The meeting was by means of an ax and a knife, and captured the check-rack, with all the red, white and blue ivory checks, two silver dealing-boxes, three overcoats and a pair of pantaloons, the total value of the plunder amounting to about $150. The burglars safely got away with it all.

Mr. Allen, upon entering the "jungle" this morning, thought that the "tiger" was the sickest-looking animal he ever saw.

The police were informed of the burglary, but as yet they have obtained no clue to the thieves. Policeman Byrne and Powers noticed two men standing near the entrance during the night, but supposing them to be members of the sporting fraternity, who lounge about in that vicinity, they paid no attention to Five Dollars "Owet." On Sunday evening a liberal collection was taken up at the Van Cott tent. Several persons, who General Granville M. Dodge, the happened to be caught without any money, put tickets having written on them the amount of their contributions, into the hat. Now it occurred to a practical joker that it would be a good thing to drop in some forged tickets. So he wrote one for a certain hotel clerk to the amount of $2.00. and one for a Farnham street ciga man for $5,00, and deposited then in the hat. They were turned over to Mrs. Van Cott, with the cash contents of the hat.
