From an Arkansas Traveler.

EDITOR CHIEF:—I left Red Cloud the 15th and got to Carlisle, Ark., the 20th. Every one of my horses came through all right and I had a nice trip. I saw snow at West Plains, Mo., and when I reached home in Arkansas in the evening the frogs were croaking like spring, and the grass was green in the woods and it seems like summer. We have wood to burn. It is wet and muddy here now.

We had quite a land sale here. Half of the Howard ranch sold for $48,000 cash. This country is settling up and improving very fast. I came by the way of West Plains, and I thought I had got about as far as I could get for stones but we did pull through to Jonesburrow, Ark. It rained hard last night and there is plenty of water on the ground now if you had some water that we could spare both countries would be better. The wind is blowing a good pumping gale. If this don't find the waste basket you may hear from me again; a good word for all.—W. H. FULLER, The Arkansas Traveler.

You make no mistake when you take DeWitt's Little Early Risers for biliousness, dyspepsia or headache, because these little pills cure them.
