

Tribute to the Phonograph

Even John Philip Sousa, the great bandmaster, who has no use for Phonographs, has been forced to recognize the Phonograph as a formidable competitor. The two-step king says that people will no longer go to concerts if they can have music in their own homes so easily and so cheaply as they can with the Phonograph. This is an unwilling tribute, but it is nevertheless a tribute. The man who has a Phonograph has a concert in his own house. Even a king could not have more. At our store you can hear them any time.

DEFENSE IN HAYWOOD CASE

EFFORT TO IMPEACH STORY OF HARRY ORCHARD.

TRY TO SHOW HATRED AS MOTIVE

First Testimony Chiefly Directed Toward Showing that Orchard Killed Steunenberg Out of Revenge for Loss of Hercules Mine.

Boise, Ida., June 26.—The first direct testimony in defense of William D. Haywood was chiefly directed toward showing that Harry Orchard, blaming Frank Steunenberg for the loss of his interest in the Hercules mine, had threatened to have revenge by killing him, and that the conduct of Orchard and K. C. Sterling, both before the independence explosion, when they were frequently seen together and afterward, when Sterling called off a bloodhound that was following Orchard's trial, justified the inference that the mine owners inspired the crime.

The calling of the first witness for the defense was preceded by a further examination of Orchard to permit the defense to complete its formal impeaching questions. These questions were nearly all in connection with the claim that Orchard killed Steunenberg because of an alleged grudge, growing out of the sale of his interest in the Hercules mine. Orchard, who came into court under protection of the same flying squadron of guards that always acts as his escort, maintained his old calmness. He again denied that he ever threatened to kill Steunenberg because of the Hercules mine and again asserted that he sold his interest in the mine two years before the trouble that drove him out of northern Idaho. Two witnesses called later in the day swore that Orchard did threaten to kill Steunenberg because of the Hercules matter, and the defense has prepared the way for such testimony from a dozen more witnesses. The two heard were F. R. Redd, once of Cripple Creek and now of Goldfield, Nev., and the other Charles A. Sullivan, formerly of Cripple Creek and now a watchman in the Brown hotel in Denver.

Redd said he heard Orchard make the statement and threat in the miners' hall in Cripple Creek, and Sullivan swore that while he and Orchard were fellow boarders at John Neville's place, in Cripple Creek, Orchard repeatedly said that but for Steunenberg he would be a rich man and that he intended to kill him. The cross-examination showed that both were members of the Western Federation of Miners and that Sullivan was a friend of Haywood, Moyer and many of the union leaders at Cripple Creek.

Dr. I. L. McGee, a mining broker of the Couer d'Alenes, another impeaching witness, swore that Orchard told him in 1904 at Wallace, Ida., that he was a "spotter" for a detective agency. Orchard denied this conversation; denied that he was in Idaho at any time in 1904.

Several witnesses, principally women who kept lodging houses at Cripple Creek, located Orchard at various conferences with Sterling, the detective for the Mine Owners' association, prior to the independence explosion, and there was a further showing as to meetings between Orchard and D. C. Scott, the detective for the Florence and Cripple Creek railway. Another witness told of the effort to locate the men guilty of the independence station outrage by starting a bloodhound from the chair rung used in pulling off the mine explosion. He said the dog took the road to Colorado Springs, the one over which Orchard fled in the night, and that when he reported to Sterling he got orders to call the dog off. Sterling said he knew who blew up the station, and later said that Steve Adams had done so.

The state fought the admission of the bloodhound story and also opposed the admission of evidence covering general features of the Colorado labor law, but in both instances the court ruled with the defense.

At Yarmouth, in St. Nicholas' church, one of the most curious objects is known as the Devil's Chair. It is formed out of the huge jawbone of a whale and stands at the west end of the church. When fisher lasses get married, they think it good for the newly wedded couple to race from the chancel, and they believe that whoever reaches the Devil's Chair first will rule the roost in the little household they are about to set up.—London Graphic.

A Canine Secret.

"You can always tell the people who are unhappy from the look of their faces," said the tired woman, "but if you look out into the court of a morning you never can tell which dog it is that has cried all night and kept you awake."—New York Press.

A Social Catastrophe.

"Was no one injured in the railway collision, count?"
"No, but nevertheless it was a most painful situation. First, second, third and fourth class passengers all mingled together! Simply unheard of!"—Fliegende Blatter.

OFFICIALS BUSY AT KEYS

STRIKING WIREMEN REFUSE TO RETURN TO WORK.

NO MOVE FOR PEACE YET MADE

Telegraph Companies and Operators Make Conflicting Claims of Situation at San Francisco—Telegrams Said to Have Been Mailed from Chicago.

San Francisco, June 26.—The situation in the telegraphers' strike remains unchanged, with everything peaceful around the main offices of the companies.

The formal notice of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph companies to their striking operators to return to work was ignored by the men, as was expected. None returned to work and the chief operators and officials of both companies were busy working at the keys themselves. The company officials said that the refusal of the men to return severed finally the bond heretofore existing.

Superintendent May of the Western Union, declared that his company was engaging men, but would not say how many. He said they were coming from all directions and that normal conditions would prevail soon. The officials of both companies claim they are within a half hour of the work all the time. The government business was being handled, said Mr. Storer, without any delay at all.

Although messages are being handled with reasonable promptness so far, the companies refuse to take them except subject to indefinite delay, owing to the fear of interference with the wires.

A bulletin issued by the press committee from the telegraphers' headquarters said:

"As an evidence of the inability of the Western Union to handle the business offered by the public they have notified customers to use the telephone wherever possible. A report reached headquarters that 2,000 telegrams had disappeared from the overland division of the operating room of the Western Union office in Chicago. This would indicate that business was being mailed from Chicago."

The strikers discovered that public business was being handled over private wires. President Small notified the brokerage firms who have permitted outsiders to use their wires for public business that unless the practice was stopped at once their operators would become involved in the strike.

The Southern Pacific officials have discharged several operators at outside points on complaints from Chief Operators Jeffs of the West Oakland office of the Western Union that they had interfered with the working of Western Union wires and there is grave danger of the Southern Pacific operators becoming involved.

Commits Suicide in Jail.

Kankakee, Ill., June 26.—Henry Harnes, the wealthy Bonfield farmer, who was in jail here for shooting his wife with intent to kill her, committed suicide by hanging himself with a towel and a necktie. Harnes, who was seventy-four years of age, shot his wife three weeks ago, shortly after their first quarrel. They had lived together thirty-six years.

Two-Cent Fare Law in Illinois.

Chicago, June 26.—Presidents of Illinois railroads have agreed that there shall be no immediate contest of the 2-cent rate law, which becomes effective July 1. The present plan of the railroad officials is to put the rate in effect and later should passenger earnings show a large decrease to go into court and declare the rate law confiscatory.

Often The Kidneys Are Weakened by Over-Work.

Unhealthy Kidneys Make Impure Blood.
