

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE

Is served to subscribers by carrier, to any part of the city, every evening, (Sundays excepted), at fifteen cents per week, or $3.75 for six months, and $7.50 per annum, when paid in advance.

Carriers are not allowed to receive money for subscriptions, or to sell copies of the DAILY BEE.

All complaints about irregularities, addressed to this office will receive prompt attention.

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE will be mailed to subscribers at the following rates, payable in advance.

THE OMAHA DAILY BEE has by far the LARGEST circulation in the city, and is, therefore, the best and cheapest advertising medium.

TRADE OF ADVERTISING.—Local notices, 25 cents per line; by the month, 10 cents. No advertisement inserted for less than 10 cents.

Special notices, 10 cents per line; single insertion, not less than 25 cents.

Transient advertisements must invariably be paid for in advance.

Rates for standing advertisements by special contract.

All Legal Notices, Statements, Tabular Work, etc., requiring careful revision by copy, or proof to be furnished, must be handed in before ten o'clock A. M. to insure insertion the same day.

Special and Local advertisements before two o'clock P. M.

Advertisements before one o'clock P. M. All advertisements for the WEEKLY BEE must be handed in before Monday noon, for the same week's issue.

NOTICE.—On and after October twenty-first, 1872, the city circulation of the DAILY BEE is assumed by Mr. Edwin Davis, to whose order all subscriptions not paid at the office will be payable, and by whom all receipts for subscriptions will be countersigned.

BRACE FARO.

A Californian Loses $500 at the Game.

A gentleman from Oakland, California, stopping at the Metropolitan Hotel, while on his way to church last evening, was roped into a den and induced to play against a game of faro, at which he lost $500.

He claims that the game was a "brace," and that he was drugged so that he did not know what he was doing.

He has placed the matter in the hands of an efficient officer, who will work up the case at once. The victim says he will remain in Omaha as long as it is necessary to get even with the rascals who beat him out of his money.

Brace faro is played in this city whenever any greenhorn can be "steered" against the game, and the attention of the city officials is called to this fact.

An Improvement.

Owing to the constantly increasing pressure of advertisers upon our local columns, we have been obliged to make arrangements by which more room will be afforded them without encroaching upon the space needed for the city news of the day. We, therefore, begin to-day the publication of an extra column of local news and an additional column of miscellaneous reading on the third page of the BEE, thus giving interesting reading matter on every page of the paper, an improvement which, we are confident, will be greatly appreciated by our numerous patrons, both advertisers and readers.

Pulpit and Pew.

—Rev. Mr. Garrett preached upon "The Resurrection" last evening.

—Easter was celebrated by grand services at most of the churches yesterday.

—"Patterns of Christ" and "What is God," were the subjects of sermons at the Presbyterian church yesterday.

—"The Resurrection of Christ" was the subject of Rev. Mr. Sherrill's morning sermon at the Congregational Church yesterday, and "Jacob and his dream," in the evening.

—At St. Barnabas church the evening service was highly attractive, especially the musical portion. The surprised choir was assisted by a full orchestra, and the new organ, recently received from Philadelphia. The church was most beautifully decorated for the occasion. "The Catholic movement, commonly called ritualism," was the subject of the Rector's discourse.

—The services at the Catholic Cathedral yesterday, were of a very attractive character. High Mass was celebrated at 10:30 A. M., Father Kelleher delivering the sermon. The music was excellent, the Cathedral choir being assisted by Mrs. General Ruggles, Mrs. Lately, Mr. Weinstein and Mr. Haarmann, under the direction of Prof. Decker, and by the Omaha City Band.

—At Trinity Cathedral, in the morning, the holy rite of confirmation was administered to fifty-eight persons by Bishop Clarkson. This was the largest class ever gathered together for confirmation by this rector of Trinity Church, and it is evidence of the good work being done by the Rev. Mr. Garrett and of his religious influence in this community. The music was excellent, rendered by a choir composed of Mrs. Bowen and Miss Van Almond, sopranos; Miss Knowles and Master J. Kausch, altos; Col. Harry Brownson and Mr. Edward Whitehorn, tenors, and Mr. C. E. Rice and Mr. Robert Calderwood, basses. The Cathedral was crowded to its utmost capacity, there being 497 persons seated in the pews, while the extra attendance was accommodated by chairs placed in the aisles.

THREE-CARD MONTE.

Omaha the Headquarters of Professional Monte Players.

How Long will the Present State of Affairs Continue?

The Duty of the Police.

The game of three-card monte, for the information of those who do not know much about it, is, as its name indicates, played with three cards. One man throws them, one after the other, in rapid succession, and at the conclusion of the operation, any person, who may have been roped in for the occasion, bets, if he can be induced to do so, that he can pick out a certain card, which he has been previously shown. There is one chance out of three in a square game for a man to win.

The professional throwers of three-card monte attain such dexterity in their sleight-of-hand performances—for they can be called nothing else—that they have what may be called a dead-sure thing. An expert thrower will show the victim the card which is to be picked out, and while handling it he will turn up a corner, or crimp it, as if by accident, so that the "sucker" can follow it with his eye, or at least is led to believe that he can, and so thinks that he has got it sure; but when he turns it over he finds that he is mistaken, and that the error has cost him something—generally all the money and jewelry that he has with him. The thrower, of course, while manipulating the cards, bends back the turned-up corner, and turns up the corner of another card in a similar manner. The successful operations of three-card monte throwers is all owing to one single principle—that the action of the hand is quicker than the movement of the eye.

The victim is generally allowed to win several times in succession, until the bets run up to large amounts, when he is sure to lose every time. The trick appears so simple to him, that he is willing to risk everything he possesses on it.

The professional monte players generally frequent race courses and fair grounds in the East, while in the West they travel on railroad trains, and infest the principal towns on the lines, in search of victims.

The game first made its appearance in Omaha about sixteen months ago, being introduced here by the celebrated Canada Bill, the king of monte men, and since that time it has been operated here and on our railroads with more or less boldness, cunning and frequency. Sums generally small, but sometimes very large, have been taken from the unwary traveler by means of this game. The successful operations of one man in this city, and State and on our railroads, have been recorded in the daily papers and noised abroad, thus attracting to Omaha others of the same profession, from time to time, until now the city is infested with numerous petty gangs of these birds of prey—in all amounting to between forty and fifty men. They make their living in no other way than by beating strangers out of their money by this three-card trick. Omaha seems to be one of the best points in the country for the carrying on of these nefarious depredations upon the pocket books of travelers, being the metropolis of Nebraska, and a great railroad centre, having seven lines terminating at and starting from it. Located as it is on the bank of the Missouri river, the boundary line between Nebraska and Iowa, its situation is a most convenient one, for the monte men, who, when they are sought after by the officers of the law, in behalf of some feeble individual, can easily step from one State to the other. The officers are thus frequently evaded, and the victim, becoming tired and disgusted at the prolonged absence of the tricksters, proceeds on his way to his destination, bearing with him no pleasant remembrances of Omaha, but considering it a place above all others to be shunned by the traveling public. It is thus that Omaha has gained a most unenviable reputation abroad, and is now looked upon as one of the most demoralized cities of the Union. Even when the monte men have been arrested, they have generally been with one or two exceptions, been sharp enough to manage—by buying off their victim—to escape the full penalty of the law, and merely pay a light fine for gambling.

Then again, many who have lost their money, out of fear of having their indiscretion being made public, have gone on their way, sadder, wiser and poorer men, leaving the monteites alone in their glory to enjoy their ill-gotten wealth.

The operations of a majority of these men are pretty well known. There are two classes of them—the first, who lay low for large amounts, and the second for small sums. The latter class are by far, the most numerous. Their roping-in assistants stand on the corners of our principal streets, pick up the green-horns, and steer them into dens where they are inveigled to bet against the game. A man carrying a carpet sack is at once spotted by these vultures, and shadowed till they either catch him or he shows that he is too sharp for them. No stranger can hardly escape several invitations to drink while walking either to or from the Union Pacific depot along Ninth street. All manner of traps, the details of which have frequently appeared in these columns, are set for the unguarded, and he that escapes them all is indeed no ordinary individual.

These cappers are bold and shrewd men, of vast experience in the ways of the world, and their knowledge of human character, acquired by constant contact with men in every station of life, enables them generally to "spot" the right kind of a man for their victim.

The citizens of Omaha have become heartily tired of hearing of the deeds of these men, and they ask how long shall this state of affairs continue. Shall Omaha remain the headquarters and stronghold of the mob of the three-card monte men of the north-west? Shall she continue to be looked upon as a man-trap, and therefore to be avoided as a dangerous place? Or shall she drive out these men, and thus wipe out the stain that they have brought upon Omaha's once fair name? These are the questions that are daily agitating the public mind, and we are awaiting with interest to see what action the new city officials will take in regard to the matter. They were elected with the expectation that they would do all in their power to suppress this nuisance, and so we are assured they intend to do.

Already, we understand, owing to the expressed determination of City Marshal Rustin to drive them out of town, many of the monte men have left, and a large number more intend to take their departure this week.

The officers complain that the penalty for this offense is not heavy enough, but we think if any of the monte men are arrested and convicted of practicing their tricks, fined $50 and costs, and sentenced to thirty days in jail, it will have a beneficial effect.

One word more. The numerous army of cappers are pretty well known to the police—if not, they ought to be—and it is the duty of every officer, whenever he sees a stranger in danger of being roped in by them, to give them a word of warning. Such action alone on the part of officers would tend more to kill the occupation of ropers-in than any other one thing.

HEAVY SNOW STORM.

Between Four and Five Feet of Snow Falls at Grand Island, and the Storm Still Continuing.

A very heavy and violent snow storm set in at Grand Island at a late hour last night, and is still in progress. From a dispatch to Mr. J. J. Dickey, the superintendent of the Union Pacific telegraph, we learn that the snow is drifting terribly, and is from four to five feet deep in drifts on the track. The air is filled with the flying snow, so that nothing can be seen at a distance of fifty feet. The telegraph wires west are all down, and nearly all of them eastward, so that telegraphic communication from the West is cut off to-day. So great is the violence of the storm, that it is impossible, as yet, to send out men to repair the breaks in the wires. The Union Pacific train which was due here to-day at 10 o'clock, left Grand Island with two engines, and if no further interruptions are met with, it will arrive here this afternoon about five hours late. It is impossible to tell how far the storm extends west of Grand Island.
