(Kearney Press, July 13.)

The O. M. and C. C. R. R. are having terrible times just now, and it is probable that the $50,000 Loup appropriation will hardly have the desired effect. This ring is composed of several ambitious fellows either of whom would not hesitate to take the office of United States Senator, and some of them might possibly be in-duced to take something less, say governor or representative in congress. But the truth of it is the arithmetic has not yet been made that will divide half a dozen offices among two dozen men and give each man an office. Here then is trouole. It is probable, from what we can learn, that the internal feuds which are continually arising in this ring of rings will be likely to weaken, if not to break it alto-

Indian Curiosities at No. 170 Farnham street, corner 11th street. THE COMET.

It is Rapidly Disappearing.

For the past few weeks M. Coggia's comet has almost every evening been plainly visible to the naked eye, and of all the heavenly bodies has been "the observed all observers." But within the last three or four evenings it has been gradually fading away. In fact the comet has practically left us. It will still be visible, by the aid of the telescope, to astronomers; but as a popular exhibition it is no more. It has gathered strength in the northern heavens for the past three months, and will be intrinsically brighter than now a few days hence, but will shine to us only in competition with the sunlight. After to-night, as we learn from a gentleman well versed in the interesting science of astronomy, it will set before the expiration of twilight, and not rise to us still after the morning twitight has At twelve o'clock Wednesdaynight its position was right ascenshours 49 minutes, north declination 40 degrees 40 minutes. It is moving almost due south at the rate of a little more than 3 degrees per day. Its present distance from us is 32,600,000 miles. Wednesday night the head (nucleus) set at 9 hours and 35 minutes, and rose this morning at 2 hours and 32 minutes, being nearly 51 hours below our horizon. Parties who live in the country, where the air is pure all the way down to the horizon, may see the head after dark to-night.

A portion of the tail will, however, be visible to us for several evenings yet, stretching up between the stars known as Upsilon, and h, in the Great Bear, those being the two prominent stars next below the Dipper, and a little to the right, in the evening. The tail will be seen all the better for the absence of the nucleus, its light being too faint to be able to compete even with that of the volume of rare gas which moves in the cometary orbit.

The comet will make its nearest approach to our earth on the 22d inst. The readers of the BEE need not be alarmed at the announcement, as they will not be made aware of the fact in any other way than as a result of calculation. Some superstitious persons entertain the idea that the comet will "come it" over the earth next Wednesday, and knock it all out of proceed southward, and be visible to the astronomers of Australia and South America, till the early part of November. It will then have been about six months and a-half, and a comparison of all the observations will enable its orbit to be determined with great accuracy. We shall then know whether it is moving in a parabolic o, bit, never to return to us, or whether it will have a measurable same comet that was observed in China in 1737. The numerous spectroscopic observations that have been made by various astronomers of this comet, all point to the conclusion that it is composed of olefiant gas, which is a compound of equal measures of carbon and hydrogen. The neucleus appears to be much less than it was two or three weeks ago, indicating that the tail has grown at the expense of the head, and supporting the theory that the tail is actual cometary substance petiod around our sun. In the last

Why is th s mighty change?
What con the meaning be?
The rising of the masses
From northern lake to southern sea.

The spirit of old seventy-six
From out our heroes' gra-es
Forbids a nation drenched in patriots' blood
Should sink to that of slaves;
The motto which our coins once bore,
Though obsolete long since,
Remain as ever true: not one cent for 'ribute,
But millions for defense.

Party ties and party laws
Are but as ropes of sand.
The rights of man to be a man
Should govern Freedom's land.
Theu shall our Flag more proudly float
