

SALE OF LOTS AND LANDS

WEBSTER COUNTY, NEBRASKA,

FOR

Delinquent Taxes.

The following described lands, city and village lots, Webster county, Nebraska, on which the taxes for 1896 have not been paid, will be offered for sale at the Treasurer's office in said county on the first Monday in November, 1897. Sale to continue from day to day until all are offered.

J. S. WHITE, County Treasurer.

Table listing land parcels with columns for Township, Range, Section, Lot, and various tax/amount columns.

Table titled 'RED CLOUD CITY' listing parcels with columns for Lot, Blk, Amt, and various tax/amount columns.

Table listing parcels with columns for Lot, Blk, Amt, and various tax/amount columns.

Table listing parcels with columns for Lot, Blk, Amt, and various tax/amount columns.

Table listing parcels with columns for Lot, Blk, Amt, and various tax/amount columns.

ON A RUSSIAN CONVICT SHIP.
Horrors of the Voyage from Odessa to the Island of Saghalin.
The sailing of a Russian convict ship from Odessa for the Island of Saghalin, in the Japan Sea, is always an impressive sight. The motley crowd, indigent to all countries, is of course present, but there are in addition many government officials, full of importance in their embazoned uniforms, and more numerous members of the clergy attending to perform the ceremony of sprinkling the ship with holy water, and to give the inmates a parting blessing and a godspeed. Nothing is done in Russia without the help of priests, and a Russian is bathed in holy water from the cradle to the grave.

PRINCE OSCAR.
and resign all rights of succession, but that marry Miss Monk he certainly would. The marriage was celebrated in due time and Prince Oscar has never been seen in the royal circles since. The king and queen have maintained friendly but distant relations with their democratic nephew, who is known simply as Prince Oscar and who is immensely popular with the people because of his philanthropy.

GEMS OF THOUGHT.

Simple duty hath no place for fear.—Whittier.
Brave men ought not to be cast down by adversity.—Silvius Italicus.
The small courtesies sweeten life; the greater ennoble it.—Bovee.
You cannot dream yourself into a character; you must hammer and forge yourself one.—J. A. Froude.
An able man shows his spirit by gentle words and resolute actions; he is neither hot nor timid.—Chesterfield.
The difference between perseverance and obstinacy is that one often comes from a strong will, and the other from a strong won't.—Anon.
The winter's frost must rend the burr of the nut before the fruit is seen; so adversity tempers the human heart, to discover its real worth.—Balzac.
The best ground untilld, soonest runs into rank weeds. A man of knowledge that is negligent or uncorrected, cannot but grow wild and godless.—Bishop Hall.
A cottage will not hold the bulky furniture and sumptuous accommodations of a mansion; but if God be there a cottage will hold as much happiness as might stock a palace.—Dr. James Hamilton.
The moral law is written on the tablets of eternity. For every false word or unrighteous deed, for cruelty and oppression, for lust or vanity, the price has to be paid at last.—J. A. Froude.
Be not too presumptuously sure in any business; for things in this world depend upon such a train of unseen chances that if it were in man's hands to set the tables, yet is he not certain to win the game.—G. Herbert.
He is rich who hath enough to be charitable, and it is hard to be so poor, that a noble mind may not find a way to that place of goodness.—Sir Thos. Browne.
Such is the patriot's boast where'er he roam, His first best country ever is at home.—Goldsmith.
The poet, the orator, bred in the woods, whose senses have been nourished by their fair and appealing changes, year after year, without design or heed, shall not lose their lessons in the roar of cities and the broil of politics. Long hereafter, amid agitation and terror in national councils, these solemn images shall reappear in their morning luster, as fit symbols for the language of the hour. At the call of a noble sentiment, again the woods wave, the pines murmur, the river rolls and shines, and the cattle low upon the mountains, putting the spells of persuasion, the keys of power, in his hands.—Emerson.
A statue of De Lesseps is to be placed at the entrance of the Suez canal. In Larue county, Kentucky, it is said that Charles Williams has grown a bunch of white blackberries. Mrs. C. Reyes, 83 years old and crippled, cultivates a garden by her own labor at St. Austin, Fla., and one day she picked from it a thirty-six pound watermelon and eighty pumpkins. Betsy Trout of Earl, Berks county, Pa., celebrated the 101st anniversary of her birth last week. Several thousand people visited the old lady to extend their felicitations. She still enjoys fairly good health. When 90 years old she earned a day's wages by working in the harvest field. Her oldest daughter is 74. Mrs. Joseph Chamberlain, wife of the English secretary for the colonies, and daughter of W. C. Endicott, Mr. Cleveland's first secretary of war, as a special evidence of the favor in which Queen Victoria holds her, has received from her majesty the gold instead of the silver jubilee medal. The gold medal was conferred, as a rule, only on royal personages. Hans Wiseman, a famous Nebraska pioneer, is said to have killed in the course of his life 500 or more Indians. He now lives near Hartington, Neb., and is about 80 years old, but he is still hale and hearty. About thirty-five years ago, when Wiseman was serving in the army, Indians murdered his five children, and for many years no red man dared come within range of Wiseman's rifle. Mr. Gladstone recently acknowledged the receipt of a life of General Grant in these words, 'I thank you for your welcome gift of your most interesting 'Life of General Grant.' America is a happy country if she can produce even a few men worthy to be named as approaching to the excellence of Washington.' The reference is to a comparison drawn by the author between Grant and Washington.