A BAD LOT.

A Whole Gang of Burglars now in Limbo.

Sheriff Burley returned Wednesday night at 10 o'clock from Sioux City, having in charge Dan Donovan and Anderson, the two young men who were held to await the arrival of an officer from Omaha. They are wanted here to answer to the charge of burglarizing several places recently, in company with one Lynch. also in jail.

Mr. Burley ironed them from Sioux City to Missouri Valley Junction, and having to wait there four hours, he took the irons off, and placed them in the lock up. Ten minutes afterwards, they set a straw tick on fire, and then cried for help, hoping to make their escape during the excitement. They were foiled in their attempt, as the fire was first put out, before they were taken out of their suffocating quarters.

Upon being put in jail here, they recognized their pal, Lynch, who squealed on them, and one of them exclaimed, "there's the d-d son of a gun!" They deny any knowledge of the burglary of O'Keefe's tailor shop. Their hearing will probably take place tomorrow. Donovan is one of the fellows arrested here last fall, for tapping a Farnham street till, and who with his pals, escaped out of the front door of the jail hall way. Sheriff Burley has done a good job prevails in the curtain line in that in securing this gang of operators, who will for some time to come, remain within the prison walls.

An Impertinent Thief.

A man that will steal will lie, and Judge Lake even goes farther by declaring that a thief will never hesitate about perjury to explain away his theft. So much as to the reliability of the statement of the discharged apprentice Ellsworth Miller, who publishes a mess of malicious falsehoods touching his connection and discharge from this office. The facts of the case are briefly as follows: This young scamp was employed at the Herald office until the printers' strike at six dollars per week. He foined the strikers, but when starvation stared him in the face he applied fat the BEE office for employment. He was employed in the news room at $6.00 per week during the first week, and at the while being taken up from Oma- end of that period, his pay was advanced to $8.00, and a few weeks later to $8.50. His thievish predilictions soon manifested themselves by disclosing to the Union certain items gathered by our local editor, and causing their publication in that sheet prior to their appearance in the BEE. He also made it a practice to ransack the editorial room in the absence of the editor. for the purpose of pilfering exchanges for the Union. This he virtually confessed when accused last Saturday by acknowledging that he furnished papers from time to time to "Kelley," one of the thirteen honest (?) and oppressed Union publishers. One single incident will illustrate Miller's character. About ten days ago a full-grown bird strayed into the BEE counting-room and was captured by who was going to marry Miss Hay- the book-keeper. Mr. Rosewater lard, but who was arrested and put placed the bird into a little covered basket with a view of presenting it of a postoffice, selected a couple of to his children. He locked birds and a bird cage at the Variety his room, and returning in about an hour found the bird dead. Subsequently he learned that Eberhart wants to know, what shall Ellsworth Miller had forcibly entered the room and tossed the bird about in the basket till he was dead. Miller's story about his pay is as false as is the declaration that the Union exchange lists exceed that of the BEE, else why would Kelley want those papers? His pay has always been prompt, and Mr. Stearns, who discharad him, simply desired this impertinent youth to stand back a few minutes until he paid off the other employes of the news room. We should not DORCHESTER, Neb. May 28. Dorchester, Saline county, a little prairie town of about 100 population, is bounded on the north by literally level prairie, on the south by literally level prairie, on the east by literally level prairie, and on the west by literally level prairie. As is a grain of wheat unto an elevator, so is Dorchester unto the broad prairie. One may sit on a chimney pot and see the horizon precisely as it appears from the mast-head of a ship at sea.

The genuine, unalloyed prairie scenery is free from irregular, unsightly hills, monotonous forest belts, muddy streams and buffalo wallows, which are noticeable in some portions of Northwestern Nebraska. Then, owing to the absence of hill, one can the better appreciate the exhilating zephyrs that nearly at all times are blowing with greater or less force, causing the

ARE THE PEOPLE OF OMAHA STINGY?

Mrs. Van Cott Emphatically Says They are.

The Small Amounts of the Contributions are not Satisfactory to Her.

A religious BEE reporter wandered into the Van Cott tent last night, for the purpose of listening to the a large number of men were seated leaning upon the fence. People of all classes were here gathered, and certainly the spiritual seed fell into many varieties of soil.

During the course of her rambtook occasion to pitch into "professd Christians," who attend worship at some house of God to-night, and to-morrow night they are at devil-doing.

Mrs. Van Cott thinks the people of Omaha are stingy. She stated that on Monday night the collection amounted to only $2, and on Wednesday, to but $7.00 or $8.00. In the matter of contributions, "deal with us," she said, "just as you would like to be dealt by. Give us a respectable collection. It ought to be $30 or $40 every night." related how, in a little town of Virginia, of only 150 inhabitants, the collection amounted to $30, $40, or $50 in gold or silver every night, which led the reporter to mentally remark, that the Virginians must have discovered some mines, and become well heeled. She wanted the people of Omaha to follow suit.

While the collection was being taken, a hymn was sung, probably not quite loud enough, for Mrs. Van Cott, at its conclusion, said, "they told us last night that they heard us hear us seventeen miles away. Hal-

Another hymn was sung, while the contribution box was passed around the second time. "I pray God for you to be liberal. You are too stingy. That is the reason you do not get converted," said Mrs. Van Cott, incidentally. "I do despise meanness. I am glad I am not mean. You will never be converted till you are more liberal. I pray God to give you a more liberal spirit. Who will say amen to that ?"

"Amen!" exclaimed a score or more of voices, After the majority of the crowd had dispersed, we understand that Mrs. Van Cott attacked the various ministers for not taking a greater interest in the revival, which was not as great a success as she had expected. She threatened, if it did not prove more successful, to depart from Omaha at once, and leave it to be damned.

THE FIGHTINNG FLAHERTY FAMILY.

A Furious Jehu Failing to Shoot His Wife, Nearly Kills Her by Clubbing Her With His Gun, and Pounding Her With His Fists.

· Wednesday afternoon Edward Flaherty, a hackman, living at the foot of Douglas street, had a diffieloquent revivalist, and of picking culty with his wife and came very up some notes of interest. The nearly murdering her. He drove tent was pretty well crowded, while up to his house with his hack, and soon after alighting he had some or standing on the outskirts, or loud words with her, quarreling in that household being a commot occurrence. Mrs. Flaherty went into the house, and upon her coming out again, he told her to "git," or he would make her. Putting his ling exhortations Mrs. Van Cott horses into the stable he procured a elub, and threatened to knock her brains out. A man, who happened to be near by, yelled to him to hold on, and he did so, but only long some ball, theatre, or other place of enough to obtain a double-barreled shot gun from the house. Raising it to his shoulder, he cocked the weapon, aimed at his wife, and pulled the trigger, but fortunately it failed to explode the cap. Following up his wife, he compelled her to retreat behind the house, on which he kept the gun pointed for some considerable time. He finally set it in the house. His wife, who had watched him through the cracks, crawled in at a window at her first opportunity, got the gun and run, with her husband in hot oursuit. She was forced to throw he weapon away, and when it struck the ground it went off, fortunately not hitting any body.

Flaherty caught his wife, threw her down, and then went to pick up the gun. She, in self-defense, grabbed up a stone with which to keep him from putting a new cap on the unfired barrel, and with that end in view she flung it at him, without effect, and then took to her heels. Again did the furious husband corral his speuse near the gate, and raising the gun high in the air, he struck a blow, which caused her to measure her length on the ground. Three well-directed blows from his fist followed immediately. The above are the facts in the case as related to a BEE reporter, by an eye witness, and which will probably be substantiated under oath, at the examination, which will take place before Judge Peabody. Flaherty was arrested by policeman Byrne, shortly afterwards, and lodged in jail, to await his examination.

EDITOR BEE.

Have we any health officers in this city? Have we a Board of Health? These questions are suggested by the existence of a most distressing nuisance in the southern part of the city. I refer to the feeding yards in connection with Willow Springs Distillery. During the past winter a large number of cattle have been fattened there upon the "swill." All the surplus swill not used by the cattle, has been allowed to run off into a pond, and this accumulation of filth, during this warm and sultry weather emits a most sickening odor that reaches for blocks away, and more particularly affects those traveling over the bridge. And as a railroad employee -one who is daily tortured by the effluvia coming from this pond-I this nuisance? The health of the city and a consideration for the feelings of the railroad employees, take some steps at the next meeting to make the proprietors of the distillery conform to our City Health Regulations. I have been reliably informed that three of the freight men at work upon the levee, have already had one installment of cholera morbus, engendered by this BOTTOMS.

GONE CRAZY.

A Prominent San Francisco Liquor Merchant on His Way to New York Becomes. Insane.

Wednesday morning a telegram was received by Deputy Sherift Hanlon to come to Elkhorn, on the Union Pacific railroad, and take charge of a crazy traveler.

The man's name is William Beal, prominent liquor merchant of San Francisco, on his way to New York on business. He left home perfectly sound in mind, but upon nearing the Eastern end of the Union Pacific railroad, he showed signs of approaching insanity, and upon reaching Elkhorn station he became entirely insane. He threw his oney, $150, out of the car window. umped from the platform, and up many curious anties. Sheriff Hanlon, who out in an appearance in answer to conductor's telegram, took charge of him, brought him to Omaha, and lodged him in jail. The unfortunate individual is a fine appearing gentleman. Judging rom his ravings he has become insane from brooding over the subject the liquor traffic, and the evils it entails upon mankind. He is constantly praying to God to forgive him for his crimes, and for having caused so much intoxication. The ad information of his case has been ent to his friends in California.

Mysterious Disappearance. While freight train No. 10, on the Kansas City, St. Joe and Council Bluffs railway, was running south on Tuesday night last, the fireman of engine 20, became lost off the train between Forbes and Ottawa. in some mysterious manner. When was learned that he was missing, the train was backed up, and a thorough search made for him. He could not be found, and he is yet missing. His wnereabouts and fate are a matter of singular mystery.

ALL ABOUT THE WATER WORKS

The central city of the West
Quite proud of late has grown,
And feels it can no longer wait
A good sized pond to own.
The greatest cities of the world
Who wish to cut a swell,
At once erect a reservoir
Upon their highest hill.

We read in the days of Noah That water works were tried;
The trouble was trey had no sewers,
And so the people died.
Let us then remember
If water works we try,
To put in sewers good and strong,
And make our streets quite dry

And when the thing is done
We'll celebrate at once,
Then everybody in the town
Will buy their hats of Bunce.
For all new styles that row are out,
