LOVE BEHIND THE BARS.

A Young Man and a Maiden Fair Fall in Love in the Jail And Are Married Upon Their Re-

A Condensed Novel.

Chapter I - THE HERO. - In Omaha city there lived a young nan named John G. Saxe, who was o relation to the humorous poet of that name. Our John G. Saxe was cigar-maker by trade.

Chapter II-HE FALLS .- One Saturday night, not long ago, the light of all others that young men are wont to turn themselves loose and get into trouble, John G. Saxe went on a spree in company with another cigar-maker, who had the misfortune to lose his watch and chain. The finger of suspicion pointed toward Saxe as the fellow who had taken the jewelry, and he was accordingly "bagged" by the "beaks," examined at the Police Court and sent to jail to await his trial at the District Court.

Chapter III-IN JAIL - Behind the prison bars our hero sat, playing checkers with his nose, and anxiously awaiting the tedious hours to pass by. He was eager for the rapid approach of his trial, for he was confident of acquittal. He ever maintained his innocence, and knew the time would come when he again would breathe the air of freedom. and be himself once more. Chapter IV-THE HEROINE-But uddenly there shot a ray of light into the dark prison cell of Saxe. It proceeded from the bright eyes of Belle Farnsworth alias Alice Forsythe, who was held in custody as a witness in the case of the State vs. Nellie Rathbun, for stabbing James Norton. The fair damsel occupied a cell directly opposite that of Saxe. Chapter V-LOVE BEHIND THE BARS. - An acquaintance soon sprang up between them, and soon

CHARLES FELDERNAN, Prop. meb11tf THE COMING STRUGGLE

The voters of our nation,
As ne'er was known before,
Are rising from Pacific's strand
To Atlantic's rocky shore.
Why is th's mighty change?
What can the meaning be?
The rising of the masses
From northern take to southern sea.

The spirit of old seventy-six
From out our heroes' graves
Forbids a nation drenched in patriots' ble
Should sink to that of slaves;
The motto which our colns once bore,
Though obsolete long since,
Benain as ever true; not one cent for trib
But millions for defense.

Party ties and party laws
Are but as ropes of sand.
The rights of man to be a man
Should govern Freedom's land.
Then shall our Fing more proudly O'er land as well as sea,
And nations yet unborn shall gladly greet
The emblem of the free, In trade we'll try to deal,
As man should deal with man,
And while we seek to live oursolve.
We'll sell as cheap as anybody ca
