TRACKMEN PLUNDER TRAINS.

Organized Gang of Thieves Among Italians and Many Lose Jobs.

Ashland, Neb., Sept. 30 .- The discovery by Burlington detectives that eight Italian laborers at Ashland were a part of a gang of thieves who have been robbing the Burlingtton train of thousands of dollars of merchandise between Chicago and Denver has led to a vigorous and systematic search for parts of the gang throughout all the section outfits along the line. Forty Italian laborers have just been dismissed at Ashland, and altogether along the lines in Nebraska it is said some 300 have been let out. One of the most profitable runs for the gang was on merchandise train No. 77, between Creston and Ashland. The thieves secreted themselves on the train and during the night threw out hoxes of plunder at various points, one of the thieves remaining to take care of the stolen property. Ashland was the last stop before daylight, at which the operation on this particular train necessarily stopped.

Articles have been discovered in the possession of the Italians of this place that were missed nearly a year ago and which were consigned to Denver and Salt Lake.
