The prospects for a crop was never better in the world than just now in Webster county.

the nation over seems to be on the up ward tendency. We hope that it will continue to do so.

THE democratic party is now hard at work trying to straddle the free silver question. That party never was able to cope intelligently with any great question that was of moment to the people. The people have become decidedly tired of democratic misrule.

THE British have withdrawn from Corinto, the Nicaraguan government having decided to accept in modified terms, a more reasonable ultimatum. Our government has acted very unwise ly in allowing the British to humiliate Nicaraguans for so small a cause.

JOHN WALSH for a year or more an employe of this office and latterly an employe of the Nation office has leased that paper from its owners and will boys kept straight, but John went for a hereafter run it./ Mr. Walsh is an able and aggressive fellow and will no doubt make of the Nation a good paper and worthy of the cause which it espouses. We hope "Jack" will make a success of his venture and that his party will give him their unqualified support. He has increased the size of the nation, and his initial number shows him to be no "spring chicken" in the newspaper busi-

It was ever thus. A good and faithful citizen during the great conflict of '61.5, in the person of S. C. Johnson, of thirty or forty feet high. But the rail-Judson, left home and friends and took up arms to preserve his country. He was disabled and unfitted for life's work. He applied under republican rule and secured a pension of $12, partially adequate for his sustenance. This week he received word from Hoke Smith that he was not half as disabled as he let on to be and that his pension would be reduced to $6 per month. Simply another outrage perpetrated on the old soldier because he helped to preserve the union.

For several years, when the memory of man can hardly runneth back, the affairs of Red Cloud have been run on a mismanaged basis. That is to say the methods have not been as thorough as they should have been. The business of the city has just been run for the municipal year that the officers were elected for and no improvement, except the water works, has been made with that great motive in hand of endurance. and the improvements should be perma nent. What Red Cloud needs is a line of improvements commenced that will be of lasting benefit not only for this self hard to catch. He struck a 2:40 year but for years to come. Temporary improvements are useless and fairly extravagant. The present council should make their improvements with an idea of permanency, if they only make one-That's business.

THERE seems to be a desire in some quarters to censure Chairman Hoffman of the board of supervisors and County Clerk Fort for not signing the three thousand dollar warrant for the purpose of buying seed and feed. #### Band Concert.

Our people should not fail to be present Saturday night at the band concert in the court house yard, and also to partake of the delicious ice cream and cake which will be served during the evening. The band boys are making a strenuous effort to reach a high standard in musical excellence and should be given all possible encouragement. Their expenses are nearly $60 per month and these entertainments are for the purpose of raising the money and at the THE improvement in business matters same time give their patrons the benefit thereof. Following is the program for Saturday night:

Overture......Dalby "Fantastique." his parents this week in this city. "Blue and the Gray." Male quartett Clark, Cotting, Jenkins, Dickersor "Onward March." "fyrian." "Enchantress." "Frolic of the Sylphs." Quartett .... Clark, Cotting, Jenkins, Dickerson

A crowd of our bicyclists took a journey down the road Sunday and of course the sheriff went along to see that the good time and couldn't keep straight very long. He and his wheel performed various acrobatic feats to amuse the boys. The first thing was when he rode down a steep hill, at the foot of which was a bridge, and right here is where John displayed a great deal of nerve. Grasping the handles tightly, he braced himself and rode directly toward the railing of that bridge, when one quiver speed. of a muscle or the smallest unsteady move would have turned the wheel six inches farther north and thrown rider and machine down a steep embankment ing was a little higher than John had anticipated and the wheel refused to mount it, so, when they struck the bridge, the wheel stopped for a minute and John nimbly turned a somer-sault over the handle-bar, when the boys were surprised to see the wheel do the same, and fall astride John's frame. This didn't suit John and he wanted to try it over, but the boys coudn't wait; so John journeyed on, none the worse for his encounter. In one man's yard, where the boys were repairing a wheel, John mounted when ready to start. There was a large tree in front of him, and he started on one side of the tree, then he concluded to go the other side, but before he got by it he changed his mind again. We don't know whether he was going to climb the tree or go through it. He stopped. Dont know why he got on his wheel any way; there was a barb wire fence around the place, but he was prob ably going to jump that. These were only a few of his many feats, and when we struck good roads John made him-"gait," and kept it up for several miles, which was quite a surprise to the boys. He set a hot pace all the way coming

Last Monday evening witnessed a very pleasant surprise party at the home of Rev. O. H. Spellman. The party was in honor of Mrs. Spellman's sister, Miss Nettie M. Bostwick, the day being her seventeenth birthday. It was brought to a successful termination with the aid and a few invited guests. The surprise was a complete success as might have ice cream and cake, were served at a wishing Miss Bostwick many happy returns of the day. #### Medical Scientists Having a Jolly Time with English Aristocracy.

The English public appears at this moment to be under the spell of s bacillic spectre which disturbs severely the peace of mind of the well-to-do. With the advent of the epidemic of grip the doctors relied upon oysters and champagne as a mitigating remedy Just at that time it was reported that typhoid fever was a possible sequence to indulgence in the first. In conse quence the bivalve was avoided, with a corresponding increase in the dose of champagne. Following close on the heels of this theory came the discovery that death lurked in watercress. Dr Verdon, the medical officer of the health board of Lambeth, stated officially after an inspection of the various watercress farms about London, that the plant was contaminated with sewage water and consequently dangerous to the health of the people of London. who consumed all the Lambeth crop. On top of this it was announced that bread was positively dangerous unless baked at a temperature of 100 deg. cen tigrade. As no one could be positive that this particular degree of heat was employed in the brand which he con sumed, all bread was looked upon with suspicion. To add to this burden of uncertainty, bacteriologists uttered note of warning against the contaminating possibilities of the common hous fly. It was clearly demonstrated by these investigators, that, in default of any other explanation, the fly must be held responsible for the spread of disease. There is at least one advantage in the acute interest of people in the bacillic theory, and that is the closer attention which is now given to care in the preparation of food. This is very much in evidence in the kitchens of hotels. There are many of these in New York, where every person who has anything to do with the cooking, preparing, or serving of aliments is required be fore he enters the kitchen to wash his hands thoroughly with antiseptic soap and to dry them on a separate towel. Care is taken that this process shall be repeated at intervals during the day, clean towels being provided for each Inspirations That May or Come to Jack Tar.

The stuffy, gloomy forecastle is the home of the sailor. The deck, the lookout, the crow's nest is where he lives, and the bronze of his cheeks comes from the touch of sun, free winds and spray. Rolling waves of blue and a bounding ship, or one that cleaves swiftly dark waves gemmed with incandescence while the clear night heavens are gemmed with stars, is the playground of the sailor; and the battle with the elements, when the cry of death is heard in the tempest and the sea is mourning and moaning in black and white, and the ship is creaking, tossing and groaning, makes his work day f il of a wild excitement and uncanny interest. Once a sailor, with a love of the sea, one's view of things parts well. The bachelor proved he must change. The dollar is not then the mightiest force on earth, for most of life is passed where the dollar has no power. Nature alone is king. The Government street Methodist Church, light, perhaps a truer and perhaps a home on the false one; for all human changes and movements seem petty things. Cities are toys; governments creations of a day, to rise or fall while the great sea rolls unchanged, and the winds sweep the stars will gleam on, though a thousand Romes should burn; and never sigh of humanity is brought on the breeze, never a note of laughter breaks the stillness. This comes to seem th true environment, when life is close to the heart of careless, pittiless nature; and days in port appear but a peep behind the scenes of a sad or merr play. One may spend his recess then it gambling, drinking or loving, for soon the mighty and solemn life will begin again, when man is face to face wit his Creator on the bosom of the mighty deep; where gold is worthless and only the love and mercy of an infinite power prevails. And the kingship of the individual must be impressively felt in co existence with the divinity above it.

Garffeld. Last Saturday Miss Dora Zediker of Lincoln closed a very successful term of school in district 49. Miss Zediker has been attending the state University for the past few years and before completing her course there thought she would try teaching. She was very ably assisted in the entertainment by her sister Miss Lotie Ze liker who is a teacher in the Franklin Academy. The first number on the program was an organ duet by Mary Mohler and the teacher which was played very nicely. A pantomine representing one of the old nursery rhymes-"The bachelor who lived by himself" was acted out. August Vonderfecket took the part of the bachelor, and showed the peculiar qualities of a bachelor by selecting the girl with a rolling pin. The rejected girls were of course very disappointed in not being the "luckey one," but forgiving like they helped the chosen one to get away in grand style. The girls played their

Katie Earner deserves praise in the manner in which she recited "That Hired Girl."

Katie Ailes rendered "The Young Gray Head" in a very pleasing manner. The dialogue "the Man of Nerve" was well played by the teacher Frank Amack and Chas. Ailes. The teacher in playing her part won the hearts of the audience as well as "The man of Norve" Frank played his part well as usual, he never fails. The people expected Charley to do well and they were not disappoint-

Miss Lotie Zediker recited "Lasks Tom's Little Star" and "The Madman." Laska is quite tragic, Miss Zediker is certainly no stranger to tragedy. She recited as if she had really been a participant in the scene. Tom's little Stare is a mixture of comedy and tragedy. It is a very hard piece to recite, requiring so many changes of voice. The madman was quite a sell-just as every one expected him to commit suicide, they were informed that he was going to shave. Miss Z is a graduate under H. Graham, one of the best elocutionists of Chicago. She certainly has good talents and they have been well brought out. The vocal duet by the Misses Zediker was appreciated very much by the audience, as was shown by the encore.

Miss D. Zediker played two instrumental pieces and sang a solo. She is one of the most popular musicians in University circle of Lincoln. We were sorry that a piano could not be obtained for the occasion. The recitations by Robert Mohler, Agnes Earner, Nora Thornton and Lottie Emerton and Lizzie Earner were all good. The entertainment was a great success We have enjoyed Miss Z's stay with us very much and regret that she has to leave. She has proven herself to be a
