

BOYCOTT UNLAWFUL.

STRIKERS LOST IN A HIGH FEDERAL COURT.

Their Boycott to Prevent Use of Machines in a Cooper Shop Declared Illegal by Judge Thayer and Sanborn—Judge Caldwell Says It's Labor's Only Weapon.

St. Louis, Mo., Nov. 15.—This morning an opinion was handed down in the United States circuit court of appeals in this city that the boycott was not a legal weapon. The decision was in the case of the Oxley State company of Kansas City, Kan., against H. C. Hoskins and twelve others, all members of the Coopers' union No. 18, and the Trades assembly.

Some of the defendants were employed in the Oxley State company. In January, 1906, the state company placed in their plant a machine to hoop barrels. The defendants, after requesting the state company to withdraw their machines and having their request refused, caused a boycott.

The state company went to the United States district court and secured an injunction against the defendants, restraining them from pushing the boycott. The defendants appealed to the United States circuit court of appeals, which now affirms the decision of the lower court.

Judges Sanborn and Thayer, in doing so, said the men had no right to form a conspiracy to deprive the company of its own rights to manage its own business. If such a thing was lawful, then a combination may be organized for the purpose of preventing the use of type-setting machines, presses, harvesters, threshers and thousands of other useful inventions.

Judge Caldwell dissented from his associates in a lengthy opinion, in which he said:

"The only weapon of defense the laborer can appeal to is the strike or boycott or both. These weapons they have an undoubted right to use so long as they use them in a peaceable and orderly manner. This is the only lawful limitation upon their use. That limitation is fundamental and must be observed. It was observed in the case at bar to its fullest extent. If these weapons are withheld from them, then, indeed, are they left naked to their enemies."

CARR'S TRIAL VERY SHORT

His Lawyer Refuses to Make a Defense—Admits the Charges Made.

LIBERTY, Mo., Nov. 15.—When the case of the state against William Carr, for the murder of his 3-year-old child, was called in the circuit court this morning ex-Judge Sandusky and D. C. Allen, Carr's attorneys, said that they had no defense to make, that the defendant admitted his guilt, but denied that when he left his home he intended to kill the child, and that his mental suffering was so great that he did not care how soon his punishment should come.

The state had subpoenaed about twenty witnesses, and Judge Broadbent ordered prosecuting attorney Woodson to present evidence to establish the death of the child and the guilt of the defendant. Carr was then brought up from the jail by Sheriff Hymer. He had on a dark suit of clothes and a white shirt and collar.

Coroner T. D. Bedford of Jackson county testified as to the autopsy held on the child, and described the wounds on the head and limbs. He was of the opinion that the child was dead when thrown into the river, that its death could have resulted from the wounds on the head or from strangulation caused by the rope around its neck.

Assistant Prosecutor Mastin and Chief of Police Hayes of Kansas City testified that Carr made his confession without compulsion and of his own free will. The only promise made to him before the confession was that if his wife came to Kansas City he would be allowed to see her.

After a few other witnesses had testified the case was closed. Judge Broadbent will probably pass sentence next week before the close of the term.

TRIES TO BUY A NAVY

Spain Negotiates for the Purchase of Battleships.

LONDON, Nov. 15.—In connection with Spain's hunt for warships, American diplomats have learned that Spain recently endeavored to make an arrangement with Japan whereby, in the event of war with the United States, the thirty or so warships now building in various shipyards for Japan would be transferred to Spain. Upon the failure of the negotiations the Spanish government entered upon a deal with Chile for the transfer to the Spanish flag of several vessels about completed for the Chilean republic.

The diplomats referred to express the opinion that from the standpoint of international law, the completion of such a deal might be regarded as an unfriendly act toward the United States. Besides the Rothschilds, other prominent financiers of London and Paris have entirely cut off the monetary supplies which Spain has hitherto succeeded in obtaining.

DIED TO VERIFY A BELIEF

John R. Bullitt, Jr., Was Curious to Learn the Future.

NEW YORK, Nov. 15.—John C. Bullitt, jr., of Duluth, Minn., was found dead to-day in a room at the Central Railroad hotel on Liberty street. The man had apparently committed suicide, as bottles containing hydrochloric acid, cyanide of potassium and nitric acid were found on a table near the bed upon which the corpse lay. A letter found in the apartment addressed to Joshua F. Bullitt, jr., Big Stone Gap, Wise county, Va., read as follows:

"Dear Joshua—I have decided to end it all. You will, I know, be interested in knowing how a person feels who is about to step into the unknown world. Hence, I will tell you what my feelings are.

"I wonder, I doubt, I hope, but over all the wonder and the doubt and the hope, a feeling of intense curiosity prevails. What is the future? I believe I know, but it is only a belief. I am very curious to verify it. The feeling of fear is absent. I am going from here to the Eden Musee to play chess with the automaton. This fact illustrates my mental condition, perhaps, more than a volume of my writing would. Death seems to me to be merely an event of no more importance, say, than breakfast. I love life and hate to leave it, but the summons has been served and I must answer. And now, good-by. We will meet again. Your brother, JOHN C. BULLITT, JR."

THE NEEDS OF THE NAVY.

Mr. Roosevelt Points Out the Present Weakness of This Country.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—At the annual banquet of the Society of Naval and Mechanical Engineers, Mr. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, made the principal speech. In part he said: "We need a large increase in the force both of officers and enlisted men, but the most crying need of the navy at the moment is the need of first class dry docks. Next comes the need for an ample quantity of smokeless powder and projectiles. We need a powerful fighting navy—a navy including an ample number of torpedo boats, an ample force of seagoing battleships, and also armored cruisers which should both possess endurance and in addition carry an abundance of rapid fire guns, our deficiency in torpedo boats being particularly marked.

"Unless we are willing to be put in the contemptible attitude of those who bluster without being able to back up their words by deeds, we must prove that our attitude about the Monroe doctrine is not a sham. To prove this means that we must have a powerful navy. If we annex Hawaii we shall need an adequate navy to enforce our position on the Pacific. If we do not annex Hawaii we shall need a much larger navy, as Hawaii cannot stand alone, some other power must necessarily take it, and that moment menace our whole Pacific coast."

HE BROKE HIS NECK

ENGINEER FRED NADEN'S FATAL LEAP.

A Bad Wreck at Broken Bow—An Extra Freight Run Into a Regular on the Siding—Engineer's Neck Broken in Jumping from the Cab.

A bad wreck occurred at Broken Bow at 3 o'clock Sunday morning. An extra freight going east ran into the second section of 48, also east bound, which was switching in the yards. Several cars were thrown from the track and badly smashed and the engine of the extra is almost a total wreck.

Fred Naden, engineer of the extra, was killed in jumping from the engine, his head striking a brakebeam and his brains were scattered for many feet. The fireman and head brakeman of the special had miraculous escapes and were uninjured. The wreckage was cleared away by noon so that trains could pass. The coroner's jury found that the blame lay with the dead engineer, who did not have his train under control and was running at a high rate of speed when the red signal was out to stop.

Engineer Naden's remains were taken to his home at Lincoln.

FREMONT SUGAR FACTORY

Steps Being Taken to Secure One—A Proposition Made.

The Board of trade of Fremont is at present considering a proposition of eastern capitalists to build a sugar factory in that city, and for several days representatives of the capitalists have been conferring with Fremonters and looking over the ground for a suitable site. The other night a meeting of the board was held and the matter was talked over fully. The idea given out by the representatives was that their people would come to Fremont and erect a 750 ton factory for a bonus of $100,000 and a site of forty acres of ground. It had been ascertained that the capitalists are of good financial standing, for the board has had all its wants of windy promoters. A resolution was finally carried that it be the sense of the meeting that an offer be made of $50,000 cash and forty acres of ground. Whether the capitalists will accept the proposition or not is not known.

MAY CLEAR THE MYSTERY

Possibility that the Dead Man Found Near Fifth May be Identified.

Although there were no new developments in the Fifth murder mystery today several rumors gained currency in effect that the identity of the dead man found near there the other day had been established. One story was that the deceased was the man Doyle, who suddenly disappeared from Ithica, Neb., several months ago. The description of one tallies very closely with the other, even to the clothing. Dr. Brandhoff of Fifth called upon Coroner Miller at Beatrice and said that a recent issue of a Modern Woodmen paper contained a description of a young man who was missing which corresponded closely with the one found. It is thought that the publicity given the matter by the newspapers will eventually result in clearing up the mystery. The coroner's mail has already assumed big proportions.

ROBBED HIS BEDFELLOW.

Wandering Corn Husker Decamps From a Farm Near Plattsmouth.

Saturday morning a strong and healthy looking wandering Willie, giving his name as Frank Heft, asked Mr. Valley for a job husking corn and was put to work by Flock. The two got along very well together and that night shared the same bunk. Out of pure gratitude to Mr. Flock the stranger decided that the bed was rather crowded and accordingly picked up his shadow and departed. Flock awoke later and noting the absence of his bedfellow instituted a search which revealed the loss of a revolver and a wallet containing $74 in cash. Flock notified all neighboring towns and unless the fellow avoids all settlements he will probably have to liquidate.

THE SCORE 6 TO 5

Referee Cornell Revises His Decision in Kansas-Nebraska Football Game.

LINCOLN, Neb., Nov. 16.—E. D. Cornell, referee of the Nebraska-Kansas football game, in a signed statement, reverses his decision, giving the game to Nebraska by a score of 6 to 5 instead of 10 to 5. The game and its outcome has greatly stirred college circles, also leading to the arrest of M. S. Harmon, a law student in the Kansas university, and his confinement in the county jail. Harmon, it is alleged, was stakeholder in many bets and refused to turn over the money. The warrant for his arrest charged "wagering on a game of chance," but this, it is claimed, was simply a subterfuge to hold him. Money held by him was replenished and late last night Harmon was released. He says, however, he will remain and fight the case in the courts.

Asphyxiated.

Carl J. Fosberg, a young man from Rockford, Minn., enroute to Lincoln, met death from asphyxiation at the State hotel, Omaha, some time Saturday night or Sunday. He registered at the hotel Saturday morning and went to his room about 10 o'clock. Some time along about midnight the night clerk, George DeFrance, heard groans issuing from the room, but did not think that anything serious was the matter and no more attention was paid to it until noon Sunday, when a chambermaid smelled gas and when the door was opened Fosberg was dead in his bed. He had blown out the gas. Letters in his valise disclosed the fact that his wife lives in Rockford, Minn., and that he has relatives named O. A. Sidwell at Holdrege and Johnson, at Kearney. The remains were turned over to the coroner and the relatives notified.

It is claimed that he was drunk. Mrs. Wilson's injuries are supposed to be quite serious internally.

SURE IT WAS MURDER.

Gage County's Latest Mystery Causing Much Conjecture.

The finding of the remains of an unknown man near Fifth this week has brought a flood of inquiries to Coroner Miller's office and in addition a lot of proffered solutions to the mystery, none of which are considered the least plausible. One man writes that about sixteen years ago a young man disappeared from that section of the country and expresses the belief that the remains of the unknown are his. That they had been buried somewhere and had been taken up and placed in that out of the way place. This is a fair sample of more than a score of solutions which have been heard given of the mystery. That the case is one of murder is not questioned, and people generally are hoping it will be solved, but at present such a result appears very remote. The case has revived discussion over the apparent easiness with which murders are committed in this county without fear of detection, a number having occurred during the past few years, which include the murder of Henry Thiessen, near Ellis, Davy Jones, near Wymore, and the one at Filley, neither of which ever came to light.

FARMER KILLS HIMSELF.

Found Sitting in a Chair With a Revolver in His Hand.

Edward Ridder, a farmer about thirty-five years of age, living near Fairbury, committed suicide in John's livery office about 4 o'clock Monday afternoon. His body was found sitting upright in a chair. In his right hand he held a thirty-two calibre revolver, while his life blood was pouring from a ghastly hole in his temple. Ridder's wife left him about three months ago and it is thought that that, together with financial troubles, caused melancholy. He left no explanation of his rash act. The coroner's jury returned a verdict in accordance with the above facts.

Commuted His Sentence.

Governor Holcomb Monday commuted the sentence of James Hardick, who some time ago was sentenced to three years in the penitentiary for entering a school house and carrying away five joints of stovepipe, a lamp and water bucket. He was received at the penitentiary February 7. Since Hardick's imprisonment his wife and four children have been supported by the county. Several persons interested in the prosecution and many citizens, including Judge M. L. Hayward of Nebraska City, petitioned the governor to pardon the prisoner. Governor Holcomb commuted the sentence and Hardick was released Monday.

THE PLAINTIFF TESTIFIES

Miss Berge Tells Her Side of the Controversy with Dr. Haslam.

The $10,000 breach of promise case of Miss Marie Berge vs. Dr. Haslam, now on in district court at Fremont was fairly started Tuesday. Monday evening Dr. Haslam was on the stand. The contract of marriage was admitted by defendant's attorneys and the witness identified certain letters and papers introduced by the plaintiff.

The plaintiff was next placed upon the stand. She testified that when the contract of marriage was made she was fifteen years of age; that the first knowledge she had of the contract being broken was when the defendant was married in 1893; that the defendant visited her after her removal to Beemer. Her attorneys attempted to introduce a bunch of letters written by the defendant but the judge ruled this out. It came out in her testimony that there were no signatures to the letters, or addresses either, for the plaintiff, in returning photographs and letters to the defendant, had cut them out, not caring to write them in her hand. She testified that on one occasion the doctor had asked her to come to Fremont and get acquainted with his friends, but she never had, owing to his coldness. She had continued to love him and said there was no one like him. After his marriage she staid in the house and did not go in company for a year.

A PROBABLE MURDER.

Body of a Man Found in the Underbrush Near Adams.

The remains of an unknown man were found Wednesday between Adams and Fifth. They were lying in a draw near the Nemaha and were covered with underbrush. The were discovered by hunters, who notified the coroner of Gage county. The man had been dead so long that the flesh had all decayed. A bullet hole was in his skull. The inference is that he was shot. It is probable, from the kind of clothing and its condition, that the remains had lain there at least six months, and maybe more. The remains were those of a young man, apparently about 25 years old.

The case is as yet shrouded in absolute mystery. No one has been missing from that section of the country, nor is there apparently as yet any clue as to who the man was. Coroner Miller has ordered the remains and clothing sent to Beatrice and will place them in the vault in the court house basement, hoping at some future time to be able to unearth the mystery.
