EDITORIAL NOTES.

A JUDGE has more opportunity to gather to himself the fruits that come of the efforts of others than almost any other public officer. In making his decisions he has the aid of men skilled in law, so that an ordinary capacity to understand, together with diligence and caution, would, in this district which has a strong bar, build a reputation for judicial capacity wholly unobtainable by the same mind alone. So the unity of the bar may frequently relieve the judge from trying situations. And this is an important fact in this election. It has been the attitude of the bar far more than the temper of the judge which has procured for mortgagees in this county the long stays for which Judge Beal takes credit. It is a fact that the statute only allows a stay to be stayed nine months. No judge who is not corrupt can allow more of a stay. That would be a violation of his oath. We have investigated the matter locally and find that Judge Beal has not violated his oath, but that, in every case of foreclosure where more than nine months stay was granted, it was done by agreement of the attorneys for the respective parties. Only one lawyer in this county ever made an argument against legal means of giving a mortgagee time when he desecrated it because of misfortune—either general or individual—and that lawyer has ceased to be a resident of this county. On the other hand, the only time that a feasible way of preventing forfeiture by foreclosure sale was presented to Judge Beal by a local lawyer; the judge failed to grasp the situation and contemptuously over-ruled the lawyer and confirmed the foreclosure sale. The law is developed by struggle, and it takes men to carry on that struggle. The conditions which have prevailed in Nebraska have called for an application of legal principles to legal controversies, which the present judge has absolutely failed in giving. The shallow pretext of continuance is an expensive nuisance because in every case the costs to the litigant and to the county are more than equal the accruing interest. What is wanted is a judge who knows enough to apply legal principles to new conditions, besides being able to control the old. Such men there are plenty at the bar of this district, and the peer of any of them is James McNeny.

Frankie L. Lauback aged 14 years, died at the residence of A. G. Willis, in this city yesterday, at which place the funeral services were held today. He was the adopted son of Mrs. Willis' parents, and several months ago was injured in a base-ball game, the result of which was an abscess which, after months of cruel suffering, resulted in his death.

Christian Jensen, father of our esteemed friend John Jensen, of this city, who has been sick for a year or more, passed quietly away on last evening, at the residence of his son, aged sixty-seven years, eight months, three days. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at 2 p. m. from his son's residence, in the northeast part of the city.

Congressman Andrews will talk on the political issues of the day at Cowles, on the 21st of October.

"Keep out of the past; it is haunted." That is the reason Judge Beal's friends are silent as to his official record and rely on his personal "niceness."

Let the people put their shoulders to the wheel and try to do business during the reign of Cleveland. That is the best they can do until the republican party comes into power in '96 and the wheels of industry revolve again. Hasten the day.

Vote for McNeny all the time.
Vote for White all the time.
Vote for Fort all the time.
Vote for Burden all the time.
Vote for Runchey all the time.
Vote for Hunter all the time.
Vote for West all the time.
Vote for Beck all the time.
Vote for Thorne all the time.
Vote for Roby all the time.

WHERE could you find better and more deserving men than are to be found on the republican ticket? Certainly not on the tickets of our opponents. Then vote the republican ticket, remembering that White, Burden, Fort, Runchey, Hunter, West, Beck and Thorne can't be beat when it comes to ability, affability, integrity and gentlemanly treatment to all who come in contact with them.

THE voters of Webster county should not forget that the present election is just as important in a manner as the presidential election in '96 will be. If the republicans win this year, they will go into the battle next year with renewed vigor. That means that the country will return to renewed prosperity, such as has always followed the election of republicans to the management of the government. The republican party has always been the party of progress, and upon it must the American laborer build his hopes if he wishes prosperity to return to the country. Protection means labor, and plenty of labor means more money.

THE only men who fear they will suffer from the election of James McNeny to be judge of this district are the shysters whose success in court depends upon the favor or blindness of the judge. They know that McNeny will discharge his duties without fear or favor, and with the light of knowledge in his mind. They are the men who sing the song of terror to poor mortgagees upon the election of McNeny; they, the very men whose usurious claims have hung like millstones around the necks of poor unfortunates all over this country. It was the speech of a lawyer and not the ruling of a judge which made and marked an epoch in the history of illegal chattel mortgages in this country, and that lawyer was James McNeny.

EVIDENTLY some people are trying to ridicule the people of this district. Alarmed by the growing demand for ability on the bench, Judge Beal's friends are trying to put the blame for ten reversed cases, out of fourteen tried, upon the jury of this district. Some excuses are worse than none, and this is one of them. Every man who has served on a jury knows better. He knows that the frequent exceptions lawyers take upon the record mean probable error on the part of the judge before the case is given to the jury at all. The only way that the jury can be to blame is by rendering a verdict clearly contrary to the evidence. And every man who reads the papers knows that the supreme court is scrupulous in its observance of the rule that verdicts will not be set aside unless they are so clearly against the weight of evidence as to indicate fraud, passion, or accident. But the record will speak for itself. Of four cases which were affirmed, three were taken up to reverse the verdict of the jury, and the jury verdict was sustained. In only one of the fourteen cases was the verdict of the jury the cause for reversal. The people of this district are not fools and will not be caught by such chaff.

JAMES McNeny came to this country eighteen years ago without a dollar, and began his career by teaching a country school and living the life of an early settler. From that day to this, his "joys, his tears, his hopes, his fears" have been all with the people of this country, among whom he grew to fame as a lawyer. Judge Beal has been here perhaps ten years, during which time no clientage has developed his faculties or absorbed his sympathies. His only title to remembrance is failure as a judge. "Tis true, 'tis pity, and pity 'tis 'tis true. But the taxpayers of this district, and the citizens whose lives and property are at the disposition of a judge, must be just before being sympathetic. Their duty is now to advance over dead failure to success, and elect a judge to preside in this district.
"Waste no tears
Upon the blotted record of lost years
But turn the leaf, and smile, O smile, to see
The fair white pages that remain for thee."
That is the judicial record; turn the leaf for a new judge.
