Who is Root?

OMAHA, April 14. *EDITOR BEE: I saw an article in your valuable paper of the 11th, headed, "Who is Root?" I think I can solve the problem by explaining my experience with this would-be Head Centre of Douglas County Grangers.

On the 21st of February last Mr. Root applied to me about hiring my shop to manufacture his new seeding machines called the "Grange Seeder." He agreed to furnish me work for one month, with the use of the shop at a stipulated price per week. Failing to dispose of his no doubt valuable seeders, he became discouraged and did not find work enough for me to do to fill out the full month, and therefore wants me to suffer for lost time. After occupying the shop 18 days, for which he did not allow me a cent, he suddenly appeared on election day to get his implements, stock, etc. I tried to get a settlement, but he insisted on taking out all his seeders before he could pay. He finally returned for his tools working bench and unfinished machines. I then saw that he intended to gull me out of honest dues, and refused to give him possession A full lot with a nicely shaded until he settled with me.
