General Spinner authorizes the statement to be made, that there has been no discussion between the Secretary, or Assistant Secretary of the Treasury and himself, regarding the appointments in his office. He thinks he is sufficiently well-informed upon the provisions of the constitution and laws on the subject, to prevent him from assuming any untenable grounds in the matter. The question may arise as to the present province or power of the civil service board under existing laws. Whatever may be arrived at in this regard will govern the office of treasurer in common with other departments of business Assistant Secretary Conant is also authority for the statement that tween the treasurer and himself upon this matter of appointments in the treasury office, but such an event had been rendered impossible by the fact that the subject has never been officially discussed by them.
