PRESS NOTES.

Charles H. Coleman of Red Cloud was in the city Wednesday, looking after railroad rates to the Pacific coast.—Lebanon Journal.

John McLaren of Red Cloud, a brother of J. W. McLaren the livery man of Blue Hill, is here visiting the latter and his family.—Blue Hill Leader.

H. C. Richmond of Red Cloud, and until recently connected with THE CHIEF, has accepted a situation at the asylum, under the new asylum officials.—Adams County Democrat.

Walter Cox of Red Cloud is in the city this week visiting with relatives and friends. Walter is a sturdy farmer boy now, and has been planting seeds with considerable enthusiasm.—Harlan County Democrat.

Judge James McNeny of Red Cloud, was in Hastings. Jim McNeny would make a district judge before whom every person could safely expect exact and expeditious justice.—Adams County Democrat.

The exportations of American flour to Cuba have declined from 6,000 barrels to 800 barrels per month since the destruction of the reciprocity arrangements affected under the McKinley bill.—Syracuse Journal.

Religious meetings at Plainview will again be held on and after next Wednesday evening and will be conducted by Rev. G. W. Hummel. Ninety conversions have been made, seventy of whom have been united with the church as the result of meetings held in Plainview in the past. An Epworth league has also been organized there with a membership of forty-three charter members. The Plainview Sabbath school is patronized by about 100 scholars.—Blue Hill Leader.

W. P. Fulton and family moved to Red Cloud Tuesday of this week. We are unable to ascertain what business Mr. Fulton will engage in in the future. We believe we speak the sentiments of the people when we say we regret to see them leave our city after several years of active business life here. Mr. Fulton was a progressive, energetic and liberal business man; an active member and liberal supporter of religious societies. Both Mr. and Mrs. Fulton will be much missed from religious and social circles. The wish of the Review is that prosperity may attend them wherever they may cast their lot.—Riverton Review.

Senate file 335 is the law of the land or will be by the time it is needed. It provides that the secretary of state shall designate the papers that shall publish at legal rates the proposed amendment to the constitution. The bill was heavily vetoed by the governor, but the motion that it be the law, notwithstanding, received the constitutional number of votes in both houses. And now the populist papers are giving the lawmakers and the law heavy doses of cold, rhetorical poison. The probable cost of printing these amendments will be $34,650, and but for the law all that good money would be in store for newspapermen, instead of to those having a general circulation in the several counties of the state. The brutality of the brutal majority is pronounced in this instance, and though in no sense a robbery of the taxpayers it is tough on the poor. Hereafter they must pay less attention to the election of governors and mass their forces to capture the secretary of state. They can now see why they missed by selling out McFadden to elect Hill—no net loss of $31,000.—State Journal.
