Mrs. Latey.

The complimentary concert to Mrs. Latey, Thursday evening, at the Academy of Music, was very largely attended

Mrs. Latey is going to Boston to study, and we feel confident that she will realize that cultivation of voice and progress in music, which she anticipates. She is young, apt, and susceptible of rapid improvement. Her voice has that compass and quality of tone, which with cultivation, will rank her among the artists. She has always been generously ready to assist at home entertainments and concerts, and if there is one person above another, who deserved a rousing benefit from the citizens of this city, it is Mrs. Latey. The public, and combined singing societies, have vindicated their appreciation of her ability as a singer, and esteem for her as a lady; the first by their presence at the concert, and the latter by their unanimous assistance. The concert was opened by an overture from "Martha," which was played by the Omahacity band, with commendable spirit. "Don't let the Roses Listen." solo by Miss Ella Spoor, sister of Mrs. Latey, was rendered in a charming manner. She is not over twelve or thirteen years of age, and her performance last night was evidence that she is possessed of the necessary elements of becoming a noted songstress

The Arion Singing Club, under the leadership of Professor Blankenfelt, sang a double quartette, "Banish, Oh Maiden," in admirable style and strict harmony. It was appreciated by the audience and loudly applauded.

Her voice grew in fervor as the piece advanced, and in that portion of it where the orchestra accompanies by a tremolo she threw passion in her tones and finished "Robert toi que j'aime" in a grandeur and expression surpassing any of her previous efforts before the public of this city.

The rich, full voice afterwards ascertained that one of appearance at the next term of the of Mrs. Latey blending with the liquid sweet tones of that of Miss sprained. No bones were broken. Campbell formed a harmony that ence and apparently inspired the singers themselves.

We know that Mrs. Ruggles has been unwell lately, and is at present struggling with a cold which caused her, evening before last at rehearsal, to stop singing her solo when but half through, and fears were entertained that she would not be able to do herself justice at the concert. To our surprise last evening her voice came out in round volume, clear and free from impediment, to the extravagant delight of her many friends. The second part of the programme was opened by the Omaha City Band playing the overture of "Poet and Peasant," which was executed in their usual brilliantly style.

The novelty of the evening was the Chinese serenade-a solo and chorus from "Paganini in China" produced by the Consordia Society. The performers were dressed in Chinese costume, even to the cue, and seal-like mustaches. A humorous smile flitted across the many faces among the audience as they heard the supposed Chinamen articulate so perfectly in the German tongue. fortunate one this delicious rig-

It was the soul of symmetry, the ideal of form, and tapered beautifully to the slender fingers, one of which embellished. rather than was embellished by, a couple of elegant rings. The Grand Officers will then proceed with the prescribed cere-monies which will include prayer by the Grand Chaplain, remarks by the Grand Master, music by the band, and 7. An oration by Col. John H. Keatley, of Council Bluffs. 8. An ode will then be sung and the ceremonies close with a benediction of the Grand Chaplain. A Serious Runaway Accident. As Mr. A. V. Richards and his mother were driving down Capitol Hill, on Dodgestreet Thursday evening about half past seven o'clock, a bolt gave way letting one side of the shafts drop down upon the heels of the horse, which became frightened and started on a runaway. Just opposite the Planters' House the buggy was overturned, and the occupants thrown out. Mr. Richards escaped with but a few slight bruises, while his mother was not so fortunate. Her head and face were badly bruised and cut in several places, from which the blood flowed in streams, while she lay for several minutes insensible upon the ground. Dr. Peck happened to be near by, and soon restored her to consciousness. She was conveyed Mrs. H. L. Latey and Miss Clara in a carriage to her home, where her shoulders was very badly

Before adjournment, the President announced Unorganized Co., I homestead; 160 that the Board of Trade rooms, Hall's Opera House, would be open Valley Co., 40 homesteads; 6,287.74 every evening, and that very soon they expected to have one of the best libraries in the State. Upon Thursday evening, the Free Congregational Society, was organized. It is composed of some of the best talent of our city, and promises 1874: homesteads, 122; 14,442.65 much. While any association, which has for its object the emancipation of men's minds from the thralldom 1874: homesteads, 158; 20,004.96 of dogmatic creeds and useless forms, which teaches that untrammeled thought, honest convictions, and independent action, is true manhood, should be hailed with delight. Yet, it is to be regretted that circumstances necessitated the formation of a new society. But they did. The "Liberals" of Lincoln united and built a church—a liberal Christian church, A minister of the Iniversalist denomination was engaged, and "all went merry as a narriage bell." The first step in the wrong direction, at least tended to mar the harmony of the society. was the organization of a Universalist denomination, which was to ontrol the destinies of the church. Many who aided very materially in he building of the church, were not Universalists, and objected. Meanwhile the pastor received a call to labor in a more extensive vineyard, and accepted. Speakers were then invited from abroad, and we listened with pleasure to some excellent practical sermons, from various ministers. But they were Unitarians, and some of "the brethren" called it the Liberal, instead of the Universalist, church. For these two reasons, a few of the "brethren and sisters" of the Universalist denomination climbed up to the extreme pinnacle of their "ear," and wished that it be called the Universalist Church hereafter. Now, to be compelled to think Universalism, is no etter than to be compelled to think and act Methodism, or any other ism; and accordingly, we have organized an association where we can think as we please, and call ourselves ditto. Last Sunday evening, the Rev. Mr. Sanborn, Unita--a large assortment-now invite rian, of Lawrence, Kansas, delivered an address under the auspices of this association on "The Religion of To-Day." It was a masterly effort, full of practical suggestions, alike for the Jew, the Gentile-for all. The Opera House was crowded with an intelligent and appreciative audience. Thus, we have two organizations, one speaking for the ousiness talent and enterprise of our business men; the other, of talent and independence of thought and action on the part of some of our citizens. The latter association is now in search of some young Robert Collyer. Last Tuesday the excavation for the United States postoffice building was commenced. A cheer from the growd assembled on the square at five minutes before eight o'clock announced that the first shovel full of dirt had been loosened. Now, we suppose, dirt will fly, at least Col. Wilson hints to that effect. Crusading is dead, and all that is left of that great "tidal wave" in A variety of 25 different drinks of this place, is the Mayor. And that soda and mineral waters on draught | isn't much. By the way, there are one or two good jokes on our Mayor, which, we presume, some of the Omaha readers of the BEE have not heard. It illustrates that trite old saying, that when the temperance folks select a candidate, he is invariably notorious for knowing nothing, except to let whisky alone. True, that is considerable, but a little common schooling is a good thing. His name is Little, which signifies his knowledge of spelling. When called upon to sign the first paper, he did it like this: "S. W. Little, Mare." If he had signed it "Horse," it would have been all right. But he was told better than that, and the next time, enthusiastic over his newly acquired knowledge, he signed it, "S. W

Mayor," leaving the important part Politicians hereabouts are waiting patiently for the waters of the political pool to be troubled, and will doubtless be ready to jump in at a moment's warning.
