Why is the mighty change?
What can the meaning be?
The rising of the masses
From northern lake to southern sea.

The spirit of old seventy-six
From out our herces' graves
Forbids a nation drenched in patriots' ble
Should sink to that of slaves;
The motto which our coins once bore,
Though obsolete long since,
Remain as ever true: not one cent for iribe
But millions for defense.

Party ties and party laws
Are but as ropes of sand.
The lights of man to be a man
Should govern Preedom's land.
Then shall our Flag morp proudly float
O'er land as well as so,
And nations yet unborn shall gladly great
The emblem of the free.

NEW YORK, July 13. Tilton has written the Plymouth Church investigating committee a letter, in answer to that by Beecher, requesting them to investigate Til-ton's allusions against his character. It says that the writer was unaware that this committee was a private one, when he met them by appointment last Friday, and having been advised to preserve reticence about the worst features of the case, he had done so in order to facilitate a had done so in order to facilitate a moderate presentation of Mr. Beecher's offense and apology, and close the scandal rather than prolong it; so he had merely stated at that time that his letter to Dr. Bacon was written in self defence, and that having defended himself thereby, he was unwilling to prothereby, he was unwilling to proceed further against Mr. Beecher without further provocation. The letter concludes as follows:

"Such necessity is now laid upon me by Mr. Beecher himself, in the publication of a direct request by him to you to inquire officially into challenge, not only before your committee, but before the public, which I hereby accept. I therefore give you notice that I shall prepare a full and detailed statement, in accordance with the terms of your committee's invitation to me, to furnish such facts as are within my knowledge, touching matters which commy oath to their exact truth, sworn before a magistrate. Boston, July 13. Details are coming in of the second flood in Hampshire county, years ago, but was considered safe.

It supplied a large number of stock and other mills, and its breaking will deprive these of power for a long time. The heaviest loser by the flow is Dr. Hernan Lucius, who loses $10,000 by the partial submerg-ing of his emery mill. The Hernan Edge Tool Company's water power is destroyed. A large number of farms and gardens were inundated. Many of the valley residents were compelled to leave their homes. Several houses floated off. The town of Chester suffers most heavily, having lost bridges and suffered from the washing away of roads. To replace the bridges will cost $10,000, besides several thousand dollars to repair the roads. The Boston and Albany railroad The Boston and Albany railroad is very badly damaged for a distance of twenty miles. Every bridge between Middlefield and Huntington is wholly or partly destroyed. The road bed is also washed out in many places, and travel between this city and Albany will be suspended for several days. The wires are still down beyond Chester, and no definite in-formation has been received as to the loss of life at Blush Hollow, which, it is not thought, must have companies shows, in connection with the above question, that such grants may be divided into three classes. First, cases in which one form of expression or another free tation, or of average rates, &c., are all that have been expressly imposed. Third, cases where no conditions for use of said road by the Government have been imposed. In my opinion there can be no question that first one included within and third one excluded from
