NEW SLAVERY AT CAPE TOWN. Bechuana Prisoners Are Bought by the Farmers. The "slave mart," judging from an article in the Cape Times, appears to rouse the liver, cure billiousbe definitely established in Cape Town, says the London Chronicle. The slaves, of course, are the Bechuana prisoners, and although there is no suggestion that these wretched creatures are treated with harshness while in the government care, they are clearly considered and disposed of precisely as if they were mere bales of goods or cattle. Careful watch and ward is kept over them and the writer says that "it is not easy to pass the strict guard at the gate unless you are a farmer coming to pick your labor. . . Round three sides of the square courtyard men and women are squatting impassively or standing chattering in knots. They are ill-clad and exceedingly ill-favored, but not ill-nourished, like the first batch of skeletons that came down to town. A child here and there is even bonny. There is no very obvious dejection. The nearest to it is a moody, passive look."

The farmers, too, quite enter into the spirit of the "slave mart." They go round the market scanning the men and "sorting out those of the largest size," as did the walrus and the carpenter with the oysters. The natives east expressionless, sidelong glances at their possible masters while they are being appraised like goods in a store. Having selected one or two from a group, the farmer is chagrined at being told by a harried official: "We cannot break this lot for you," as if the knot of negroes were a dinner service or a suite of bedroom furniture. Back goes the farmer and looks the natives up and down again, and at length decides "to take the lot." When the natives are duly indentured for five years their master unhitches his eart and mules, outside, bundles his "labor" in and drives his bargain home.

THE BULLDOG A GOOD DOG. Yet We Do Not Care to Take Liberties with One.

No member of the canine family has been more persistently maligned than the bulldog. Writers who have no intimate knowledge of the dog and his at tributes have described him as stugadly fereeious, and illustrators have pie tured him as a sort of semi-wild boast til the general public has come to look upon him as dangerous, says Outing,

"Give a dog a bad name," is an old saw and perhaps a true one, but when it is applied to the buildog, it is manifestly unjust. Writers, too, have fallen into grave error in claiming that the bulldog is deficient not only in affection, but in intelligence.

No greater proof of the falsity of the latter could be given than was witnessed at the late Westminister Kennel club's dog show, when Col. Shults exhibited his trained dogs, with the bulldog Nick performing all sorts of wonderful feats, especially that of walking a tight rope, and, when in the center of it, turning round and retracing his steps, amid the applause of an admiring audience.

Stonehenge, who is considered one of the greatest of canine scientists, claims that the bulldog's brain is relatively larger than that of the spaniel, which dog is generally considered to be the while the bulldog's affection is never to be doubted.

JUDGED BY THEIR WALK.

Pace Sometimes Indicates the Char acter of the Girls.

You have seen the woman who jerks her head as she walks, I suppose? The habit is not uncommon, and on close acquaintance you will find that a woman so afflicted is given to fickleness. She trifles a little too much with love, and is just the woman to miss a good husband and be sorry afterward, mys the Boston Traveler.

The quiet man will never be happy with the woman who digs her heels into the pavement and scurries along as if she were running a race. She is business-like and most likely the woman to succeed in trade affairs, but her manner is one of those simple things that worry the quiet man to death.

The girl who cannot walk without skipping is a very cheerful girl and enjoys life with much the same gusto as the girl with an elastic step who tips on her toes at every stride. But perhaps the girl we like most is the girl with the brisk, musical walk, who loves to peep for a moment into shop windows and then walk briskly on, and who goes through life with the fixed resolve of getting the most pleasure out of every-

Irish Donkey in Africa.

The Irish donkey has covered himself with glory in South Africa, where he is in great demand, says the Philadelphia Record. His toughness laughs to seom the tsetse fly, so fatal to cattle and horses, and all the other insectivorous pests of that region, and in the matter of diet he is as accommodating as at home. There is, in consequence, a great boom in the Irish "moke" market, English and Dutch syndicates having already invested $25,000 in donkey flesh in Clare, Tipperary and Limerick alone, and a new branch of industry is opening up to the Irish farmer.

Comparative Fertility. A Yorkshire man and a Leicestershire man were arguing as to the superior fertility of their respective counties. The Leicestershire man declared that he could turn a horse into a newly-mowed field in his county and the next morning the grass would have grown above his hoofs. "Pooh! that's nothing." cried the Yorkshire man. "You may turn a horse into a field in Yorkshire and not be able to find him the next morning."

A VALUABLE DISCOVERY.

The Secret of a Miner in the Kiondike Gold Fields.

The Klondike is responsible for the concoction of a chemical compound which promises to revolutionize mining methods in every section where winter puts a stop to operations every year. The nature of the chemical is a se eret, which the inventor will divulge to no one. The chemical is simple and cheap, however, and can be manufactured upon the ground where the mine is located. The discoverer will locate several mines in the spring, and develop them the following summer and winter. No matter how cold the atmosphere, it will not interfere with the thawing properties of the wonderful

The value of such a discovery is readily apparent. It practically conquers the inconvenience of cold and exfreme temperatures, and does away with the necessity of thawing the ground by the slow and tedjous method of building fires and allowing them to thaw out the frozen earth. The inventor estimates that the chemical will melt the earth to the depth of two feet. Continual application of the fluid will allow the miners to keep continuusly at their labor.

Besides using the fluid for developing whatever mines he locates, the inventor will take up enough material to supply the other miners at reasonable Ex-President and His Stenk. A story goes the rounds that a few days ago Mr. Casimir-Pirier and his son. while cycling between Sens and Montereau, stopped at a village inn and asked for lunch. "Nothing to give you." said the landlady, "but sardines and eggs. "Can you not add a beefsteak?" "Impossible. If we had a cycle and some body to ride it I could send for the meat. most intelligent of the canine race, but you know that it would take an hour to go to the butcher's and back." "If that's your only reason," said the ex-president, "we can overcome the difficulty." In a moment be and Master Casimir-Pirier were again on their steel horses and the ex-president in time fetched back a succulent sirloin steak.

Music on the Graphophone.

Few people appreciate the marvelous power of the Graphophone as an entertainer. It is an instrument which, though it costs much less than the least expensive musical instrument, will enable its owner to have at pleasure music of any kind-from that of the bagpipe to that of the grand military band. It reproduces vocal selections and gives one command of every pleasure that appeals to the sense of hearing. No investment pays such large returns in pleasure. Besides reproducing the musical and other records made for entertainment purposes, the Graphophone will record immediately and reproduce at once and as often as is desired, your own words or song, or any sound. By writing to the Columbia Phonograph Company, 720-722 Olive St., St. Louis, Mo., you can obtain a catalogue that will give full information as to prices of Graphophone outfits.

Acropolis Built Before Christ. On a stone of the temple of "Winged Victory" on the Aeropolis at Athens an inscription has been found stating that the monument was built by Kalierates. the was one of the architects of the Parthenon at the beginning of Pericles' government. This fixes its date at about 450 years before Christ. The Athens Archaeological society is about to undertake the restoration and strengthening of the Parthenon. Marble from Pentelicos will be furnished free for this by the company working the quarries.
