A drive over the road leading straight south from Red Cloud furnishes a ready explanation of why farmers living south of the Kansas line prefer going to Lebanon, rather than Red Cloud, to trade. One farmer over there, who lives two miles closer to Red Cloud than to Lebanon, said he could drive to Lebanon in an hour less time than he could to this city. The King drag is the remedy.

It will be given with the entire scenic production, together with many effects that go to secure a perfect presentation of the grandest drama ever written.

"Doc" Morrison Illustrated.

Omer Butler, son of J. O. Butler, is one of the cartoonists on the Omaha World-Herald, and in Wednesday's issue of that paper he has a cartoon entitled "How They Look in Action," which is intended to depict the officials of the Dental Association when at work. N. H. Morrison of Red Cloud is secretary of the association, and is shown as the central figure of the picture carrying a huge pair of forceps in his hand and a quill behind his ear. The likeness is striking and Norman is easily recognized by his friends. We hardly think it is fair, though, for Omer to poke fun at Red Cloud people.

School Notes

G. W. DUDLEY, SUPT.

Miss Abel was in McCook Wednesday. Mrs. Saylor substituted in the South ward during her absence.

Many Nebraska schools closed this week. Those that did so had no spring vacation and only one week's vacation at Christmas.

Exeter will submit to a vote, early in June, $5,000 bond issue, the money to be used to annex two new rooms to the school building.

The tennis court on the high school grounds is much in demand. For many of the boys, however, tennis doesn't take the place of the national game—base ball.

George W. Berge, who will deliver the commencement address on the evening of May 30, in the opera house, is greatly in demand. He is billed to serve in a similar capacity for many other Nebraska schools. Mr. Berge is well known to both school men and politicians. He is a thoroughly wide-awake speaker and full of the vim and force that makes an orator.

At the opening of school next year Miss Perkins' room in the North ward will be crowded beyond its capacity. At the recent meeting of the board, President Fulton appointed Messrs. Raines and Caldwell a committee to investigate the conditions and suggest means to meet them. The schools are in a condition in which something must be done in the way of providing room.

The first number of the commencement week program will be the baccalaureate address, delivered in the M. E. church by Rev. Ward L. Austin, Sunday evening, May 27. This will be followed on Wednesday night by the commencement oration by George W. Berge of Lincoln. The final number, class night exercises, will occur May 31. The two last numbers will be in the opera house.

The expense of graduation week is going to be somewhat heavy. Mr. Berge's fee will be $25 and expenses. The use of the opera house will be $50 for two nights. Besides this incidental expenses will amount to a considerable sum. The school would be glad to place the admission to the exercises at 10 cents a night, but since the entertainments are to be self-supporting this is impossible. The opera house rental is the heaviest item of expense. The only means of reducing this would be to hold the exercises in a church. But since the patrons of the schools are of various denominations as well as those of no denomination, any church that might be chosen might not be suitable to all. Hence it seems advisable to use the opera house. It is unfortunate that we have but one opera house, else it might be possible to secure a lower rate than $25 a night. Certainly few traveling troupes pay that amount. A home institution should at least be granted as low a rate as is granted to itinerants.

"Baldy" Vest Released.

"Baldy" (Will) Vest, who has been in the county jail since January 26, awaiting trial on the charge of having stabbed Vainor McGinnis with intent to kill, was released yesterday by Judge Adams. J. S. Gilham, Vest's attorney, demanded that he be given a hearing. Judge Adams, after questioning "Baldy" rather closely as to his past career and giving him a little good advice as to his future conduct, released him on his own recognizance, to appear at the September term of the district court. McGinnis, the prosecuting witness in the case, left town shortly before the first session of the present term of court and this was taken as an indication that he did not want to prosecute Vest.

Every man is valued in this world as he shows by his conduct that he wishes to be valued.—Bruyere.
