WATER SITUATION.

Work at the Old Plant Resumed With Good Prospects.

The work of lowering the tiling which leads from the south well to the manhole about 300 feet northwest has been progressing rather slowly owing to the difficulty of attempting to place the new tiling in position without removing the old. One thing has been demonstrated, however, and that is that there is plenty of water there if handled properly. This time the water will run downhill instead of uphill, as has been the case for years, and it is thought a flow of at least 40 gallons per minute can be secured from this source alone. The reported cave-in was merely the result of escaping water washing out the bank be-

Deaths and Funerals.

Julius Newbury.

Julius Newberry, who has been prescription clerk in C. L. Cotting's drug store for about three and a half years, died Wednesday morning at 12:55. Death had been expected at almost time since Saturday evening when he was discovered in his room in an unconscious condition. Medical aid was immediately summoned but all efforts of the physicians failed to arouse him.

He had just returned from a trip to Wyoming, and was apparently in the best of health, when he was stricken with the malady which resulted in his death.

Julius was of a quiet, unassuming disposition, and had made friends with everyone with whom he came in contact. There is not much to be said about his personality, save that he was a whole-souled man and a conscientious Christian.

Julius U. Newbury was born at Pilot Point, Texas, December 27, 1877, where he made his home until he came to Red Cloud about three and a half years ago.

Funeral services were held at the home of his uncle, C. L. Cotting, this afternoon, conducted by Rev. Ward L. Austin, assisted by Rev. G. H. Rice.
