-Marshal Snowden Thursday received a dispatch from the Council Bluff's Marshal stating that he had captured a boy named Henry Lynch, having in his possession three stolen coats. Policeman Mansfield was sent over for him, and brought him back to Omaha. One of the coats was found to belong to Mr. Whitney, of Whitney, Bauserman & Co., and the other two to Mr. R. Thompson, of Young's lumber yard. The boy, who is but seventeen, and hailing from St. Louis, confessed to having stolen Judge Porter's napkin rings, and that he had thrown them away in a water closet. His examination will take place before Judge Wilbur to-day. This arrest explains the recent petty burglaries in this city.

- Twenty-three dogs, of all sizes colors, breeds, and ages, assembled on Douglas street, between Fourteenth and Fifteenth, about 6 A. M. yesterday, and fell to fighting over a stray piece of meat. They gathered around a passerby, whom they attacked, and Jailor Anderson and Mr. Willis Yates had to come to his rescue. They armed themselves with a couple of meat-hooks from Sheeley's butcher-shop, and fought the dogs for five minutes, finally killing one and putting the rest to flight. The BEE regrets that it cannot do justice to this affair today, for a column or two could be written on it. Suffice it to say, that It eelipsed any dog fight that ever occurred in this city. It is about time that the dog population of Omaha were treated to strychnine or something else that will dimin-1sh their numbers.

Loup City-A Thriving Town. Yesterday we had the pleasure of neeting Mr. M. W. Benschoter, one of the prominent citizens and founders of the thriving town of Loup City, Sherman county. From him we learned many interesting facts concerning this rapidly rising place, which has had a remarkable growth since its foundation. It is a fact that towns in Nebraska have sprung into existence in a night, as it were, and assumed important proportions almost before and lumber are to be had in abundance, and at very reasonable rates. Arrangements are being made to start a grist mill. The middle Loup valley, in which Loup City is located, is one of the garden spots of America. Red edar abounds a few miles above

The valley is six to seven miles wide, the uplands are rolling, producing the best grasses in the world, and affording the very best grazing grounds for cattle. During the whole of last winter cattle did not eat more than fifty pounds of hay each. Stone for building purposes, is to be had in abundance.

The educational facilities of the place are excellent, as a fine school house has been built, and a good teacher employed. A weekly paper, the Loup City

News, is published by P. S. Atkin-There is a semi-weekly stage and line to and from Grand Island, and also to and from Kearney Junction. The soil of the middle Loup Valley is the richest in Nebraska, and its wheat growing qualities are unparalleled.

Mr. Benschoter left for Chicago and the East yesterday afternoon to lay these facts before the people to induce immigration to this section of the State. That he will succeed in turning a large immigration to the Middle Loup Valley we have not the least doubt.

A Flying Trip Through Douglas County, by way of Sarpy, Pappillion, Millard and Elkhorn.

[Correspondence of the BEE] Омана, Мау 15, 1874.

In a recent trip through the western and central part of our The great revivalist, Mrs. Maggie flourishing county, we saw many ping for a few moments at the young but flourishing town of Nebraska - the valleys of Pappio's-and twenty miles from Omaha by rail, (but twelve by finest depot buildings on the U. Mr. Cartner is in partnership with Messrs. Pomroy & Kennedy, the firm doing a large business in lumber and general merchandise at Pappillion as well as Millard. Mr. John Green, of Omaha, has a warehouse at this point for the storage of grain, large quantities being handled here yearly. Millard is sure to be a thriving little point in time and will well repay any investments there. It is surrounded by fine tarms and live farmers. Per example at Dr. Link's, one mile he could not do it. from Millard, his daughter introduced us to the "Omaha Daily Bee," a fine blooded cow, the best milker on the farm. We think this stamps the young lady as a person of good hotel furnishes the "comforts of life

Mr. Hollenbeck has a fine farm of several hundred acres, a short distance from Millard, and is one of P., we reached Elkhorn, a very prosperous and thriving little town. Owing to some land dispute, Elkhorn has been at a stand still for several years, but as that unfortunate affair is now settled, it is taking quite a start. Its mercantile interests are well represented. Mr. J. W. Stewart, who has one of the largest stores, and finest assorted stocks to be found in any small town between Omaha and Ogden, pronounces trade to be looking up, and everything indicative of properous and lively times at harvest. Many buildings are in process of erection, among others, we notice one owned by Mr. J. R. Silras, the U. P. travelling photographer, who has already rented the upper story and who intends renting the lower floor for a store room. By the way, we had the pleasure of meeting this gentleman and an interesting anecdote he relates us of his first experience in traveling car photograpy may not be amiss here. About four years ago he thought that if he could obtain a car of the U. P., fit it up as a photograph gallery, and run it from town to town on the road that it would be a profitable, though novel venture. Having made all arrangements, he was seated in his car one evening ready o start out on his first trip. He sat with his elbow out of the window. and as they were passing through the yard near where the smelting works now are, it scraped against some coal cars on a switch laying too close to the main track, and his arm was broken badly. He tells me at the time he had but one dollar and a half in this world beside his Ohio, and Gordonsville, Virginia, stock in the car. This unfortunate accident would have deterred some men, but not him. He laid off at Elkhorn, sent for a brother photographer from Fremont who had just been burnt out; had him tend to his business while he was sick; took it in charge himself when well, and has been doing a fine business ever since. Verily, "the darkest hour is just before day."

G. N. Crawford, Esq., is refitting his store-room, preparatory to going into business again, and as he adds great energy and shrewdness to his other good qualities, he cannot fail

Now, as to the educational interests, as this is one which, of course, greatly interests all new comers. Elkhorn boasts of one of the finest schools in the county. It is under the care of Prof. John Rush, one of the ablest and oldest Douglas county teachers. While he has charge, supported as he is by a live district board, the school affairs of Elkhorn will be above par,

The Silvar House has been refitted and furnished throughout, and is giving satisfaction to all while under the charge of the obliging host, Mr. Burton.

We understand that a lumber yard is about to be opened at this place; that arrangements are about completed whereby stock yards will be opened, and many other improvements which space and time forbids our mentioning in this letter. Douglas county has several thriving towns in the western part, all doing nobly. In our next, we shall speak of Waterloo. Till then, the latest style, equal to custom adieu. JEWELRY, WATCHES and CLOCKS -a large assortment-now invite BRACKIN'S.

James Stephenson Rises to Explain.

MR. EDITOR: The Herald, while congratulating itself upon the verdict in the case against it for violation of the fire limit ordinance, takes occasion to besmear the jury and Judge Wilbur with the most fulsome praise, and to apply to me the most opprobrisus epithets. No doubt the Police Judge and the jury did their simple duty, and deserved the praise bestowed

I, too, did my duty, and yet I am abused for it. Why? Because I dared to prosecute the Herald proprietors for what I thought a violation of the fire limit ordinance. That was the only way I had to find out whether I was right or wrong. I am abused because I had the vim to proceed against the Herald outfit who undoubtedly think themselves the "great I am" of this commu-

They were amazed that I should have the cheek to raise a question concerning the erection of their building. They considered it the greatest impudence on my part to think of rightfully interfering with them, the great moguls of Omaha. Would they have said one word against me, had I taken the same steps against some poor man? No! But they are thunderstruck at my action in including the rich and poor, high and low, in this matter. I wish, Mr. Editor, to state a few facts in regard to this case. I was twenty-four hours trying to get a warrant, and finally, when Judge Wilbur did give me a warrant, he wanted me to be good for the costs

He first wanted $25.00 costs guaranteed, and when I was about to take the complaint to another court, he dropped to $5.00 costs, which I guaranteed, and he went on with the case. Now, I would like to ask what kind of action is this on the part of Judge Wilbur? What authority has he for it?

Judge Wilbur met a certain Councilman on the street, and told him to get me to withdraw the case. An hour afterwards, Marshal Snowden saw the same Councilman, to get him to have me withdraw the com: plaint. The Councilman said that Judge Wilbur, and all the rest, told me I would get beaten in the Leaving Millard again, go-odds I had to contend against, and ou will not be surprised that I was beaten. But would not the result have been different, if some poor man, or unimportant cuss, or blatherskite, had been putting up the Herald building, or one similar to it? JAMES STEPMENSON.

THE undersigned hereby informs the public that he has removed his shop from Fifteenth street, where he has been doing business for the last five years, to Harney street, between 13th and 14th, next to the Checkered Barn; where he is prepared to do all kinds of locksmithing and machine work, and in givto the Masons for lodge meetings, ing satisfaction to his customers, hopes to secure a liberal patronage and the confidence of the public.
