Found Paine's Celery Compound the Best of Remedies.

For the Nervous Exhaustion Consequent Upon Her Arduous Work-- The Remarkable Artiste Who Stands Pre-Eminently at the Head of Her Profession.

The news of Modjeska's recovery from the recent severe sickness that compelled her to leave the stage will be a source of congratulation to the whole world.

Modjeska, in a letter to Wells, Richardson & Company, says she has found (what thousands of people in every station of life have so often heartily testified) that Paine's celery compound is the very best of all remedies for nervous exhaustion. Joseph Haworth rightly calls Modjeska "the peerless queen of artistes." Modjeska's health is a matter of world-wide interest, and her testimonial to the value of the great remedy which makes people well is of particular moment in the early spring, when from every quarter reports come of men, women and children who are taking Paine's celery compound, and are gaining in nervous vigor, weight and every other indication of better health. The thoughtful portion of the community knows the need of purifying the blood and regulating the nervous and alimentary systems as spring comes on. There is the danger that in their eagerness to take a spring remedy a Paine's celery compound is prepared in exact accordance with the prescription of Prof. Edward E. Phelps, M. D., LL. D., of Dartmouth college. Its curative effects have been closely watched by the ablest physicians of every school, and they are today agreed that it stands alone as the reliable remedy for building up a person's health in the spring. The most overwhelming testimony to the value of Paine's compound that has recently appeared from men and women of national reputation. Hon. George B. Swift, mayor of Chicago; Francis Murphy, the foremost apostle of temperance in the world; Mrs. Matthew S. Quay, wife of the great republican senator from Pennsylvania; Ex-President Cook of the national teachers' association; Rev. Charles L. Thompson, D. D., the brilliant Presbyterian leader of New York city; Elizabeth Cady Stanton; an ordinary nerve—it is as far beyond them all as the diamond is superior to cheap glass." It makes people well. It is the one true specific recognized and prescribed today by eminent practitioners for diseases arising from a debilitated nervous system. Prof. Phelps gave to his profession a positive cure for sleeplessness, wasting strength, dyspepsia, biliousness, liver complaint, neuralgia, rheumatism, all nervous diseases and kidney troubles. For all such complaints Paine's celery compound has succeeded again and again, where everything else has failed. When Modjeska in a letter published in Boston said: "I have found Paine's celery compound the very best of all remedies for the nervous exhaustion consequent upon the arduous work of my profession," she voiced the experience of every tired-out, run-down, exhausted woman who ever went to this greatest of all spring remedies for relief. No one ever yet failed to find strength and health returning who faithfully used nature's true remedy—Paine's celery compound.

Secretary Carlisle's private secretary; State Treasurer Addison B. Colvin of New York; John Graham, the foremost man in American athletics; The wife of Rev. Charles H. Parkhurst, the famous preacher and reformer, Mayor McShane of Montreal, Major General Birney, Judge Powers of Vermont, and a host more of prominent men and women, including no less than five U. S. congressmen, are among the thousands of grateful people who have recently sent to the proprietors of this wonderful remedy their expression of its unequalled value—men and women who can well afford, and do command, the highest medical advice in the country. And then also from the people in the ordinary walks of life there come thousands of honest, straightforward, heartfelt letters, telling how Paine's celery compound has made them well. Their testimony simply goes to show what New England's most vigorous editor so aptly said in a letter telling of the benefit Paine's celery compound had been to a member of his family: "Paine's celery compound is not a patent medicine; it is not a sarsaparilla; it is not a mere tonic; it is not

A careless news paper man a few counties north of us, noting the signs of spring, among other evidences noted the bicycle riders, and mentioned that Miss Jones looked cute on her wheel in her short skirt. In some way an "h" had wandered into the "k" box, and the typo got an h instead of a k, and the proof-reader was blind. Inveen, residing at 720 Henry St., Alton, Ill., suffered with sciatic rheumatism for over eight months. She doctored for it nearly the whole of this time, using various remedies recommended by friends, and was treated by the physicians, but received no relief. She then used one and a half bottles of Chamberlain's Pain Balm, which effected a complete cure. This is published at her request as she wants others similarly afflicted to know what cured her. The following clipping taken from the Beaver Valley Tribune shows that Peter Shea formerly of this city, is still getting all the fun there is in this life and is up to his old jokes: "Two traveling men and Pete Shea had Orleans people worked up to a high pitch over the airship recently. A balloon with a red light attached was sent up by the trio of practical jokers so that it floated directly over the town. The people fairly went crazy. Many declared that they could see the outlines of the ship, and others heard voices and imagined vain things. It was great sport for the boys." The following taken from a Hastings paper is one of three similar accidents which we have noticed in our exchanges during the past week. It bears all understanding why parents will be so careless as to leave their little children play around bon-fires when there are so many fatalities. Read this account and take warning from its words: "The five year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Cropley was burned to death Wednesday evening. The sad accident occurred at Mr. Cropley's farm five miles northwest of Hastings. The men about the farm were burning off the stalks and did not pay any attention to the little girl who was playing with the fire. Suddenly a piercing scream came from the girl; her garments had become ignited and before help could reach the girl almost all the clothing had been burned from her and her body was badly charred. A physician was summoned but all to no use as she died at 5 o'clock yesterday morning."

All honor to the Nebraska hen. She has saved the day in Nebraska. She has proved herself the friend of the poor, the salvation of those oppressed by fate, the protector of home-builders from dispossession. She has tided the unfortunate farmers of Nebraska through a great industrial collapse. Her cheerful, incessant cackle has scared the wolf starvation from many a coop. It is a literal truth that but for the hen thousands upon thousands of Nebraska farmers would have been forced to give up the fight against drought and crop failure during the past three years. While everything else was going to rack and ruin she had increased and multiplied. She has asked for no other food than that which her own industry has provided. She has supported herself and the whole family, too. The very insects which the farmer dreads she has fattened upon. She has laid her daily egg—the blessed egg that takes the place of beef, mutton and pork—and in good time, after all these services to her country, has surrendered her own toothsome body to the cause of humanity. She is the best bird in the land—all honor to the American hen!—Eastern Exchange. Everybody Says So. The young man from Hemingford was telling a girl about a recent hunting expedition he had taken part in, and the wonderful performance of a dog he owned and for which he had given a fabulous sum—nit. To give her some idea of the dog's powers, he said that he recently went into the country some fifteen miles, and to prevent the dog from following him he chained the animal up. "Two hours later the dog broke loose," said he, "and tracked me to where I was, merely by the scent. What do you think of that?" "Well," said the young lady calmly reaching for her salts, "I think you ought to take a bath."—McCook Republican.
