WASHINGTON NOTES.

The fifty-fifth congress which met in extra session at noon Monday makes an early start; what sort of an ending it will make only time can tell. The house organized by reselecting Speaker Reed and all the other officers of the last congress, the democrats cast their votes for Representative Bailey, of Texas for speaker, and he is now regarded as the regularly constituted leader of the democrats in the house. The idea of a combination of the silver elements in the senate to recognize the committees of that body has been abandoned for the time, and the impression is that the republicans will be allowed to retain the chairmanships they have, at least during the extra session, and that the vacancies in committees will be filled by mutual agreement among the several parties in the senate. Nobody seems to think that the gentlemen appointed to the senate by the governors of Kentucky, Florida and Oregon have the remotest chance to be seated. The republicans do not wish to engage in a fight that will add to their difficulties in getting votes outside of their party that will be needed to pass the tariff bill, and the other parties have been unable to agree upon any basis of voting together.

The plan of bulletining the names of applicants for the big positions, which has been adopted by some of the government departments, is not pleasing to such of the applicants as are in the habit of adopting the "still hunt" method of office-seeking, but taken altogether it is not a bad idea; it makes it reasonably certain that men against whom valid objections can be raised will not secure appointments. Making the applicants secure the indorsement of all the republicans in congress from their state is another rule that is not popular with applicants, although it is calculated to make the president's task a much easier one.

Few, if any, of the members of the house received a warmer personal welcome than did Jerry Simpson. He expresses confidence that populists will elect the next president, and thus outlines his own policy in the present congress: "For the present we've got to let the republicans run the affairs of this nation, and I'm for giving them all the rope they want. Let 'em write and pass any sort of a tariff act they choose—it isn't wise nor right to obstruct them in the least in their efforts to redeem the lavish promises of coming prosperity made in the last campaign."

Although practically known for some time, it was fully decided at the last meeting of the cabinet that the Cuban policy of this administration would be one of non-intervention so long as the present status of the combatants in Cuba is maintained. About the only difference between the Cleveland and the McKinley policy towards Cuba, is that President McKinley will be more positive in demands relating to the treaty rights of Americans in Cuba. This difference seems to have already been realized by the Spanish officials in Cuba, who are reported to be treating Americans with more consideration than they were a short time ago.

Since the fiftieth congress the house has been controlled by overwhelming majorities, twice in favor of the republicans and twice in favor of the democrats. The republican majority over all in the present house is only 51, a smaller majority than that in the house of any one of the four preceding congresses. A moderate sized majority is regarded as easier to handle by the party leaders than a very large one.

A few gentlemen, in and out of congress, are professing to be greatly surprised at the rates of duty imposed by the new tariff bill, just completed by the republican members of the ways and means committee, but there is in reality no occasion for surprise. The bill is just about what it might have been expected to be and may be fairly described as the McKinley bill changed to meet changed conditions. It is strictly a protective bill and its framers say that it will also prove to be a good revenue bill by furnishing the additional money needed to meet the deficit in government receipts. It will probably be passed by the house before April 1. What will happen to it before it passes the senate is as uncertain as how long the senate will consider it. Those who remember that somewhere in the neighborhood of 500 amendments were added to the McKinley bill in a republican senate, and that nearly as many were added to the Wilson bill in a democratic senate, are a little dubious about trying to predict what a senate not controlled by any party will do to the present bill.

There is something very nearly akin to a big scandal in the interior department, in which Land Commissioner Lamoreux is involved on account of a decision he made in favor of claimants to valuable land on the lake front of Chicago, which has been set aside by Secretary Bliss, and in which ex-Secretary Carlisle, who is now counsel for those claimants, may be involved. The whole case is to be reheard, and some interesting things are expected to be brought out.

Every Thursday afternoon a tourist sleeping car for Salt Lake City, San Francisco and Los Angeles leaves Omaha and Lincoln via the Burlington Route. It is carpeted, upholstered in rattan, has spring seats and backs and is provided with curtains, bedding, towels, soap, etc. An experienced excursion conductor and uniformed Pullman porter accompany it through the pacific coast. While neither as expensive finished nor as fine to look at as a palace sleeper, it is just as good to ride in. Second class tickets are honored and the price of a berth, wide enough and big enough for two, is only $5. For a folder giving full particulars, call at the nearest B. & M. R. ticket office. HEALTH IN MARCH APRIL, MAY!

Use the Only Spring Remedy in the World That has Stood Every Test of Time.

PAINE'S CELERY COMPOUND MAKES ONE WELL.

In March, April and May use Paine's celery compound.

And only Paine's celery compound! For it is nature's remedy.

Do not for a moment confound it with any of the ignorant, catch-penny, short-lived patent remedies—sarsaparillas, nervines and tonics that bear so much resemblance to Paine's celery compound as the parasite vines do to the oaks that they live on.

Paine's celery compound cures disease. It makes people well. It has saved the lives of thousands of sufferers. It makes the weak strong.

It purifies the blood and enriches the nerves.

Every condition of winter life has been detrimental to health. There has been a steady decline in nervous vigor. Now that spring comes the body is ready to cast off unhealthy tissues if it is only given a chance. This opportunity comes when the excretory organs, kidneys, skin and bowels are made to work actively and the nerves are able to furnish sufficient energy to the digestive organs.

No remedy in the world accomplishes these results like Paine's celery compound. It nourishes, regulates and invigorates the entire nervous system from the brain to the minutest nerve filament. It causes an increased appetite and tones up the stomach to deal with the increased food. Its nourishing action is immediately manifest in a clearing up of the muddy, unhealthy skin, an increase in weight and more refreshing sleep.

First discovered after laborious, scientific research by the ablest physician America has produced, Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., L. L. D., of Dartmouth college, it is prescribed and publicly indorsed by the best practitioners in every city of America. It has been so enthusiastically recommended by grateful men and women in every walk of life that it is today in every sense the most popular remedy the world ever knew.

It has proven itself the greatest of all spring medicines.

In New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Boston, St. Louis and two or three other large cities, the leading newspapers making their own canvasses demanded for Paine's celery compound surpasses that of all other remedies together!

Paine's celery compound, taken during the early spring days, has even more than its usual remarkable efficacy in making people well. It makes short work of disease. It rapidly drives out neuralgia, sleeplessness, dyspepsia and rheumatism from the system. It removes that lassitude, or "tired feeling," which betokens weakened nerves and poor blood.

Women working in close offices, saleswomen tired out and nervous from long hours' standing on their feet and waiting on impatient, irritating customers; overworked, worried and disheartened men and women everywhere will be astonished to find how much happier life becomes when their nerves have been strengthened and their blood purified by means of this great remedy.

No other remedy has the hearty approval of a like body of educated men and women and professional men, nor has there ever been a remedy that was welcomed in so many intelligent, prudent homes where pains is taken to get only the best in so vital a matter. In such families all over the country Paine's celery compound is the first, last and only remedy used.

Prof. Phelps had studied the nerves in health and disease, when well nourished and when under-nourished, in men and women and children years before he looked for the remedy. Paine's celery compound is the outcome of his entire professional life. It is the one remedy that the world could not lose today at any price.

Paine's celery compound induces the body to take on solid flesh.

Physicians recognize Paine's celery compound as the one scientific spring remedy, and it is universally prescribed by them wherever there is great need of a vigorous and prompt restoring of health and strength to the worn-out system.

Paine's celery compound is the best spring remedy because it is more than a mere spring remedy. It brings about a healthy appetite, complete digestion, regular action of the bowels and the other excretory organs whenever taken whether in summer or in winter, but as the greatest of spring remedies it has extraordinary opportunities for inducing the body to throw off morbid humors that poison it and cause rheumatism, neuralgia, heart trouble and a general low state of the health, as in spring the system is more pliable and chronic diseases so securely lodged in the system that they are with difficulty ousted, become more tractable.

Thousands of men and women have found from personal experience that Paine's celery compound makes people well, and keeps all from sickness what take it in the spring.

Many a father and mother have noticed the unmistakable improvement in the health of their children from taking Paine's celery compound in the spring. It is the one scientifically accurate remedy fitted by its composition to thoroughly purify the blood and dispel that exhausted feeling and get rid of skin diseases, headaches and fits of depression with which children with weak, nervous systems, as well as grown people, are afflicted.

My heart came to troubling me, I was short of breath from the least exertion, and suffered much pain in my left side. Medicine and physicians gave me no relief. I procured Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine, New Heart Care and Nerve and Liver Pills, and I am sure no words of commendation as to the results can be too strong.
