Congressional SENATE.

WASHINGTON, May 19. Mr. Wright called up the bill for benefit of occupying claimants of public lands. Passed. At the expiration of the morning hour, the legislative apportionment bill was taken up. Various amendments were made to the bill, the most important of which was the modification of the first section. On motion of Mr. Sargent, to read:-"No civil officer of the gov-ernment shall hereafter receive any compensation or perquisite directly or indirectly from the treasury or property of the United States, beyond his salary or compensation al-lowed by law; provided that this shall not be construed to prevent the employment and payment by the department of justice of district attorneys, as now allowed by law for the performance of services not covered by their salaries or fees."

The bill was then reported to the Senate and the amendments of the committee were agreed to, with the exception of the section relating to covering into the treasury of unex-plained balances, which was modified so as to provide that it shall take effect on the first of July, 1875, instead of 1874.

The bill was then read the third time and passed. Mr. Sargent, from the committee on appropriations, reported, with various amendments of an important character, the sundry civil appropriation bill. Ordered printed.

Mr. Frelinghuysen moved that the Senate proceed to the consideration of the civil rights bill. The roll call showed no quorum and the Senate adjourned. HOUSE. The House took up the Senate amendments to the naval appropriation bill, the same which were concurred in; the others were non-concurred in by the latter senatorial commissioners of conference appointed by the speaker.

Mr. E. H. Roberts, from the ways yeas and nays were ordered. The and means committee, reported a bill to amend custom laws and re-Mr. Dawes moved an amendment striking out the third section providing that any informer paying any recovery.

Mr. Beck introduced an amendment making it unlawful for any Congressman to act as agent, advocate, or lawyer, for any person against whom the proceedings have been brought for the violation of the revenue laws. Both amendments are pending. Mr. Roberts opened the discussion

Mr. Roberts advocated earnestly the passage of the bill and was followed by Mr. Beck on the same side who denounced the moiety system as a compact of the Government with a pack of thieves. He referred especially to the ease of Phelps, Dodge & Co., and alluded to Senator Conklin and Gen. Butler as counsel for Custom House offi-cials, charging that Butler got a large fee out of Jayne's moieties, and those of the thief who stole Phelps, Dodge & Co's., papers. How much Conkling got he did not know. Mr. Kasson, a member of the committee declared there wasn't a particle of evidence implicating Mr. Conkling, as receiving a cent. Mr. Beck maintained and read from

Mr. Beck maintained and read from Mr. Dodge's testimony to show that Mr. Conkling acted as counsel for informers. He maintained the assertion against the protestation of Mr. Hale of New York, and others, and concluded with the assertion that the custom houses were dense with corruption kept up on account of their political power. on account of their political power.

Mr. Kasson quoted from Mr.

Dodge's testimony the assertion that he didn't believe Conkling was implicated in the action against their house. Mr. Dawes quoted Judge Davis' testimony to show that Conkling was simply giving his view of the law at Davis' request. Barchard and Niblock both members of the ways and means committee advocated the bill, the former adding that he would have preferred to see the whole system of custom house oaths abolished as had been done in England; and the latter opposing the third section of formed it would endanger the passage of the bill. Mr. Dawes closed the debate in support of the bill, and the House proceeded to vote on Mr. Dawes amendment striking out the third section which was agreed to, 97 to 78, and the bill then passed.

Mr. Smith, of New York, from the election committee, presented a report on the Louisiana contested election case, Pinehback and Sheridan, that neither had presented evidence of his election.

Mr. Lamar presented a minority report that Sheridan was elected, Pinchback not; both were ordered noietles bill a message was received from the Senate announcing the passage of the resolution for a final adjournment June 22d.

Mr. Beck, who was speaking sug-gested the Senate be taken at its word and offered to yield for a vote on the resolution, a proposition also which Mr. Dawes urged, but Mr. Kasson objected to until the pending bill was disposed of. At the close of the moities debate another attempt was made to take up the resolution but objection was made, and the House took a recess. The evening session will be for general

NEW YORK, May 19. A special correspondent of the Daily Graphic at Leeds, give some interesting particulars of the flood. There are in all nine factories and nearly one hundred dwelling destroyed, which are divided as follows: Williamsburg 55 lives lost. lows: Williamsburg, 55 lives lost, 4 factories, 1 grist mill, 1 saw mill, and 25 dwellings; Skinnerville, 5 lives lost, 1 factory, 25 dwellings; Haydenville, 33 lives, 1 factory, 1 brass foundry, 1 savings bank, and

At Leeds 43 were lost, 2 factories, shop and 15 dwellings are gone. George Cheney, keeper of the Williamsburg reservoir, and whose business it was to regulate the quantity of water supplied to the mills below, says the rain poured down all Friday night and hundreds of little streams into the reservoir. Chency and family were breakfasting about 6:30 a. m. when they heard the water rushing from the dam. He went out and saw that the water had worn out around the tube, and immediately started on horseback to notify the people in the CHICAGO, May 19.

The State of Wisconsin has, through its Attorney General, instituted proceedings under the new railroad law to deprive the Milwau-kee & St. Paul and the Chicago and Northwestern railroad companies of their charters and corporate franchises. They have, as is alleged, forfeited the same by violating the law passed by the legislature for the regulation of passenger and freight

LITTLE ROCK, May 18. General Newton is commanding Baxter's forces and General Faygan of Brook's, had an interview tonight. It was arranged that Bax-ter should take possession of the House to-morrow. A party of men went over the river at Argenta to-night, and it is stated killed a desperado named Massey, who, for some time passed, has been a terror of the vicinity.

For the first time since the insurrection Gov. Baxter went outside his picket line and visited his residence situated about half a mile from the city. He was escorted by a com-pany of cavalry and passed through the streets unmolested. Street fights are very numerous to-night, and it is exceedingly dangerous for non-combatants to venture outdoors. News from the country continus to be most alarming and frequent fights occur.

Baxter this evening will issue a proclamation, which, in connection with the action of the legislature in passing a resolution to investigate the affairs of a number of State officers is taken as an indication that civil proceedings for treason will be commenced against Brooks and his leading supporters.

To add to the general confusion and distress, thieves and rough characters from neighboring cities and eyen from New York and Boston have swarmed in here for plunder. A temporary relief committee has been organized and have gone to work actively.

A large meeting was held at Northampton, and steps taken to afford systematic and permanent relief. The available funds for this work now reach $50,000. The military guards have been provided for protection from thieves. Busingss men are not borne down by the weight of the calamity. Hayden, Gerer & Co. have been only prevented by the rain from beginning the work of rebuilding. It is ex-pected that inquiry into the causes of the disaster will be ordered by the legislature.
