—The coming complimentary concert to Mrs. Catey is eminently proper, and will afford an opportunity to the many friends of this talented lady and vocalist to show their appreciation of her efforts in almost every musical enterprise, to which she has ever, when called upon, lent the enchantment of her charming voice.

—The case of Mr. Atkins, the machinist who had one of his hands accidentally cut off at the Union Pacific shops on Saturday afternoon, is one that will excite the sympathy of all. Mr. Atkins had the misfortune to lose one of his legs several years ago, and on this account he is deserving of all the aid that may be rendered him either by the citizens or the company.

The Sentence of Wm. T. Polock for Robbing His Father's Postoffice.

The readers of the Bee will recollect the particulars of the Brownville postoffice robbery, by Wm. T. Polock, son of the postmaster, some time last winter. His trial and conviction, on his own confession, took place in the United States District Court—Judge Dundy presiding—which adjourned yesterday in this city. The sentence of the Court was as follows, and is well worthy of perusal:

Mr. POLOCK—The indictment, on which you have been convicted charges you with stealing a registered letter, containing money, from the postoffice at Brownville, in this State. The punishment prescribed for this offense is confinement in the penitentiary for a period of not less than one year, nor more than five years. You have seen proper to accept the advice of your friends who seemed to think that it would be useless for you to resist a conviction. But little time has been consumed in its disposing of the case against you, and you will not suffer in consequence thereof.

Since your conviction, many of your friends, some of whom are your old comrades in arms, have joined in testifying to your former good character. Your father, whom you have so deeply wronged, has been persistent in his efforts to lessen the punishment which might be inflicted on you. He has stood by you from the start as bravely as he and you stood by our country when its existence was imperiled. He has not been able to when your conduct was such as to almost forfeit parental affection. For this I honor and respect him more than ever before. His conduct throughout has been in marked contrast with yours toward him.

Your father states that you volunteered when quite young, and served in the army with him, and you were both honorably discharged.

This fact I have duly considered, and shall give to it some weight. The army is not a school in which the morals of the young are apt to be materially improved. The danger is that habits of the worst kind will be contracted by the young soldier, while he is absent from home and friends, and where he is surrounded by all the vices which our armies are usually cursed. Therefore, when I am called upon to pass sentence upon a man who has been honorably discharged from our army, I take into consideration the fact that his bad habits may have been contracted when he was in the military service, and where I have any discretion in the premises, that circumstance shall lessen the punishment that otherwise would be imposed. Your former good character, your honorable discharge from the army, and the destitute condition of your family impures to you the lightest punishment known to the law under which you have been convicted.

The judgment of the court is that you be imprisoned at hard labor for the period of one year, commencing on and including the 4th day of May, 1874.

And that you be removed from here to the Penitentiary at Fort Madison, in the State of Iowa, there to undergo your term of imprisonment as provided by the rules and regulations of the said penitentiary.

A Plucky Engineer.

On Friday night last, as Conductors Haskins' train from St. Louis to Omaha, over the Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs railway, had left Hamburg, Iowa, a couple of Grangers bombarded his cars with stones, breaking a window. Engineer Harry Keen put on the airbrake, and almost immediately stopped the train. He then jumped off, caught the stone-throwers, and gave them a sound thrashing. That's the kind of an engineer to have, and his salary ought to be raised.

The Testimonial to Mrs. Latsey.

Mrs. H. L. Latsey, whose vocal performances have often charmed our citizens, will soon depart for Boston, there to remain a year or so in order to more thoroughly cultivate her voice, under the instruction of one of the most accomplished music teachers of the age. At the earnest solicitation of her many friends she has consented to give a concert before her departure.

The following correspondence explains itself:

OMAHA, Neb., May 14th, 1874. DEAR MADAM—Learning your intention to visit the East to avail yourself of the facilities extended to those who wish to improve themselves in the study of Music, and as this will require your absence from our city for a year or more, we cannot allow the opportunity to pass without expressing our appreciation of the occasions in which you have assisted in rendering our charming musical entertainments of the past so delightful. In view of this it is but a natural and a just liberty in requesting you to favor your friends with a farewell concert, naming a suitable time and place at your earliest convenience? Respectfully yours,

S. H. Clark, Henry J. Lucas, W. W. Marsh, P. F. Shelby, H. W. Barrows, F. C. Morgan, E. F. Test, R. H. Thomas, W. W. Copeland, S. Warren, Chas. P. L. Perine, H. Kennedy, J. C. Hotter, C. H. Dewey, E. OMAHA, May 15, 1874. Messrs. S. H. Clark and others: GENTLEMEN: Your courteous and complimentary letter requesting me to give a farewell concert before my departure for the East is received. I thank you, and through you my citizens of Omaha who have always shown so much generous appreciation of my humble efforts to please, and for this renewed expression of interest and confidence.

I accept your proposal with gratitude, and appoint Thursday evening, the 28th of May, as the time and place for the concert, and where I have any discretion in the premises, that circumstance shall lessen the punishment that otherwise would be imposed. Your former good character, your honorable discharge from the army, and the destitute condition of your family impures to you the lightest punishment known to the law under which you have been convicted.

Death of Judge Townsend.

Hon. Robert Townsend, ex-Judge of the Probate Court, died Sunday morning rather suddenly and unexpectedly, at his residence in this city, of pneumonia and inflammation of the bowels, after a brief illness.

Judge Townsend had been a resident of Omaha a little over five years, having come here from Poughkeepsie, New York. In July, 1869, he formed a law partnership with B. E. B. Kennedy, Esq., and in the Fall of 1871, he was elected Judge of the Probate Court of Douglas County. Judge Peabody, the present incumbent of that office, says the deceased a high and deserved compliment, in saying that he regarded him as an honest and upright Judge, and an honorable and kind-hearted man. When he went out of office last fall all the papers, records and accounts were found correct and complete up to the very last hour.

Judge Townsend acquired many warm friends by his quiet and unobtrusive manners, and his death is generally mourned, especially as it occurred in the very prime of life. He was in his thirty-fourth year at the time of his demise. He leaves a wife and three children. The funeral will probably take place tomorrow afternoon, and the remains will be sent east for interment.

This is the first death that has ever occurred for many years among the Omaha bar, of which Judge Townsend was a most respected member. A meeting of the bar was held last evening at 7 o'clock at the office of B. E. B. Kennedy.

A committee on resolutions was appointed, consisting of Messrs. J. M. Woolworth, E. Estabrook, C. Briggs, G. W. Ambrose, and C. F. Manderson, who reported the following:

WHEREAS, The Hon. Robt. Townsend, a member of the Bar of Douglas County, died yesterday after a brief illness, in the midst of his usefulness and activity, and this meeting of his associates, duly sensible of the loss which the profession of the law and society to whose services he gave his best years, has been convinced to express their sentiments over this startling and sad event.

Resolved, That a life of singular modesty and purity has been suddenly closed; a lawyer of high merit, of much learning and considerable powers of logical and clear reasoning, has been cut off from our profession; a man who commanded the confidence of the public and of his associates and clients, and inspired in all who knew him, sentiments of respect and affection, has been withdrawn from our midst. In this sad and sudden loss we feel, each of us, that we have been deprived of the friendship and association of one who was, in every sense, a true man.

Resolved, That we tender to the widow and friends of the deceased, our sincere sympathy in their affliction.

Resolved, That we attend the funeral of our deceased friend and associate, in a body.

Resolved, That the president of this meeting present these resolutions to the court and request that they be entered upon its records.

Remarks were made by Hon. J. M. Woolworth, Gen. E. Estabrook, Judge Clinton Briggs, Hon. B. E. B. Kennedy, and Judge Wm. L. Peabody.
