Silver Wedding.

The committee having in charge the reception to be given to Bishop and Mrs. Clarkson on Thursday evening, wish it to be distinctly understood that invited guests are not expected to bring presents, nor is it in any way appropriate that they should.

The committee quote with pleasure the following from the May number of the Galaxy, which exactly expresses their views of the proprieties of the case:

"Etiquette does not demand the acknowledging of an invitation to these weddings by presentations of valuable gifts. Members of the family, or any intimate friends, are the only persons from whom such gifts should be received. Invited guests should not absent themselves from these festive and agreeable entertainments by any false idea requiring them to contribute costly presents."

The committee commend these correct sentiments to the notice of all invited guests.
