The House then resumed the committee on ways and means report on the Sanborn contract. Mr. Beck addressed the House He spoke of Sanborn as having received $213,000 for doing nothing but prostituting government officers to his own purposes. The whole corruption. He said that owing to editorials in the government organ, which attempted to im-pugn the motives of the committee he would make the record so that these officials could not remain in the department, and that no honest President could keep them. He said he would not denounce them, but would make facts impeach Sanborn and convict him to the county pen-itentiary. He said that Richardson made the contract in the absence of Boutwell, and that, under it, Sanborn was allowed his fifth per cent. in cases where indictments were already pending, so that there could have been no pretense of discovery on the part of Sanborn. He declared his belief in Secretary Richardson's honesty, but said all his acts showed him to be incapable and unfit for his place, and deserved severe censure. At the close of Mr. Beck's speech the previous question was ordered and the matwent over till to-morrow,

Pending the bills he said it made no material changes. Altogether the aggregates of the results were as near to nothing as could be arranged, as it disturbed

The members of the Senate were present, presiding offivere conducted by Chaplains, and the two Houses were assisted by the Rev. Dr. Parker. NORTHAMPTON, Mass., May 25. The inquest into the cause and circumstances of the terrible Williamsburg flood disaster, was com-menced before Coroner Waight yesterday. All the witnesses were examined, and gave testimony to show that the reservoir was not only flimsily constructed, but that it had even been allowed to go on unrepaired when it was considered in a dangerous condition, and that the man in charge of it had repeatedly given notification of the dangerous state of the reservoir. Mr. Spillman, one of the officers of the orporation, gave his testimony in a onfused and contradictory manner, which evidently made an impression upon the jury, that he had a knowledge of the insecurity of the

James Shields, ex-United States

Two ladies, Mrs. Frost and Mrs. Brady were riding in a carriage on 7th street, last evening, when one of them became frightened and jerked one of the lines suddenly, causing the horse to turn short round and upon the carriage. Mrs. Frost was very seriously injured in the spine and bowels, and lingered in great agony until four o'clock a. m. when she died.

Mrs. Brady was but slightly injured. Mrs. Frost was thirty-eight years of age, and the widow of R. M. Frost, formerly manager of the Kansas Stage Company and the St. Joe agent of the Missouri Pacific Railway. Mrs. Frost left a handsome fortune, which she disposed of last evening, bequeathing it all to her neice, Mrs. Brady, who was riding with her.

KANSAS CITY, May 26.

At the regular Board of Trade meeting last evening, the commit-tee which was sent to Galveston, in the interest of the business men of this city, made their report through Col. R. T. The report expresses the opinion that the object sought was that of cheaper rates of transportation for grain and produce from this city to the gulf, which had been pledged by the railroad, and in the way of exchange of produce, Galveston promises to meet us half way.

As the first fruits of the mission, the M. K. & T. Railroad contracted a lease of the Missouri River, Fort Scott & Gulf Railroad, for the purpose of putting on through trains between this city and Galveston. They appoint their own officers here. The Argus claims that Mr. Raines has been completely vindicated and comments severely on the purpose of those who originated the slander.
