Probable Fatal Accident.

Yesterday afternoon a man named Hans Peterson, while drunk, was tipped out of his wagon, and severely injured internally in his chest and back.

He was picked up and taken to jail, where he received all possible attention till this morning, when he was taken to his home, five miles out in the country.

It is thought that he was fatally injured. Whisky is thus likely to fill another coffin.

Omaha Brevities.

—Mrs. D. P. Bowers will play here next week, and the sale of reserved seats has already been begun by Wyman & Eberhart.

—One postal, one express, and two baggage cars, three first-class coaches, and four sleepers composed the Union Pacific express train west this morning.

—The poem, entitled "St. Patrick's Day," which appeared in our last evening's issue, was written on the spur of the moment—while the procession moved up Farnham street,—by John O'Keefe, Esq.

—The North Star Society recently formed a debating club, which held its first meeting last evening at the Society's hall. The question, "Resolved, That nature is more beautiful than art," was decided in favor of old nature.

—A dispatch was received to-day from Hon. John Taffe, saying that no decision has yet been rendered on the terminus question. Council Bluffs will please keep its powder dry, and mourn over that which has already been wasted.

—After the oration at Redick's Opera House, a lady in coming out, fell down the stairs head foremost, and was stunned for a moment or two, by the shock. Those who witnessed the accident, wondered that she did not break her neck.

—This evening the first masquerade ball of the Omaha Mannerchor will take place, at Turner Hall. Everything possible has been done to make this the finest affair of the season. The programme, as published in another column, is an attractive one, and speaks for itself. The ball begins promptly at 8 o'clock, with a "Polonaise" by the Omaha City Band.

—The ball of the Emmett Monument Association, at Shoaf's Hall last evening, was very largely attended. The floor was at all times crowded with dancers, who were viewed with a great deal of interest by the hundreds of spectators. The ball continued till an early hour this morning, when all went home tired out, and sleepy, too, and put themselves in their little beds.

—A gentleman, who usually knows what he is about, made a bet at Papillion, yesterday, of $25 a side, that the city circulation of the BEE was equal to, if not more than, the combined city circulation of the other two Omaha dailies. He won his bet, with some to spare. If any doubt the statement concerning our city circulation, we'll double the above amount on a similar wager. Put up, or shut up!

—A double team attached to a bran new wagon, ran away on Howard street yesterday afternoon. They were only stopped by wedging themselves between a fence and dwelling house between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets, after demolishing the whole wagon except the forward part of the running gear. A lady sitting on the porch of the house, was thrown into hysterics by the sight of the accident.

—Mr. McMeans, a telegrapher, and a young man named Drake, were the victims of a runaway this afternoon, on Twelfth street, between Douglas and Farnham. Their horse, becoming frightened at a hideous-looking corn docter, started on a run, and the occupants of the buggy, in their endeavors to stop the animal, were both tumbled out upon the street. Drake had his nose badly bruised up, but otherwise was not injured, while McMeans escaped without a scratch.

The horse ran up Douglas, and thence north on Fifteenth, and it was doubtful, at our last observation, whether the buggy would hold together for another trip.

"SUCH DINGS VOT I NEVER SAW!"

How Wilhelm Has Beaten Out of His Household Traps by a Cunning Woman.

William Lett is the name of an honest German cabinet maker, who has been at work for several years for Dewey & Soone. Some time ago he had trouble with his wife, and for good cause he went to Indiana to live for a while—at least long enough to have proceedings for a divorce instituted, and the case is still pending.

Upon his return from the State of many divorces, he set his eye on another woman, whom he proposed to marry as soon as he obtained his divorce. He accordingly furnished a house, and had her take care of it, she occupying, however, a separate apartment for sleeping purposes. Matters ran along in this manner for several months, till last evening, when William returned home, only to find that his prospective happiness had been completely upset by the desertion of his intended second wife.

During the day some relatives of hers, had come into the city with a wagon provided with a hay rack, and upon this, with the woman's assistance, they packed every available piece of furniture and article of household goods, and covering up the property with hay, they drove out of town to their home, eight miles from the city. The only thing they left behind them was honest Wilhelm's trunk, containing his clothes. The state of affairs almost broke his heart, and upon finishing his story to his employers this morning, he exclaimed, with tears in his eyes, "Mein Gott! Ich wußte als hief Lied died as has such dings habben! Such dings vat I never saw!" The matter has been put into the hands of a lawyer, who will attempt to recover the property.

—H. H. Cook, dispatcher of the Missouri river bridge, went East yesterday, being called away by sickness in his family.

—General P. Edward Connor, who formerly commanded Camp Douglas, Salt Lake City, is at the Wyoming. He is now engaged in railroading in Utah.

—Mr. Weber, of the firm of Wilson & Weber, who last winter had his leg broken at Nebraska City by a runaway accident, was down town to-day on crutches. It will be three months before he regains the full use of the limb.

—Among the many arrivals at the Wyoming are the following: E. F. Warner, Nebraska City; W. W. Ward-II, C. W. Seymour, do.; T. M. Dexter, San Francisco; A. B. Chapman, Nevada; Andrew Ladee, do.; R. R. That Destitute and Dying Woman.

EDITOR BEE:—Owing to wrong directions sent concerning the whereabouts of the destitute and dying woman, Maggie Hughes, an account of whose suffering condition appeared in your last evening's BEE, I was unable to find the house so that she could be relieved. I spent three days searching for it, and did not learn where it was located, till I discovered the desired information in your paper. This morning I visited the house, and there found Miss Emma Davis reading the scriptures to the dying woman, who cannot live but a day or two. Miss D. requested that a Minister be sent for, and I have obtained the services of one.

Hereafter, should any similar cases be discovered, and the directions left at your office, I will call and see that they are properly provided for. Yours truly, SAMARITAN.

A Dangerous Character Arrested.

James Allen, hailing from Eatonsville, Iowa, while in the city Sunday afternoon, became intoxicated, and was arrested on general principles by Captain Kelley, assisted by officer Benedict. While being taken to jail, he went down into his pockets, as if to draw a weapon. He was thereupon searched and found to have in his possession a couple of derringers, which, after a struggle, were taken from him.

As it was thought that he was a dangerous character and was wanted somewhere, a telegram was sent to Eatonsville, asking for information. The answer came back that he was under $200 bail, to appear at court there for some offense, and that it was better to let him go. Evidently the ball was more desired than his presence. He was accordingly discharged at the Police Court this morning, on condition that he would leave town.

TUMBLER THROWING.

A Woman's Head Cut Open by a Glass Thrown by a Man.

At a late hour last night a colored brute from Council Bluffs, entered the cigar and candy store of Kate Anderson, near the corner of Tenth street and Capitol Avenue, and invested twenty-five cents in a cheroot, which he lit, and puffed vigorously. Between puffs he had the audacity to address some very improper remarks to the proprietress, who ordered him out of the establishment. Her commands not being obeyed, she called him some very hard names, but really no better than he deserved. This enraged him, and not liking such talk from white-trash, he picked up a tumbler, and threw it at her with all the force he could muster.

The flying missile struck Kate on the head, and breaking into several pieces, made two or three very deep and ugly wounds. The tumbler thrower then ran out and made good his escape.

The wounded cigar girl, with the assistance of a friend, found her way to old Dr. Van Hoesen's office, on Tenth street, half frightened to death, fearing that the wounds would prove fatal. The doctor dressed them, however, and sent her home, assuring her that she would live a while longer, and stand a chance of having a half dozen tumblers being thrown at her.

"OMAHA MANNER-CHOR"

The First Masquerade Ball of the Society.

At Turner Hall, Tuesday Evening, March 18th, 1873.

A grand masquerade ball will be given by the "Omaha Mannerchor," on Tuesday evening, March 18th, at Turner Hall. Preparations are being made to make this the event of the season. The ball will open at 8 o'clock in the evening with a "Polonaise," by the Omaha City Band. After which the following programme will be carried out:

- 1. Frog quadrille, by eight members of the "Mannerchor."
2. The "great murder," performed by seven members of the society.
3. Cavalry quadrille, by four students mounted on horses, and four preachers riding Balaam's asses.
4. Patent organ, discovered by F. Pfau. The organ plays three tunes.
At 11 o'clock the procession, composed of members of the society, will form in the hall, the following being observed:

- 1. Metropolitan police, seven policemen with a captain.
2. Banner with the motto "Ulk," accompanied by four Chinese.
3. "Credit Mobilier," and "Our Ring."
5. Floor committee, composed of four Policinellas.
6. Prince Carnival, in a wagon drawn by four snow-white black horses.
7. Two Jesuits.
8. Ministers on four jackasses.
9. The Press.
10. Murder.
11. "Ruebezahl" and dwarf retinue.
12. Patent organ.

All other masqueraders will here join in the procession, and after two promenades, a sign will be given for taking off the masks.

Tickets, admitting gentleman and lady, $2.00; gallery, 75 cents; extra tickets for ladies, 75 cents. No supper will be given, and each party can patronize the restaurant of their own choice.

Tickets can be had of the following committee of arrangements: H. H. Metz, H. A. Aust, H. Richards, E. H. Metz, H. Ledgers, W. Mack, Fr. Pfau. Carriages can be secured of these gentlemen when tickets are purchased.

Tickets can be had at Catlin's book store, Max Meyer & Co.'s cigar store, and Henry Strasburg & Co.'s photographic gallery.

Mr. Wirth will arrive from St. Louis Saturday March 15th with a fine assortment of ladies' and gentlemen's masquerade suits. Call at Max Meyers Music Hall and examine them.

MANSARD ROOF.

One Man Hits Another Over the Eye, and Makes a Deep Wound.

Vindquest, the ice man, while standing in Lassmussen's saloon on Farnham street, last evening, had a head put on him by a man named Anderson, who came in and without any ceremony walked up to his victim and hit him over the eye either with a derringer or something else he held in his hand, cutting a severe gash over the optic. The assailant, after accomplishing his deed, took his departure as suddenly as he had made his appearance. It seems that Anderson had been employed by Vindquest, and had had some difficulty in getting his pay for his work, and so took this method of squaring accounts.

Vindquest proceeded to a drug-store and had the wound bound up, but the manner in which the job was put up not suiting him, he called on Dr. Pinney, who fixed him out. We understand that he intends to have Anderson arrested, and justice meted out to him.
