

RUSHED TO SAMAR

Troops Pushed Forward to Avert Additional Disaster.

INSURRECTION MUST BE HAMMERED OUT

General Smith Instructs Commanders That Lubkan Must Be Captured and Island Once More Pacified—Insurgents Fought—Other News.

Owing to the vigilance of Lieutenant Thomas M. Baines, jr., of the Ninth United States infantry, another slaughter of American troops has been averted. It seems that Lieutenant Baines discovered a prisoner re-entering a cell at Carbiga, island of Samar, where several were confined, through a hole that had been made in the wall.

An investigation shows a plan to fill the jail with bolomen and to call the guard, which would be necessary to get the door open, and then to attack the garrison. It also develops that the instigators were a priest and the president, both of whom have been arrested, together with several other prominent persons.

Other attempts have been discovered but fortunately frustrated at Pamujan and other points in Samar. Several persons have been arrested in connection with these. Reinforcements are being rushed to Samar. Three hundred and thirty marines, under Lieutenant Col. Mance C. Goodwill have gone there on board the United States cruiser, "New York," and two battalions of the Twelfth infantry will start immediately for the same destination.

United States officers from other provinces that were supposed to be pacified, have recently arrived in Manila and they say that the news of American disasters spreads like wild fire among the natives, who scarcely attempt to conceal their delight.

The Manila constabulary discovered a large quantity of steel wagon springs which were being shipped to various districts. Investigation showed that these were to be used in manufacturing bolos.

The troops in Sama anticipate hard fighting. Brigadier General Jacob H. Smith, who is in command, has visited most of the ports and instructed the commanders that the insurrection must be hammered out and General Lubkan, the insurgent leader, captured. Already the movement of troops has begun.

COURT RESTRAINS PICKETS

Chicago Judge Calls Assaults of Strikers Civil Warfare.

Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States circuit court at Chicago, granted a permanent injunction restraining Reliable lodge No. 233, international association of machinists, from picketing the works of the Allis-Chalmers company or in anyway intimidating the workmen of the company.

In rendering the decision the court characterized assaults by strikers as civil warfare and as malicious as midnight murder. He said it was the undoubted right of workmen to quit work severally or in a body so long as the act did not come within the rule against conspiracy to injure the property of another.

The time, up to that point, with the wind in the balloon's favor, was eight minutes and forty-five seconds. It returned against the wind and made slower headway, but still kept in the true direction for St. Cloud, which it reached in the total time of twenty-nine minutes, fifteen seconds.

FATHER AND SON SLAIN BY RELATIVE

Engage in Fight in a Saloon and One Man Does the Shooting—Backed Up by His Stepson—Parties Are Locked Up—Other News.

A Waco, Tex., October 22 dispatch says: One of the fiercest street duels ever fought in this section since the famous Brann-Davis tragedy occurred shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday on Austin avenue, the busiest thoroughfare in the city. The principals in the tragedy were ex-Sheriff H. T. Harris and his son, H. T. Harris, jr., on the one side, and Dr. J. G. Lovelace and his stepson, Z. T. Reynolds, on the other.

It is believed bad feeling has existed between the men for some time over family affairs and trouble has been expected as a result.

The parties met by chance in the Turf saloon, and young Harris, it is alleged, opened fire with a shotgun on Lovelace over his (Harris's) father's shoulder, but without effect. Lovelace immediately returned the fire with a revolver, killing young Harris almost instantly. Lovelace then turned his revolver on the elder Harris, who likewise was killed.

Lovelace and Reynolds were both uninjured. They immediately gave themselves up and were taken to the county jail and were locked up to await the action of the grand jury which is now in session.

The principals were all related in some degree by marriage.

The fact that the distinguished senator's body was to be removed from the state which had honored him in life was not known until recently and has caused considerable comment. It had been proposed to erect a mausoleum in one of the city parks wherein the body might be entombed and a measure looking to this end was considered by the last state legislature. However, no action had been taken and it is said that Mrs. Davis, becoming displeased with the delay, determined to remove the remains to Washington for interment.

PANIC IN A THEATRE

Cry of Fire Crazes a Crowd in a Louisville Playhouse

NEARLY A SCORE RECEIVED INJURIES

Some Killed Outright, But a Number Crushed—Wenker Ones Victims of Strong and Roughly Trampled Upon—A False Alarm.

A Louisville, Ky., October 22 dispatch says: Hundred of people attempted to rush out of the Temple theatre because the cry of fire was raised when a little flame was seen about the polyscope machine. Many were knocked down and thirteen injured, three seriously. Of the latter one may die. A number of other persons were bruised or cut, but their injuries were slight.

It was about 3:30 o'clock, just after the first act of "Tennessee's Partner," and while the Polyscope was being gotten ready that the little flash of flame came that caused the panic. Many women and children who mainly composed the audience made a rush for the door. The panic seized the gallery and in a moment the occupants were plunging down the stairway in a heap or were taking the swifter method by climbing down into the auditorium proper. In their haste, many fell, landing on those beneath. Several were badly hurt in this way.

Meanwhile, those who had retained their heads had gone to work to stop the mad rush. The ushers and theatre attaches acted with great coolness. The band played and Charles T. Bates, a member of the stock company, danced. This had much effect in quieting those nearest the stage.

The great crush occurred where the steps came down from the gallery. Here the two crowds met and were packed into the a space not large enough for half of them, and all were trying with desperation borne of fear to reach the street. The weaker were soon knocked down and trampled upon. Those who realized the state of affairs were trying their best to check the rush, but the crowd went on pell-mell through the doors and literally rolled down the long stairs.

As soon as the rush was over care of the injured began. A room was converted into a temporary hospital. The greatest haste was made in removing the injured from the building in order to prevent the panic when the audience was dismissed.

Every patrol wagon and ambulance in the city was soon engaged in hauling the more seriously wounded to the hospitals, or to their homes. The members of the stock company showed the greatest presence of mind and the play was finished without a hitch.

Clarence Moffert, connected with the theatre, closed the wide exit doors as the rush began. But for this the rush would have carried everything before it and hundreds might have been injured. There was no danger from fire. It is said the extent of the fire was the blowing out of a fuse on the polyscope.

The marshal accompanied the boys to the school house and turned them over to the superintendent. He will continue the work.

Nebraska Girl Suffers Because of a Sister's Jealous Disposition.

Because it is alleged, of a sister's jealousy, Miss Carrie Morganstein has been confined in the insane ward of the county hospital at Denver for nearly four months. Only through the intervention of the county authorities has she been released. The sister, Miss Helen Morganstein, it is charged, is making every effort to have the unfortunate girl returned to the hospital. Carrie Morganstein went to Denver last March from Lawrence, Neb. Helen had been in Denver some time before her sister came and had fallen in love, it is asserted, with a certain young man. His affections were transferred to the newcomer. There was another cause for trouble. Carrie believes in earning her living. Her sister refused to look for work and Carrie upbraided her for her idleness. STOLE $74,610 IN STAMPS

A Chicago Postoffice Vault Entered by Robbers.

A robbery which netted the thieves $74,610 in stamps was discovered at Chicago when the wholesale department of the postoffice was opened for business Monday morning.

A rapid investigation developed the fact that the burglars had crawled under the flooring for about 300 feet, bored a hole in the bottom of the vault, secured the stamps and escaped, carrying their booty in a wagon.

The work of forming an entrance to the vault had evidently been going forward with the greatest patience for many days. It is believed that the intention of the thieves had been to enter the cashier's vault, in which there was $35,000 in money and stamps valued at hundreds of thousands of dollars.

Beet Crop Surprisingly Good.

A compilation has just been made by Superintendent A. S. Gregorait of the Fremont sugar beet syndicate in regard to the harvest raised on sixty-five acres which were put out to the anchorage vegetable this year in the vicinity of Fremont. The showing is better than for any other season during the past three years, notwithstanding the period of death during July. The average yield per acre is ten and one-half tons, which at the current prices for beets means about $45 in cash realized from each acre planted. One acre which Mr. Gregorait allowed to remain in the field without extra cultivation until all the best of the crop was harvested for purposes of experimentation, has yielded fifteen tons. It is believed that the gross returns of the company's crop would have been increased nearly one half had the beets been allowed to remain in the ground longer.
