OMAHA BREVITIES.

-The examination in German in the High School will take place on Monday. -A party of eleven German immigrants arrived in this city yesterday bound for West Point. -At the meeting of the Philharmonies, General Perry was elected as one of the directors.

-Mr. Thrall, landlord of the Grand Central, has had fitted up in very neat style a private office at the east entrance of the hotel.

-Marshal Snowden says that he was not invited to state his objections to any of the police appointments, the BEE to the contrary notwithstanding.

-The Omaha Business College, Prof. G. R. Rathbun, principal, will, in about two weeks, occupy quarters in Redick's Opera House, apartments in which are being especially fitted up for it by the owner, Mr. Pattee.

-The exhibition of Mrs. Jarley's wax figures, at the Academy of Music Friday evening, for the benefit of St. Barnabas Church, was a very creditable and entertaining affair, and was enjoyed by the large audience present.

-Colonel Noteware, State Superintendent of Immigration, exhibited Saturday at his office some immense strawberries as samples of what Howard County can do in this line. They were grown by Captain J. A. of the Grangers, are requested to Force, of St. Paul, from plants of notify, one year's setting. -Miss Nellie Conwell, the teacher of the Dodge street school which closed on Wednesday, was happily surprisedFridayeveningby her pupils who, in a body, called upon her at Mrs. Nightingale's residence on Davenport street, and made her several presents as tokens of their affection for her. A pleasant time was had, and the little folks went home happy. -Policemen Byrne and Mansfield, having had several charges made against them by some of the papers of the city, caused an investigation to be had at the Police Court. They appeared and answered to the complaint made out against and several witness were examined. Nothing very strong was proven against them, and what was produced they explained, or attempted to explain. As it was, the investigation could have terminated in no other way than as a farce, from the manner in which it was brought about and conducted.

An Eloquent Appeal for More Currency.

Gen. Strickland Comes to the Rescue of the Oppressed Industrial Classes.

He Draws a Sad Picture of the Degeneracy of Modern Politicians.

What we may Expect if his Programme is Carried Out.

An enthusiastic meeting of the Omaha council of "The Protectors of Industry,"was held Friday evening at the headquarters of the Sons of Toil, over Captain Lee's saloon.

Capt. Lee, President of the lodge, filled the chair, and presided with his usual dignity over the deliberations of the toilers. After prayer by the chaplain and the usual opening ceremonies according to the beautiful ritual of the organization, glory some unimportant business was transacted. Speech-making was then in order. Several of the smaller guns shot off their mouths, when the monotony caused by their common-place remarks was relieved by a unanimous request, expressed in sound his loud bazoo.

"Strick!" "Strick !!" "Strick! !!" Speech!" "Give us a good one!" 'Loom up! for the love of the Coops!" "Get up and shout!" were the cries that resounded from all quarters of the room, playing a most agreeable potpourri upon the drum of Strick's ear. The silver-toned Silas could not resist this temptation, and he yielded, although appearing reluctant to do so, to the general request of his industrial constituents. Deliberately rising from his seat, he struck an imposing attitude, resting, as it were, gracefully upon his pedestal plantations. His face was radiant with an expression of satisfaction, which gave to his countenance a strong resemblance to the full moon or a photograph of the jolly Punch. The grand lecturer, who spouts for ten dollars element. He was happy. His remarks on this proud oceas sion, which we with pleasure publish to-day, are said to have been somewhat as follows:

MOST WORSHIPPED PRESIDENT. BROTHERS AND SISTERS: I thank you for the proud honor you have conferred upon me in calling upon me to address you this evening. At first I was too full for utterance, which fact explains my little delay to collect my scattered thoughts, before answering your invitation. Too full for utterance, did I say? Nav. not now. I find that I have much to say to you. Never in my eventful career have I felt more sanguine of the success of our great cause than I am to-day. I feel it in the air that we shall all have glory. Our noble institution is founded upon eternal principles. When we reflect that it required a most patriotic sarifice in men like my hornyfisted brothers, Dr. Harrison Johnson, our grand national president; and Judge Dudley, our grand national secretary, and myself, your humble servant, to abandon their industrial avocations [a voice-"seven-up and sich"] and throw down the (ace of) spades, and other implements of industry (another voice-"the dice-box and lager-beer selected the following persons as glasses] to devote their entire energies to the advocacy of this noble cause of labor, then am I assured of our success, and the near approach of the day when we shall all have When I reflect that men whom I see around me here to the rightmy brothers John Smiley, Justice J. P. Bartlett and that great explorer, Luther Poland, have deserted their favorite haunts, the principal one being the Elysian Garden, to become members of this noble order-I am convinced that this uprising among the working men means death to corruption and political bummerism, and then we shall all have glory. Again, sisters and brothers, when look over to the left, and cast my optics on such men as James M. Pattee, Ijams, - Pratt, H. B. Meyrs, A. P. Cunningham and dozens of others, who have, with me, labored so earnestly to build up and support home industries-distilleres, brewerles and other industrial institutions-I say it must be something extraordinary that will unite all these highly respected brothers of society lovingly together in one common cause, by which we shall all have glory. Some of the newly initiated brothers and sisters, are not probably familiar with the grevances and issues that have brought us together, and I want to address myself especially to them in a few words. I want them to look back through the history of this State. and become acquainted with the disgraceful and deplorable conduct of our public men, from constable up to governor, and from governor to United States Senator. Everything reeks with fraud and corruption. The air is impregnated with it-the woods are full of it. Our great legislators have piled up the taxes mountain high to support penitentiary rings, and the political bummers who train with them. Our governors have endorsed lotteries, and encouraged pardon brok. ers, and have set at liberty vile abortionists, and other criminals, to again prey upon society. Look at the penitentiary. That institution has cost you a half million dollars. and where has the money gone to? Why, it has been used to build up Stout and his silent partners, the glory yst. Some of you may ask, can a man be a United States District Attorney, and his partner employed at the same time for the defense? Why, yes; even such things have been. Was there ever a greater outrage than this perpetrated on a civilized community? No never! There is one remedy for all this, however, and that is to reform the public service, by sending men into office who will not steal the country blind. By this remedy we shall all have

Yes, put men into office who will do sonrething for their country, and not go bamming around town night and day, and swilling beer-men, I say, who are not familiar with the

But now let us take another glance at the laboring classes, the poor farmers and the oppressed mechanics. Has anybody got any money? Just fling that financial conundrum at brother Lee. Look at the receipts of the infernal revenue, and you vociferous calls, for that 280-pound- will see that the whisky tax has er, General Silas A. Strickland, to been materially decreased, which shows that the country is going to the devil. Stagnation stares us in the face everywhere.

I have heard prominent business men, like Mr. Chase of the California Wine Room, declare that there is not $50 taken in now where hundreds were raked in last year. Harry Clayton tells me that he might as well shut up the "Crystal," if business does not improve, and if the currency is not increased. The only thing that will help him out, he intimates, would be to rent his banking room to a lodge of the 'Protectors of Industry,' and have it connected with his bar by a bottle elevator, or else have it understood that the protectors must drink at the bar upon entering and leaving. Brothers and sisters, rather than have our business men resort to such dodges, we must have more greenbacks, and then we shall a days-if he can get it-was in his

The secretary begins reading as follows: "The wheel of fortune-The drawing of Pattee's Fourth Legal Enterprise---J. M. Strickland, Ex-United States Attorney assist .-- $100,000 to be distributed--The prizes to be paid in full, "&c. The secretary read Gen. Strickland's speech of endorsement on that occasion, the concluding sentences, in regard to Mr. Pattee and his lottery, being; "* * I went right along systaining him, because knowing his integrity, I knew the outcome would be just what we see here now-that his patrons would have a fair drawing. You may safely rely upon the fact that he will do just what he says. He means first of all that in conducting the scheme, his patrons (the ticker holders) shall be provided for; that they shall have a fair drawing, and that the prizes shall be fairly and honestly paid, and that is the thing in a lottery. "Now gentlemen, trusting that ou will have a successful drawing here, I hope we may meet here this evening, and have some fun and rejoicing, and then I shall try and entertain you some fifteen or twenty minutes with a speech." The grand lecturer, who had excused himself on account of thirst, returned just in time to hear these sentences. "Great God!" exclaimed he, in amazement,"I have given you the wrong paper. That is an old Herald. Here is the right paper," said he as he handed another to the secretary

He read as follows: "Be it known by these presents that Silas A. Haxland and James Strickby, doing business under the firm name of Strickby & Haxland, have this day dissolved partnership, and that James Strickby will assume all debts and liabilities, ----" "Hold on there! Stop her!" shouted the grand lecturer, "I've made a mistake. That's the wrong document again; but it reminds me of other days."

Feeling in his pocket for the much wanted paper, and failing to find it, he got out of his embarrassment by saying, "Well, never mind the facts and figures. I will refer to them from memory hereafter."

The grand lecturer then resumed he thread of his labyrinthian ad-
