now that the Indian Peace Commissioners have resigned?

JUDGE DUDLEY inclines to the opinion that "the best read and most feared" Democratic newspaper in Nebraska has 'soured on him lately.

THE passage of the Colorado bill by the House is chronicled by the Chicago Times' head-line humorist as follows: "The Home of the Hungry Potato Bug voted into the Union by the House."

KEARNEY inaugurated her new jail two days ago by the incarceration of Professor Van Teight, an itinerant temperance lecturer who got gloriously tight, and consequently became decidedly loose in his behavior.

It is to be hoped that Congress will to-day relieve Mr. Pinchback of all further anxiety about his Congressional back-pay. Mr. Pinchback has already stayed too long away from the inundated sugar plantations of Louisiana, and, we apprehend, his presence in that region will be of greater benefit to to the country than his presence in the cushioned seat of the House.

THE Grand Island Times deals vigorous blows for the material interests of its own important neighborhood, and compliments the Herald as an "able advocate of Omaha's interests." And the Times might have added that it never misses an opportunity to serve the State as well.—Herald. And the Times might also have truthfully added that it never misses an opportunity to blow the trumpet of self-glorification. By the way, are we to infer that the Grand Island brother of our Omaha brother-inlaw is to be promoted to a life membership in the Herald's Mutual Admiration Society?

EVERY citizen of America has the nalienable right to "life, liberty and the pursuit of happing s." These national blessings are, however, enndependence. That city is Chi-

This terrestrial paradise is vividly portrayed by the Chicago Times in the following comment: "Our German fellow-citizens ought to be happy. They have a beer saloon on every corner, with a half dozen between each corner, and which are open nights, Sundays, and during all other periods. They have music in the parks on Sundays; they have the liberty to form in procession, and move through every street, and all streets, on every Sunday, with a brass band in full blast, moving at the shortest possible intervals.

There is beer everywhere; every adjacent quarter acction there is a park of some kind; and there is no epizootic to interfere with the delivery of beer, or any dearth in hops to interfere with its manufacture. If there be such a thing as beatitude possible to a German, one would think that beatitude had folded its wings and lighted upon the ridge-poles of our German popu-

SENATE. WASHINGTON, June 10. Mr. Ingersoll introduced a bill to abolish the board of Indian commissioners. Referred. hour, unfinished business being the bill to amend the custom revenue laws and to repeal moieties, came up, the pending question being the amendment offered.

Mr. Conkling to the 29th section providing that the bill should not effect suits on actions commenced, or forfeitors incurred prior to May 1st, 1874. After the debate in which Messrs. Carpenter, Chandler and Howe favored, and Messrs. Sauls-bury and Wadleigh opposed the amendment, it was agreed to, 31 to

Mr. Stewart moved to strike out the 12th section, which fixes a penalty of $500 to any alternate to defraud the revenue by means of false invoice, and provides for the forfeiture of the particular kind of merchandise concerned instead of

Mr. Conkling opposed the bill as one of the most extraordinary ever framed, and predicted it would return to torment the inventors. It would greatly impair the revenues of the government, and produce disorder. He took occasion to defend the action of the government officials in the Phelps, Dodge & Co,'s case, and argued in favor of the forfeiture of the entire invoice for the Mr. Edwards argued that Phelps,

Dodge & Co. were guilty, and got off remarkably easy. Mr. Stewart's motion was rejected; 12 to 3. Mr. Sargent moved to amend the 12th section, by changing the penalty, so as to make the fine not exceed $5,000, nor less than $500, or agreed to.

The House then took up the Geneva award bill.

Mr. Frye (Me.) spoke of the demand of insurance companies on Congress, and said they even sent some of the best lawyers of the country to Geneva, where they appeared at the same time as the counsel for the United States, and now sent them here as lobbyists. He mentioned the name of Wm. M. Evarts in this connection. Mr. Tremaine defended the latter
