

Nagging Habit Not a Vice.

SIMPLY NERVOUS WEAKNESS—USE PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND.

Nagging is a disease, says an eminent physician in the last North American Review. "It is often," says Dr. Edson, "the result of a diseased condition or of strain on the strength."
It is the nervous men and women who most readily fall into that unfortunate class, and anything that does away with nervous weakness will cure the depression, irritability and the nagging habit that so often accompanies a run-down nervous condition.
Persons who lead an active life need something to invigorate their nerves and to give them fresh, ruddy blood. It is the rebellious nerves overtaxed by domestic duties added to the constant living in the vitiated atmosphere of in-door that reduces the nervous strength of so many women.
Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., presented to his profession the results of accurate investigation in the medical laboratory. His formula for re-creating worn-out nervous tissues and building up the nerve-centres when exhausted, the remarkable formula now known the world over as Paine's celery compound, has become familiar to every medical practitioner and family physician.
"Break-down and nervous prostration come," say these physicians, "unless the great nerve centres are promptly fed upon proper nutritive material."
Paine's celery compound is the one great nerve feeder and nerve restorative. By its means all the functions of the body receive a fresh supply of nerve food. It encourages the body to manufacture an abundant supply of this indispensable vital force, without which there can be no health, strength nor happiness in living. From the lack of nerve force men and women are driven to despondency, melancholia, insanity and suicide.
Thousands of letters like the following from Mrs. Lizzie Arnett of Mansfield, Ohio, are received by the proprietors of Paine's celery compound every month in the year:
"I have used two bottles of Paine's celery compound for nervousness, and have found great relief from its use. It is truly a wonderful remedy. I am better and am using no more medicine now."

"Get Out, Pops!"

This Rooster Went Up Hill.

This Rooster Went Down Hill.

"Great Lord, give us leather lungs, that we may yell with a loud and boisterous noise; amplify our throats that the passageway of noise may meet with no incumbrances; this being one great jag of joy, make it not the less but rather multiply it and the facilities for making it."
This was the prayer of a man with a tin horn who sat on the corner at midnight, and heard the returns, announcing that the republican candidates were being elected by majorities that were weird and wonderful.
For the last few weeks the campaign has been on, and it waged warm. THE CHIEF, as it has always done, fought the republican battle faithfully and unflatteringly, doing what we thought was right, and lived in hopes of winning the battle in its entirety, but the fortunes of war are often fickle, and disappointment comes with success. In WEBSTER COUNTY the populists met with an inglorious defeat, and the republican rooster crows lustily and loud for McNeny, White, Runchey, Fort, Hunter, Burden, Thorne and Beck, having lost only one candidate, viz: Samuel West, who, while falling by the wayside, reduced Judge Duffy's plurality wonderfully, and made a good fight. The result of Tuesday's election shows that republicanism is on the increase, and that people are beginning to wake to the necessity of joining the republican ranks if prosperity is to be perched upon the banners of our country's industries.

In the tenth judicial district, things went differently. Hon. Jas. McNeny, the republican candidate for district judge, was unmercifully slaughtered in the house of his friends where he should have received the greatest strength, but, Phoenix-like, he will rise out of the ashes of political treachery, with his shield brighter than ever for having been defeated. While the campaign was a bitter one in some respects, yet THE CHIEF has nothing to say touching the election of Mr. Beall, and consequently bows to the will of the people, who are the sovereigns, and while one of our birds is climbing the hill of victory for the republican nominees of Webster county, the other one must be turned down to await four years hence, when, as the boys say, "Slips tries over."
Next fall, republicanism will sweep the country in one grand phalanx, from east to west and north to south, and the glad tidings of great joy will go up with one mighty voice, "that the republican party reigns and the country still lives" Hurrah for the G. O. P. and victory!

SIDE NOTES.
If there had been any more votes in the county, White would have got them, as Ed Funke was "defunct" long ago.
Runchey is still running in Blue Hill.
"Hold the Fort!" for, if you don't, Jud Bailey will never catch up.
Wright Thornburg: "I guess I'll go and see what kind of sailing it is on Salt Creek."
Charley Potter: "Gee Whis! Didn't we do it?"
Hank Richmond: "Tuesday's election hurt my neck. I have been looking for pop victories, but, stretch my neck as I will, I can't see 'em."
Jud Bailey and the pops are explaining how it all occurred.
Bud Norris will continue to farm.
Ed Funke will eat crackers and cheese for two years at least.
McCrory: "Darn this political business, anyway. Have I got to wait till Hunter dies?"
Beck stood on the burning deck, his baggage loaded for the coroner's office, while Bayles sat on the shore with his feet dangling in the water.
Billy Thorne was really a "Kuehn" (keen) thorn in the side of Frank Kuehn and got there like a mice.
Clarence Stout: "Kussed be Kanan; and a few curses to the fellows who said they would vote for me and didn't."
Judge Duffy: "Ah there, got there, stay there!"—Shakespeare.
A whole lot of fellows: "I told you so."
Jim Burden is a racer and made a "Stout race," leaving his opponent in the woods in Pickleville.
Nimrod was a hunter; but Hunter was not only a nimrod, but he carried the largest pole and knocked McCrory's perimmon into a smithereens.
Red Cloud township is fast becoming celebrated. Before eight o'clock, at least a dozen men were hunting lawyers, sheriffs, etc., just because one set of judges outwitted the other set.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional remedy. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer one hundred dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Six weeks ago I suffered with a severe cold; was almost unable to speak. My friends all advised me to consult a physician. Noticing Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised in the St. Paul Volks Zeitung I procured a bottle and after taking it a short while was entirely well. I now most heartily recommend this remedy to anyone suffering with a cold. Wm. Kell, 678 Selby Ave., St. Paul, Minn. For sale by Deyo & Gries.

How to Prevent Croup.

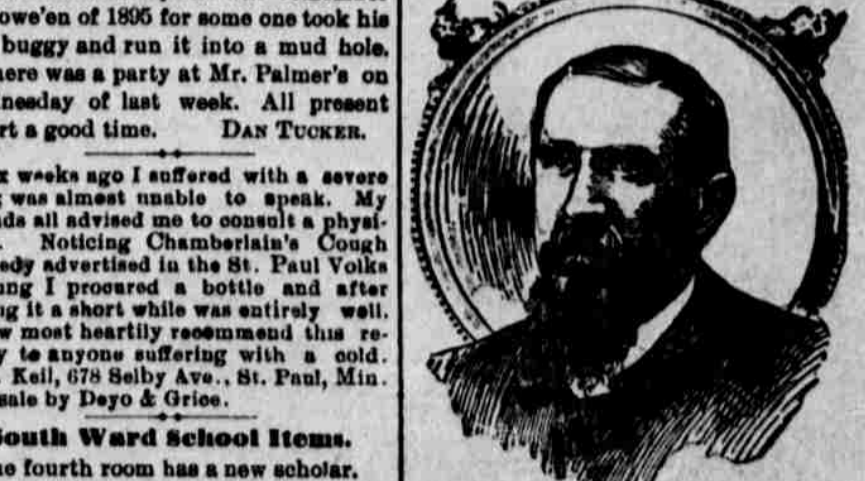

Some reading that will prove interesting to young mothers. How to guard against the disease.
Croup is a terror to young mothers and to post them concerning the cause, first symptoms and treatment is the object of this item. The origin of croup is a common cold. Children who are subject to it take cold very easily and croup is almost sure to follow. The first symptom is hoarseness; this is soon followed by a peculiar tough cough, which is easily recognized and will never be forgotten by one who has heard it. The time to act is when the child first becomes hoarse. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is freely given all tendency to croup will soon disappear. Every after the croupy cough has developed it will prevent the attack. There is no danger in giving this remedy for it contains nothing injurious. For sale by Deyo & Gries.

Nervous Prostration Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

Prolonged derangement of the nervous system not only affects the brain and mental powers, but develops disease in some of the vital organs. The most dangerous of these indirect results is when the heart is affected. This was the case of the Rev. N. F. Surfacto, Fawn River, Mich., who writes under date of Feb. 14, 1895:

"Fourteen years ago I had a slight stroke of paralysis. Overwork brought on nervous prostration. I was exceedingly nervous and the exertion of public speaking caused heart palpitation that threatened my life. I used two bottles of Dr. Miles' New Heart Cure for my heart trouble, and two of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine for my nervousness and feel better than I ever expected to feel again. I can speak for hours without tiring or having my heart flutter as it formerly did, and I have you to thank that I am alive today."
