Newsy Notes From Neighboring Towns

GATHERED FROM OUR EXCHANGES

CAMPBELL

(From the Citizen.)

Bault & Thibodeau have finished putting in a cement crossing with concrete culverts, for the city, between Davis' carpenter shop and Wm. Mathe-ney's residence.

Last Friday Emma Hundt, the 12 year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. August Hundt south of town, was operated on for appendicitis by Dr. Swat-lander, assisted by a specialist from Hastings. The operation was entirely successful.

The Campbell Roller Mills this week received their new bleacher and dynamo, and the boys with the assistance of their brother W. C. Reichstein, have been putting the machinery into place. The latter is a millwright from the ground up, and when he has pronounced the work good it won't need any immediate fixing. The mill will soon have its own electric lights from the new power, and in all respects be up-to-date and modern.

Jack Aultz is firmly convinced that Friday is in reality an unlucky day, and last Friday was the worst in the almanac. A bunch of the boys went to the river on the date mentioned, ostensibly to fish, and Jack was one of them. While D. H. Clark, who was his side partner, got out to open a gate-Jack drove through. Just inside the pasture was an innocent little mud hole, about the size of the B. & M. de pot lawn, and it was therefore a little matter of surprise to the careful driver when the team stopped out of sight in it. Jack kept the buggy afloat, however, until the singletree broke, when he took the high dive so sudden and his head struck bottom so hard that he had little opportunity to enjoy the applause of his audience. It was certainly a neat performance. The end of Jack's troubles were not reached, however, for the boys tipped the buggy over coming home. Moreover, we don't believe they caught any fish--lestwise we didn't see any.

BLOOMINGTON

(From the Advocate)

Lyman Eastman and J. M. Pollard, two of the board of supervisors who are here this week, went to Franklin last Wednesday night and met with an accident that nearly put them out of commission. In crossing Center Creek bridge the tongue of the buggy came down and the team started to run pulling Mr. Eastman out onto his hips, and since that time he has hardly been able to move.

Pat Schobel's driving horse got scared at the washed out approach to the bridge northwest of town Monday and backed up turning the buggy over and putting it out of business.

FRANKLIN

(From the Sentinel.)

The flood Thursday did considerable damage by filling the cellars under the business houses along the west side of Nebraska avenue.

What came near being one of the most fatal accidents of the year alarmed our citizens early Friday morning when a group of men were observed carrying Tom Clow home on a stretcher. While working around the horse belonging to Mr. Cate and stalled in his barn he received a kick just a little below and to the right of the heart which knocked him across the barn and rendered him unconscious. Had it been directly over the heart or over stomach the blow would have probably have killed him. As it was his heart action was precarious for several days but he is now nicely improving and on Wednesday sat up for some time. We rejoice with all the relatives and many friends to know he is on the road to recovery.

GUIDE ROCK

(From the Signal.)

The Rebekah's of Guide Rock who attended the 20th District meeting at Red Cloud June 6, have nothing but words of praise to speak in favor of Red Cloud and her citizens who extended to them a warm greeting on that day.

Lightning struck a couple of telephone poles east of town Sunday, damaging them considerably.

The editor received six varieties of melon seeds from Mrs. I. B. Hampton, of Hampton, Okla. The seeds will be planted and any dod gasted old geezer that gets in that melon patch will get it where Willie got the slipper.

South and east side farmers tell us that obstructions are forming under the river bridge that should be removed. Two or three old trees have lodged and are forming islands that will make things serious when the ice breaks up next spring.

Frank Yetter is laid up with a sore hand, as the result of getting it between a handspike and a heavy hammer.

The crew of train 15 evidently became weary of a pair of drunks Saturday evening and put them off here.

LEBANON.

(From the Argus.)

The friends and neighbors of Mrs. Pete Burgess to the number of forty-two surprised that couple by going in on them Sunday, that being the thirty-ninth birthday of Mrs. Burgess.

Norton has secured the services of the Lebanon band for their Fourth of July celebration.

Mrs. and Mrs. R. L. Skaggs started Sunday morning for their "Old Kentucky Home."

Mr. P. C. Glenn returned from Excelsior Springs, Missouri, Monday evening, where he had taken Mrs. Glenn for treatment.

Work of filling the standpipe commenced Tuesday. The city now owns a big well with twenty feet of water in it, and all think there will be an ample supply for sometime to come.

Ed Ricketts, whose home is in Salem, suffered a stroke of paralysis the first of the week, and at this writing little hopes are entertained for his recovery.

Report reaches us that Chas. Myres of Logan township is losing his hogs, twenty-seven head dying during a day and a night.

J. J. Timberlake lost a fine brood mare Thursday. The cause was indigestion, which Veterinary Hobbs says is the trouble in most of his cases now.

SUPERIOR

(From the Express.)

W. F. Neihaus went to Sterling Nebraska, Tuesday to represent Superior in the contest for the location of the German Lutheran college which is to be located somewhere in this part of the state by the Synod now in session.

A party from Red Cloud came down Monday and bought a ticket to Jamestown, Va., claiming that he saved $5 by so doing.

David Evans, who had his foot crushed at the round house here recently, and went to the hospital, will soon have the injured member amputated.

Probably you think it's a fib, but counting by the twenty-five foot lots, there are 40 two story bricks in Superior.

RIVERTON

(From the Review.)

Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fulton and their daughter Erma returned Wednesday evening from the St. Joe hospital where the latter was operated on recently for appendicitis.

Sunday morning about 1 o'clock some unknown person made an attempt to break into the telephone central but was unsuccessful.

Last Friday Albert Euell got his right hand in a feed grinder mangleing it badly. Dr. T. B. Myers was called and he deemed it necessary to amputate his thumb and three fingers leaving but the little finger. Albert is an orphanboy.

BLUE HILL.

(From the Leader.)

Mr. and Mrs. Claas Rose and Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Cusking left yesterday for Europe to spend the summer.

Dr. E. P. Condon of Omaha was here Wednesday assisting Dr. Thompson operate on two patients. Mrs. William Koon, seven miles southwest, was operated on for inflammatory troubles, and Miss Stella Klein for appendicitis. Both are getting along very well.

W. A. Speedy was in Blue Hill a few hours the fore part of the week on his way to Hildreth making dates for the season as high diver and balloonist.

R. A. Simpson has purchased the business lot of W. R. Snyder on Gage street. This gives him a frontage of 44 feet at the corner of Gage and Liberty and it is an ideal site for a good building.

BLADEN

(From the Enterprise)

The I. O. O. F. picnic celebrating the first anniversary of the organization of the lodge at this place, which was held yesterday, was, to say the least, one of the greatest and most enjoyable occasions that has ever been held in Bladen.

Quite a number of improvements are soon to be made in the way of new and substantial street crossings, sidewalks, etc.

Last Friday morning, while in swimming with several other boys, Lester Boyd of this place came near drowning.

Mr. and Mrs. Walker Richison have taken charge of Glenwood and North Bladen telephone central office.

His Old Letters.

A Wall street business man showed a visitor a bundle of old letters that he was taking home from his office to burn in his furnace. "I wasn't always so particular about these useless business letters," he said, "until I learned that the women cleaners were sorting them out of the wastebaskets and selling them to certain firms which make a business of furnishing lists of names for various purposes, mostly to speculative concerns. Then I concluded that I owed it to my clients to protect them from the nuisance that follows getting one's name on a mailing list."--New York Sun.

PIONEER COURT INCIDENTS.

Free and Easy Manners in Early Illinois Trials.

Most of the early Illinois court-houses were log built, but in some districts, says the author of "Lincoln, the Lawyer," the sessions were held in the barrooms of taverns, and the absence of all formality in the proceedings is best illustrated by the fact that in the circuit court of Washington county, held by Judge John Reynolds, the sheriff usually heralded his honor by singing out, "Come in, boys! Our John is a-goin' to hold court!" to which cordial invitation those having business with the law responded.

Another sheriff in Union county made laudable efforts to meet the requirements of the occasion by shouting out this singular announcement: "Oh, yes! Oh, yes! Oh, yes! The honorable judge is now opened!"

In one case a judge who desired to display his learning instructed the jury very fully, laying down the law with authority, but the jurors, after deliberating some hours, found themselves unable to agree. Finally the foreman rose and asked for additional instructions.

"Judge, this 'ere is the difficulty," he explained. "The jury want to know if that thar what you told us was r'aly the law, or on'y jist your notion."--Youth's Companion.

EMBROIDERED TRUTH.

Mark Twain on His Own Reputation For Veracity.

I am used to having my statements discounted. My mother began it before I was seven years old. Yet all through my life my facts have had a substratum of truth, and therefore they were not without preclusiveness. Any person who is familiar with me knows how to strike my average and therefore knows how to get at the jewel of any fact of mine and dig it out of its blue clay matrix. My mother knew that art. When I was seven or eight or ten or twelve years old--along there--a neighbor said to her:

"Do you ever believe anything that that boy says?"

My mother said:

"He is the wellspring of truth, but you can't bring up the whole well with one bucket." And she added: "I know his average, therefore he never deceives me. I discount him 30 per cent for embroidery, and what is left is perfect and priceless truth without a flaw in it anywhere."--Mark Twain's Autobiography in North American Review.

The Fighting Lemming.

If the lemming's powers were proportioned to his pluck, the lemming would make things lively for the hunter. It attacks with reckless fury the harmless passerby. One of these creatures, smaller than a rat, will assail without a second thought a couple of human beings weighing 150 pounds apiece. It will spring to one's knees, barking and biting, and in purblind fury fall back "all ends up" to the earth, only to renew the attack again and again. One day while one lemming was flying at me another from beyond a small stream joined in the demonstration and presently swam across to get to close quarters. I was not quite sure that the first fall into the water was not accidental, but hardly think so, since once there it came straight to the charge. "Wild Norway."

Most Nearly Perfect Vacuum.

It was Professor Dewar's achievement in liquefying hydrogen that led to the discovery of an easy method of obtaining an almost perfect vacuum, and that in a single minute. When a glass tube filled with air and closed at one end has its open end dipped into a cup of liquid hydrogen, the intense cold condenses the air into a kind of snow that settles to the bottom. If, then, the upper part of the tube, from which the solidified air has fallen, is removed by heating and cooling it off it becomes a vacuum chamber so free from air that it is difficult to force an electric current through it.--New York Herald.

Morton L. Labor.

The doctrine of the farm is merely this, that every man ought to stand in primary relations with the work of the world; ought to do it himself and not to suffer the accident of his having a purse in his pocket, or his having been bred to some dishonorable or injurious craft, to sever him from those duties and for this reason, that labor is God's education; that he only is a sincere learner, he only can become matter who learns the secret of labor and who by real cunning extorts from nature its scepter.--Emerson.
