is too complicated to solve. In Sydney $500 each week is spent in aiding 500 families. Five thousays: "I had been severely troubled with heart disease ever since leaving the army at the close of the late war. I was troubled with palpitation and shortness of breath. I could not sleep on my left side, and had pain around my heart. I became so ill that I was much alarmed, and fortunately my attention was called to sand men in South Australia have asked the governor to call a special session of parliament to discuss means to aid them. The governor refused. Then they waited on Premier Kingston, but the premier would premise nothing. He told them that though they were in want of food they had refused to break 11 yards of rock per week for rations, and he could do no more. The delegation said they would not break rock for food alone.

Thousands are sleeping in the open air, and several have starved to death. At Bourke, Afghans and Europeans quarreled over a division of labor, and a bloody row occurred. The most tragic suicides out of 98 in one week, directly the result of hard times, are: F. W. Wilson, the biscuit manufacturer of Brisbane, shot himself; William O'Connor, lodger in the European hotel, Melbourne, jumped from the fourth story and dashed his brains out on the pavement; Kate Brooks, a pretty English girl, starving, got drunk and killed herself with poison; Joseph Bancroft, a miner out of work, said goodby to his family and exploded a cartridge in his mouth.—San Francisco Chronicle.

A ROMANCE IN IT.

An Interesting Contest In the Land Office, and the Young Woman Wins. The final decision of the secretary of the interior in the land case of Francis L. Box and Jerry Dammon against Jessie M. Sinclair has been received. The case was tried in the local land office in 1891. The decision was in favor of Miss Sinclair. Box and Dammon appealed, and the commissioner of the general land office affirmed the decision of the local office Aug. 22, 1892. Both defeated parties again appealed to the secretary, who has now confirmed the commissioner's decision in favor of Miss Sinclair.

It i seldom there is a tinge of romance about a land office case. There is in this one. Miss Sinclair, whose home was at Durand, was a schoolteacher. Her affections had been gained by a worthy young man whose home is not far from the Sinclairs in Penin county. Both were giving herself and her future husband a start, and with this purpose she settled on the land in question, a portion of the famous water reserve territory. The land she gets is worth about $4,500, having valuable pine on it. The young lady's friends state the wedding will take place in the near future. Secretary Hoke Smith's decision has settled that.— Eau Claire (Wis.) Special.

J. G. B. and Royalty.

A gentleman just returned to London from the racing and other festivities at Cannes calls my attention to a social feature of the royal gayeties in the past fortnight which will be of special interest to Americans. One of the first acts of the Prince of Wales on his arrival at the Riviera was to make a personal call upon a private citizen of the United States. Two days later the prince invited him to lunch, an invitation which the American was unable to accept, because he himself was that day entertaining ex-Empress Eugenie, Grand Duke Michel and other royal guests. It is a fact well continent that no untitled individual in all Europe is so cordially welcomed in the most exclusive circles of royalty and James Gordon Bennett,-New York to wed an heiress. He has no doubt of Sun's London Letter.

Rather Awkward. The readiness with which French juries acquit husbands who take the lives of their wives' lovers leads sometimes to awkward mistakes by too hasty spouses. An unlucky glazier was repairing the window of the boudoir of a lady whom her husband suspected. The master of the house entered and caught sight of revolver without a word and fired at the glazier, who is now in the hospital badly wounded. The husband feels very foolish, but is willing to pay a big bill of damages. - Paris Letter.

An Important Railway.

The important strategic railway connecting Tien-tsin with Shan-hai-Kwan, wall, where it runs down to the gulf of Chinese minister to London traveled by it last week. He was thereby enabled to reach the sea and get a steamer for Shanghai instead of having to remain the winter in Tien-tsin or be carried down by chair nearly a thousand miles overland, Tien-tsin being frozen up from December until March.-London Times.

A Philadelphia Inquiry.

The Philadelphia Inquirer quotes statistics showing that, while New York received 65 per cent of the World's fair imports, Philadelphia received only onethird of 1 per cent. It declares that Tacleaned sets and wraps of all kinds coma, El Paso and Laredo are commer-Frank R. GARRIED OFF BY A WOLF.

two or three years entered the cabin of a mountaineer named Brown during the arge cities. A few that have been ar- momentary absence of the housewife, and, seizing the only occupant, an infant 6 months old, by the clothing in the region of the chest, lifted it from the rude cradle and bore it away into the mountains. When the mother returned to the house and missed the baby, she rushed to the door just in time to see the wolf and its precious burden disappear into the neighboring woods.

The distracted woman began to scream. This brought the husband, who was chopping wood not far away, to the scene in a high state of excitement. The story from the lips of the hysterical mother almost drove the brave fellow daft, but he seized his ax, called his dog and started in hot pursuit. There were about two inches of snow on the ground, and it providentially enabled the desperate father of the kidnaped infant to strike the trail of the wolf immediately after leaving his dooryard. Once upon the track of the beast, he rushed through the mountains with a speed born of distraction, expecting every moment to come upon the old assassin licking his chops red with the warm blood of his victim.

About two miles from his cabin the tracks of the wolf led the pursuer under a long shelf of rock protruding from the side of a mountain. There was no snow here, and the father lost the trail, but he now urged his dog, which up to this time he had compelled to remain with him. The dog took the lead, and the man followed, fully expecting to find the entrance to the wolf's den, from which he could hardly hope to get the baby alive. But his fears were groundless. He soon caree upon his faithful dog wag-ging his tail and looking down at a little white bundle at his feet. It was the baby, sound asleep and most frozen, apparently unhurt otherwise.

Brown took off his coat, and wrapping the infant snugly in it started hastily for home. He soon met his wife and two or three of the neighbors to whom she had given the alarm. It was a most remarkable rescue. The mountaineers say that it was only a freak of the "mad" welf, but the little one no doubt owes its life to a drenching of petroleum given it for some cutaneous affection by its mother just before it was carried away. The odor of the oil was too much for his wolfship. He probably sniffed about the child after laying it down under the rocks and preparing to make a delicious meal, then left in disgust,—St. Louis Globe-Democrat Special.

JAPANESE SUPERSTITION.

Saving the Drops of Water That Washed the Priest Who Died Recently.

The latest event in the religious world is the death, funeral and cremation of the chiefest priest of the largest and most powerful Buddhist sect in Japan. The funeral was attended by many tens of thousands of people from all over Japan. The person of this priest is so very sacred, and anything that has come contact with it so very precious in it poor. She determined to do her part in merit and powerful in itsefficacy to save, that every drop of the water that was used in washing the body after death was eagerly sought for and gratefully received by the priests and laymen alike,

Little bamboo joints were used as vials in which to receive and carry away the precious fluid. This water will be used as drops of saving elixir when the body of some believer is washed for its burial-as a few drops of the attar of roses might be used in a bath-and the one receiving this washing will be insured a safe and happy entrance into the Buddhist paradise.

Sad, sad, unspeakably sad, and yet millions of these people believe this to be true.—Correspondence Independent.

Hard Lines for the Marquis.

That interesting member of the British aristocracy, the Marquis of Ailesbury, will be adjudged a bankrupt if within a month he does not pay $1,250, 000 due to creditors above certain doubtful assets. The marquis has been gallantly endeavoring to prevent this consummation since 1890, when bankruptcy known in all courts and salons on the proceedings were first commenced against him, and the delay secured is a rare tribute to his cunning or that of his lawyers. His lordship's chief lament is aristocracy as this man. His name is that he is married, and therefore unable his personal attractions or of the commercial value of his title. Yet these splendid assets are unrealizable because years ago, when he was young and had plenty of money, he married Dolly Tester out of a music hall at Brighton.-London Cor. New York Sun.

Lively Bidding For an Heirloom

The sum of $1,370 is rather a high price to pay for a turkey dish, yet this is the the man behind a curtain. He pulled a figure at which one was knocked down to a purchaser in Penn township at the sale of personal property of Levi Geiss. The dish is a rare old piece of chinaware, beautifully ornamented, and was purchased 20 years ago at a sale by Mr. Geiss for $2.50. Each of his children expressed a desire to have it, and as they could reach no agreement as to who should be the owner they decided to put the town at the eastern foot of the great | it up at the sale of the other household effects. It was started at $10 and run Liutong, is now completed, and the new | up rapidly at $20 a jump until it was awarded to the youngest son-Peter-at $1,370.—Reading (Pa.) Dispatch,

What They Thought of Childs,

A press clipping bureau has just completed a collection of 8,500 newspaper comments on the life and works of G. W. Childs. The two volumes in which they have been carefully and chronologically pasted are beautifully bound in black morocco. Among all the clippings there was only one that made an unkind remark regarding Mr. Childs.

Castoria.

"Castoria is an excellent medicine for children. Mothers have repeatedly told me of its good effect upon their children."

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real Interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack postrums which are destroying their loved ones, by foreing optum, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
