

When You Take Cold

One way is to pay no attention to it; at least not until it develops into pneumonia, or bronchitis, or pleurisy. Another way is to ask your doctor about Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. If he says, "The best thing for colds," then take it. Do as he says, anyway.

When the bowels are constipated, poisonous substances are absorbed into the blood instead of being daily removed from the body as nature intended. Knowing this danger, doctors always inquire about the condition of the bowels. Ayer's Pills.

Deaths and Funerals.

Isaac Wesley Tulleys.

Dr. I. W. Tulleys, one of the earliest settlers of Webster county, died at his home in this city Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, from Bright's disease. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at his late residence.

Isaac Wesley Tulleys was born in Mainbridge, O., July 20, 1834. In 1854 he removed to Clinton, Ill., where, on June 18, 1856, he was married to Josephine Porter. From there he removed to Iowa in 1871. In February, 1872, he came to Nebraska, stopping at Harvard. A month later he, in company with Judge Lee Estelle of Omaha and Cassius L. Mather, founder of this paper, walked the entire distance from Harvard to Red Cloud. Gus Roats was also with the party, but he was fortunate enough to possess a team, which, however, was so heavily laden that none in the party cared to add to their burden. Dr. Tulleys was the last survivor of the pioneer physicians of the Republican valley. He was the first pension examiner appointed in this part of the state, an office which he held up to the time of his death. From 1874 to 1878 he was county judge of Webster county. Dr. Tulleys was as honest a man as ever lived and was highly esteemed by all who knew him. Morally he was as near perfection as mortals ever get. Two daughters—Mrs. Henry Gilham and Mrs. J. S. Gilham are left to mourn his death, in which they are joined by the entire community.

Mrs. E. Clayton Foust.

One of the saddest deaths that it has ever been our lot to record occurred Wednesday evening about 6 o'clock. In our last issue we announced the marriage of Mr. E. Clayton Foust and Miss Lena M. Largent, which took place at Guide Rock on Thursday of last week. The young couple came to Red Cloud to make their home, the husband being the local manager for the Bentric Creamery company. They had just moved into their home on North Cedar street, and were getting comfortably settled. When Mr Foust returned home from his work Wednesday evening he did not find his bride of less than a week in the house. After waiting a few minutes he went out to search for her, and was horror-stricken to find her sitting in an outhouse, cold in death. Medical aid was immediately summoned but the young wife was beyond help. She had apparently been in the best of health up to within a short time before her death, which was caused by the rupture of a blood vessel. The remains were taken to Guide Rock yesterday, where the funeral was held this afternoon at one o'clock. The deceased was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. M. Largent of Guide Rock and was 22 years of age.

Mrs. Elizabeth Monia.

Mrs. Elizabeth Monia, an aged pioneer woman of this county died last Sunday from pneumonia at her home near Guide Rock. The funeral was held Monday at the family home. She leaves seven sons and four daughters, all with families, most of whom live in the vicinity of Guide Rock.

RHEUMATISM CURED IN A DAY.

Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits, 75 cents and $1. Sold by H. E. Gaunce, Druggist, Red Cloud.

The Beilharz Entertainers.

The fourth number of the Business Men's Lecture Course, the Beilharz Entertainers, will appear at the opera house Tuesday evening, February 11. Lincoln J. Cravens, manager of the Madison, Ind., Chautauqua, says of combination:

"It gives me much pleasure to testify to my appreciation of the work of the Beilharz Entertainers. Mr. Beilharz was with us nine days during our assembly, and his last performance, the last hour of our program, in which he responded to all encores, was an ovation. He was accorded first place by an audience that has been accustomed to the best readers and impersonators. He is so true to nature, so unaffected in his manners, that our audiences not only admired him, but exhibited towards him a feeling of affection that is most unusual. Mrs. Jane Hudson Beilharz possesses a clear, strong and very sweet contralto voice, and fine appearance, and when accompanied by the best organ chimes I have ever heard, is a delight long to be remembered."

The program consists of impersonations, monologues, dialogues, readings and instrumental and vocal music. A Gibson mandolin, guitar, trombone, French horn and other standard and novelty instruments are used.

A Lesson In Honesty.

There is a restaurant in Broad street in which nearly a thousand persons eat during the noon hour. Each person eats what he pleases and when he goes to the cashier's desk announces the amount of his indebtedness. The proprietors figure that to trust to the honesty of their patrons is a saving of precious Wall street minutes and, besides, is good business. Once in a while keen eyed employees capture a cheat. One of these, a youth, was "caught with the goods on" a few days ago and taken to the office of the proprietors. Given the choice of being arrested or going into the kitchen and washing dishes, the young man nearly collapsed with shame and fright. He begged not to be arrested and reluctantly agreed to wash dishes. For an hour or so the culprit struggled with a pile of dishes in a tub of steaming water. Then he was told he might depart. Now he brings his lunch from home.—New York Press.

What English Means.

Mrs. Smith—What are you reading, John? Mr. Smith—I am reading Herbert Spencer's "Principles of Biology." Mrs. Smith—Why—what—what's that, John? Mr. Smith—Herbert Spencer's "Biology." Let me read you an extract—his definition of life. Listen: "It consists of the definite combinations of heterogeneous changes, but simultaneous and successive, in combination with external coexistences and sequences."

"Why, John, what in the world is the man talking about?"

"I am astonished at you, Jane. Why, this is the work of the great English scientist."

"Yes, I know, but what is he writing about?"

"He is defining life, I told you. What did you suppose he was writing about?"

"Good gracious! I thought he was trying to get a patent on a clothes-horse."—London Tit-Bits.

When Religion Called.

In his book "Work In Great Cities" the Bishop of London writes: "You have often not only to learn, but to practice, what may be described as the foot and door trick. It is ruination to the boot and sometimes hurts the toe, but it consists in rapidly, but quickly, passing the foot in the moment the door is opened in order to secure, at any rate, a few minutes' parley." As to what may happen he writes: "After long hesitation it will be opened by a little girl about half a foot, and then you will hear a distant voice from the wash tub in the rear, 'Well, Sally, who is it? Then Sally will answer at the top of her voice, 'Please, mother, it's religion.' You will require all your presence of mind to cope with that."

The time came, however, when every door was thrown wide open to welcome "our bishop."—London Christian Globe.

A Little Too Far.

"There is such a thing as overdoing your part," declared a man of the law who now has the knowledge gained by much experience.

"Shortly after I began practice in the west I was called upon to defend a man who had drawn a revolver on another and threatened to kill him. The accused did not have a character above reproach, but the prosecuting witness was also shady in reputation, and I made the most of this fact. I pictured him as a desperado of the most dangerous type, a man that was a constant menace to the community and one who would recognize no other law than that of force. Such men as he, I insisted, made necessary the organization of vigilance committees and injured the fair name of the west among the older communities of the country.

"The jury returned a verdict of guilty and my man was sentenced to a year's imprisonment. As soon as court adjourned the foreman of the jury came to me and said: 'Young feller, you spread it on too thick. After that there rip snortin' speech of yours we couldn't do nothin' else 'an what we done.'

"I don't understand you, sir." "You don't? Why, we found the durned gerloot guilty 'cause he didn't shoot."—Detroit Free Press.

Ballet Shoes.

Ballet shoes fit like a stocking. They are of leather, with a thin leather sole about an inch wide and with the uppers sewed so that they come under the foot. The ballet dancer wants no rubber heels, instep arch supports nor any other of the foot supporting or reforming devices which are commonly used by ordinary mortals. The toe dancer desires a hard box toe on her ballet shoes, but the ordinary dancer seeks only shoes that will give perfect freedom of movement of the joints and muscles of the feet. It is a rule of good dancers, a shoe man of experience says, to wear shoes that will allow for space between the toes. It is a point of good fit that all persons should heed, he says. High heels are put on to stage shoes for effect, not to promote good dancing. Many stage shoes are made with short fore parts and high heels to make the feet look smaller and the person taller.—Boston Globe.

What Did He Mean?

Mike Maloney's wife was an invalid, and the doctor had been doing all sorts of things for her, changing the medicine so often that poor Mike's income would scarcely reach and make both ends meet, and at last the doctor said that his wife must go to a warmer climate.

Mike listened to that advice for several months, and finally when October came the doctor told Mike one Saturday evening after all of his week's wages had been spent that his wife positively must be sent "to a warmer climate without delay."

Mike left the room for a few minutes, and when he returned he was wiping his eyes with his left hand, while with his right hand he brought an ax, which he gave to the physician, saying:

"I hate to do it, doc. You please do it for me."—Kansas City Independent.

Practical Help For Deafness.

I have proved that this is really practical.

Get a common pasteboard mailing tube such as pictures or music is mailed in and hold it to the ear closely. The result is wonderful. A very deaf person can hear distinctly everything that is said by any one sitting on the other side of the room. At first thought one is inclined to ridicule so simple a method. I bought a good long one, large enough to fit over the ear, for 10 cents. One can get them at any business stationer's. I tried it on grandmother, who is very deaf. She could hear well and, what was more remarkable, could also hear with her very deaf ear, with which she has not heard a sound for seven years. Try it! That's all I have to say.—Harper's Bazar.

American Woman In German Eyes.

American girls, whether born or merely brought up in America, evidence the same independence of judgment and the same complete self reliance. It is hard to say whether this is the result of the education in the public schools and colleges or in their freedom from that condition of legal and social subserviency to which the gentler sex is doomed in older countries.—Max von Baundt in Berlin Deutsche Revue.

"The French are awfully stupid."

"Why, I always heard they were very clever people."

"Well, they aren't. I was the best French scholar in our class, and yet when I went to Paris they couldn't understand a word that I said."—London Telegraph.

Mr. Ferry—Greatness is all comparative. For example, an elephant four feet high would be called a little thing, while a rat of that size—

Mrs. Ferry—Yes, and £5 for a bonnet is an enormous expense, but it isn't anything at all when you lose it at cards.—London Fun.

INFLAMMATORY RHEUMATISM CURED IN 3 DAYS

Morton L. Hill, of Lebanon, Ind., says: "My wife had inflammatory rheumatism in every muscle and joint; her suffering was terrible and her body and face were swollen almost beyond recognition; had been in bed six weeks and had eight physicians, but received no benefit until she tried Dr. Detchon's Relief for Rheumatism. It gave immediate relief and she was able to walk about in three days. I am sure it saved her life." Sold by H. E. Gaunce, Druggist, Red Cloud.

New Grocery Firm.

George Johnston, the popular clerk in M. A. Albright's general store, and Homer Boner have bought the grocery stock of Robinson & Burden and will take possession of the same next Monday. Mr. Johnston has made many friends since coming here from Iowa a couple of years ago, and Mr. Boner is a well known farmer. Messrs. Robinson and Burden retire from business with the good will of a large and increasing number of patrons. Mr. Robinson will devote his time hereafter to assisting County Treasurer Frahm in his office. Mr. Burden has not yet decided what he will do.
