About Road Building.

INAVALLE, NEB., Oct. 12. Editor CHIEF: In last week's CHIEF you refer to the road running north from Red Cloud as an example of the manner in which the roads of the country districts are built. Why not take the road running east and west through Inavale, where hundreds of dollars have been paid out by the county commissioners for making it into ponds and water courses and otherwise rendering it unsafe and unfit for travel, and destructive to adjoining property?

As THE CHIEF remarks, "something should be done." With your permission I will suggest a remedy next week.

or unwholesome food made with an alum baking powder?

It is worth your while to inquire.
