F. P. Hadley, painter and decorator.
Alfred Hadell is in Omaha this week. Call and see Taylor's carpets before buying.
Dr. F. E. McKeely was in Omaha this week.
Mrs. Joe Williams is visiting in the city this week.
J. M. Sellers was in Superior a day or two this week.
Sheriff Runchey was in Sioux City this week on business.
Sam Martin and family departed yesterday for Texas, where they will reside in the future.
J. O. Butler and Dick Ferris sojourned to Omaha Wednesday to take in the sights of the great fair.

The Misses Mabel and Clara McMullan and Blanch Sherer were among Red Cloud visitors at the state fair this week.

Sheriff Runchey of Red Cloud came up on the train Wednesday and went back on his bike in the evening.—River-ton Review.

Mrs. L. F. Munsell arrived in the city Wednesday night from Chicago. She will reside near this city with her son, Boyd, and family.

Come out to the Webster county fair and bring everything that you have grown or manufactured during your residence in the county.

On October 1st, 1895, the citizens of Lebanon, Kansas, are making extensive preparations for celebrating the eighth anniversary of that city. A complete and attractive program is being prepared. Reduced rates over the Rock Island railway.

The south room of the rink building is being fitted up for a meat market and will be operated by Messrs. Hill & Guilford of Red Cloud, the last-named being a son of Mr. George Guilford, who had a meat market in this town several years ago. They are expected to open up for business today.—Guide Rock Signal.

Judge Willcox of Red Cloud was in Guide Rock yesterday. He has lately severed his connection with the Belt and is out of the newspaper business for the present. It is only about three years since Mr. Willcox adopted the editorial profession, but he has won his spurs in his fighting gear again right soon.—Guide Rock Signal.

A successful merchant is the one to patronize, and the reason should seem plain to anyone. A firm, to succeed in business, must first deal honestly with their customers and sell goods on their merit. It must offer inducements worth the while of the consumers looking after, and, last but not least, must have the confidence of the community they are in. We call your attention to the clothing house established by C. Wiener here in 1883 as a fair sample of success.

This hot weather will not last long and about the first thing you will do will be to look over your last winter's underwear. We are offering a very heavy garment, containing some wool, at 35 cents each. A camel's hair undershirt and drawers, such as sold for 75 cents last season, we offer at 50 cents. We have a natural wool in same grade which we sold last season at $1.25, now you can buy them at 75 cents each. It will pay you to look us over before you buy any of these goods.—WIENER, the Clothier.

NEWSY BITS.

Congress plow shoes $1 25 and $1 50 at Cincinnati shoe stores.

An elegant double texture macintosh can be bought from $5 00 to $6 50 at Wiener's.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter Albright left this week for a visit in their old home in Pennsylvania.

The choir of the Church of Christ will give an anthem concert on next Lord's day evening. Come out and listen to it.—H. J. Clark, Chorister.

Go to W. W. Wright's, the cheapest headquarters in the valley for heating, cooking, and all kinds of stoves. They have them in great variety.

Do you wish to have a suit made to order? We will take your measure and guarantee a good fit also guarantee to save you lots of money.—WIENER the Clothier.

From Saturday, September 7, to Thursday, September 12, the Red Cloud Produce Company bought 1200 spring chickens and 365 old hens. Who says that there is no poultry raised in Webster county.

Mr. J. S. White, Webster county's popular treasurer, was in Guide Rock Tuesday "looking after his fences" we were going to say, but we guess that's a mistake. Mr. White has proven himself one of the most capable officials the county ever had; his political fences are all right and require no attention.—Guide Rock Signal.

The Continental Insurance Co., of New York, settled their loss with John Stein, Tuesday, through their district agent, J. H. Smith of Red Cloud. Mr. Stein had two horses killed by lightning on August 14 and received the full amount of insurance in nineteen days. It pays to insure with that kind of a company.—Campbell Press.

A special prize has been arranged for, to be given to the lady or gentleman who will appear in the bicycle display at the fair, on the grounds of the Webster County Agricultural Society, October 10, 11 and 12, and assisting to make up the number to twenty-five wheels and riders. The most unique and original costume is desired, and a silk flag or banner worn in each rider's cap.

A. Galusha, who has been manager of the Chicago Store for a number of years has decided to remove his stock of goods to Villisca, Iowa, where he will live in the future. Al has done a nice business in Red Cloud, and his many friends will be sorry to lose him from this city. However, THE CHIEF wishes him success in his new home and new undertaking. He will leave in about two weeks.

On September 24 there will be a ball game in Red Cloud between Naponee and Red Cloud. This is the first ball game of the season and will be very interesting as the Red Cloud boys have secured the Blue Hill battery—Scott and Prentice. Naponee has not been beaten this summer and say they will add another victory to their string. That however remains to be seen as Red Cloud has good material. Everybody come and we will promise them a first class article of ball and general good time. There will also be a foot race between Stone of Kansas and Read of Naponee for $50 a side, after the ball game.

Uncle Billy Vest, an aged gentleman who has lived in Red Cloud many years, was found dead at the rear end of C. F. Evans' second hand store Thursday afternoon. He roomed above the store and it is surmised that in the night he arose and, being of uncertain step, walked out of the back door and fell to the ground. Being seriously injured, he was unable to give warning and died where he had fallen. He was a familiar figure in Red Cloud, and had dug most of the graves for the many people who had preceded him to the great beyond. He has a brother living in Iowa, and a son near Guide Rock. He was buried today. He was an eccentric old man, and would not receive help from anyone, preferring to help himself if possible. He was about 75 or 80 years of age.

A good joke was played on a young gentleman the other day, who lives not far from this city. It seems that one of his former acquaintances, whom he had not seen for a number of years, returned unknown to him, and, not being recognized, proceeded to have a little fun at our friend's expense. Being introduced as Mr. Smith, an onion dealer from Denver, our new arrival began to talk over the prospect for buying a carload of the afore mentioned vegetables. Now, our young friend was an onion raiser himself, but, the day in question being Sunday, he was somewhat backward about the deal and wanted to postpone the matter till the next day, but the Denver merchant had to leave town right away and could not be delayed. Well, after about twenty minutes conversation on the topic, and being informed that there was no market for onions in Denver unless he was acquainted, our young tiller decided to sell them by the carload at 45c per bushel. At this point, the boys who were onto the racket could stand it no longer and began laughing and yelling cigars, much to our friend's discomfiture, and the Denver dealer then introduced himself properly. The other party promised to set 'em up next day.

Gone to Her Last Reward.

During a twelve-year residence in Red Cloud, we do not remember of so painful a duty as the one we are about to chronicle, in regard to the death of Mrs. Mary K. Tomlinson, esteemed and beloved wife of John Tomlinson, Jr. During the twelve years mentioned, we had known her and had a personal acquaintance with her. She was a splendid neighbor, always ready and willing to assist the sick and distressed, and gave alms to the poor as generously and freely as her means would permit. She was a tried and true woman, and made home a pleasant abode. During her latter years she had been ill many times, but with great fortitude she withstood the pains that flesh is heir to, and performed her duties uncomplainingly. It was only when her last illness fastened its deadly fetters upon her body that she yielded and took to her bed, and not then without a great struggle for the life which was so dear to her, as it is to all mortals. During the month of January, 1894, she was advised by her attendant physician that, in order to prolong her life, it would be necessary to have a very trying, as well as serious surgical operation performed. Being of a brave disposition she readily submitted, and a few days later the same was performed in Chicago. The disease was of so serious a nature that it was only a question of time when it would end her life. This she was fully aware of, and, in the seventeen months in which she bore the most trying pains that rack these mortal bodies, she clung to life tenaciously, yet ready to depart at her master's bidding. At her side stood her faithful husband, who gave up position and money to aid and assist her during her prolonged illness; by her side day and night, ready to answer her beck and call. Surely no man ever did more, and in his great trials and hardships he deserved and received the highest esteem that a community could give. Truly his reward will be gracious in the future world. During all of the weary months that Mrs. Tomlinson was sick, she was confined to her bed and had to be assisted as carefully as a nursing babe, and she was given the most attentive care by her husband, who hardly left her side during the vigils of the night or day. One rarely comes across such devotion as the case related.

HER DEATH.

On last Monday, and for a few days previous, it was evident that dissolution was near at hand. This she was aware of, and in her dying moments she informed her husband that she was going to a better land, where pain and sorrow are no more, and at two o'clock on Monday she departed to the realms of bliss. Kind hands prepared the body for the last sad rite, and on Tuesday afternoon the funeral took place at her late residence, Rev. Father Harrington, of the Catholic church, conducting the services. He gave words of comfort to the bereaved husband and friends, and pointed to the christian fortitude of the lamented wife as a beacon light for others to imitate. After the services were completed, the body was prepared for shipment to Quincy, Ill., where she was taken on Wednesday, accompanied by Mr. Tomlinson. The fire department, of which Mr. Tomlinson is an honored member and was formerly chief, acted as pall bearers and escort to the train. The fire bell was tolled, indicating that while Mr. Tomlinson had suffered an irreparable loss, that others sympathized with him in his hour of affliction. It was a sad death, and one that touches a tender chord in the hearts of every person in Red Cloud, and they naturally turn sympathizingly toward the bereaved husband, who has suffered more than human heart can tell.

Mrs. Tomlinson was 39 years, 5 months, and 15 days old. She was born in Killarney, County Kerry, Ireland, April 1, 1856, and came to America when fifteen years of age. She was united in marriage to Mr. Tomlinson October 11, 1881, in Chicago, and came to this city in December of the same year, where she has resided continuously.

Her death will be regretted by her many friends, as she was called to her last reward while yet in the prime of true womanhood. THE CHIEF, with the entire community, extends condolence to the bereaved husband in his great affliction.

The exceedingly high temperature of the past week has been the most remarkable ever known during this season of the year. In this section it has been the hottest week of '95. Other states report warm waves followed by cold waves, but our cool wave has failed to arrive. Probably got froze up some place.

H. E. Pond and wife have returned from Louisville, Ky., where they have been attending the National Encampment of the G. A. R. Harry found two brothers buried in southern graves. They were on Lookout mountain and other places of note, and brought home some fine badges and numerous relics of by-gone days.
