Mrs. J. M. Weesner Entertains M. E. Choir

A pleasant diversion from the usual weekly choir rehearsal was enjoyed by members of the Methodist choir last Friday evening, when Mrs. J. M. Weesner surprised the regular attendants, by inviting their wives and husbands to her home. Games, music and a bounteous spread followed the rehearsal, and all departed for their various homes surprised that the evening had passed so quickly as to necessitate a trip in the dark.

The Farmer and the Tariff.

We notice that Senator Bristow in his interview after going to Kansas gave out the statement that the new tariff law in placing beef on the free list had done the farmers and stock raisers a great injury. If this is true then the tariff law should to that extent be unsatisfactory to the farmers, but before any great number of farmers make up their minds as to the merits of the senator's statement, they should inform themselves as regards to the truth or error of his remarks. It is an easy matter for anyone who is interested to find out the exact facts in the case. In the year 1912 we shipped out over seventeen dollars worth of beef from this country to other countries, where we shipped one dollar worth into the country from other countries. Every dollar worth of this beef shipped out had to compete with foreign prices the moment it went beyond our borders and that price had to be a greater price than it could have been sold for at home or it would have remained here. If we had to ship three million dollars worth of beef away to find a market for it in the markets of the world, does it not follow that this beef would have remained at home could we have realized a dollar more for it here under protection than we received in the free trade markets of the world? Would anyone ship a carcass of beef to England or Germany and sell it for less money than he could have sold it for at home? So please have the senator to explain how a tariff on meats would help the farmer when he must go outside of the country to find a market for the surplus that he has to sell and must sell his surplus in free trade market. The tariff only permitted the packers here to get a better price for their product than they could have gotten had there been no tariff. It is a futile effort that the senator is making to try to make the farmer believe that he has been discriminated against. The farmer was robbed more last year on barb wire alone by the tariff than he could suffer from the placing of meats on the free list. Thru the agency of the tariff the farmer during the year of 1912 was robbed of five hundred thousand dollars through the increase in the price of wire that he bought, and it might be interesting to know that the government collected and put into its treasury just two dollars from a tariff on wire fencing. It is hardly fair for any one man to pick out an item here and there in the tariff schedule and bring comparisons on it but if Senator Bristow insists upon doing that he will find that he will not get far with such statements, for his conclusions are not based on good logic.—J. R. Connelly in the Western Advocate, Mankato Kansas.

Better Babies

During the meetings of the societies of Organized Agriculture the moving pictures portraying scenes at the Better Babies contest at the last state fair were exceptionally popular; Prof. G. E. Condra of the secretary of the Nebraska Conservation and Public Welfare commission gave a moving picture show at the auditorium each evening and displayed the Better Babies pictures and views showing the resources of the state.

Farmers' Institute A Big Success

The Fifth Annual Farmers' Institute was called together by the president, Henry Keeney, Monday evening at Cowles. The opening address was made by Rev. J. W. Davis. His words were well chosen and listened to by a very appreciative audience.

After this was music by a mixed quartette, who consisted of Mr. and Mrs. Saunders, Miss Boren and Will Moller. Then came a paper read by Prof. Asa Wolf, Treatise on Analysis of the Soil, which showed facts of a very important nature to the farmer. After this Will Sterns favored them with a violin solo, which was rendered in his usual agreeable way.

Then came an address by H. E. Leiniger who handled the Rural School question as if he was no apprentice at the work. The address was followed by a cornet duet rendered by Homer Davis and Russel Saunders.

The summing up address was made by President Keeney, who told of the many good things on the farm.

Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 the meeting was called to order by President Keeney, after which an address was given by H. E. Vasey of Lincoln on "The Treatment of Farm Seeds Against Common Disease." Then came an address by J. W. Dawson of Lincoln on "The Cow, the Corn, the Silo," after which the large audience proceeded to the main street where Messrs. Dawson and Vasey gave them a good demonstration of farm animals.

Tuesday evening's program consisted of music by the band, an address by Mr. Vasey on Vegetables and Flowers, an address by Mr. Dawson on Clean Milk. This was followed by a short talk by F. A. Good on the general subjects of life.

The awarding and judging of the prizes occupied most of Wednesday morning. After this Mr. Shirley gave a scoreing exhibition of the poultry exhibit.

Wednesday afternoon addresses were given by Mrs. Davison of Lincoln on Food and Diet, and by Mr. Shirley of Central City, on Little Things That Spell Big Losses in the Poultry Yard.

Wednesday evening Miss Peterson of Lincoln gave an address on House-keeping a Profession. After this Mr. Shirley gave an address on A Profession or a Job.

The executive meeting of the Institute elected the following officers: President, H. G. Keeney; Vice President, R. B. Thompson; Secretary, C. E. Putnam; Treasurer, E. T. Fox; Directors, Jesse Franz, R. Doughty, C. C. Boren, Arthur Stearn and W. B. Vance.

The best of meals was served by the ladies of the Congregational and Christian churches in the A. O. U. W. hall.

The exhibits were all good, and in many instance even surpassing those of last year. The domestic department, the poultry and farm products and the school exhibits were unusually attractive, and the attendance and interest taken in the Institute this year was all that could be expected, and sufficient to make it a big success.

The following were the premiums awarded:

- Horses—1st, Henry Keeney; 2nd, Allen Vance.
- Cattle (Beef)—1st, H A Grant.
- Cattle (Dairy)—1st, J. Fawcett.
- Poultry, Rose Comb R. I. Reds—1st, Mrs John Rasser; 2nd, Mrs. Chet Cox.

RED CLOUD, Nebraska

Mrs. Sarah J. Ryan

The people of Womer and surrounding country were much saddened when they heard of the death of one who was much endeared and respected by all who ever came in contact with her in the person of Mrs. Sarah J. Ryan who breathed her last on Monday morning, Jan. 19th., fortified by the rights of the Roman Catholic church and was interred on Wednesday in the family burying ground at Red Cloud, Nebr.

Her illness was of long duration which she bore with great patience and christian resignation, all medical aid being of no avail so finally death resulted from a complication of diseases.

The deceased's life all thru was one of a most exemplary character strongly endowed with many virtues and noble traits which contributed in the embellishment and making up of a genuine christian and a devout Catholic.

The demise of her husband some, 18 years ago, occurring at a time when most of her family were small and weak presented to her a wide field in the management and looking after the general welfare of the family, so in the course of time by her perseverance and wise judgment she accomplished and accumulated more than many others of siney hands could not emulate.

The funeral procession was one of the largest seen in this neighborhood for many years which was ample proof of the respect and sympathy shown to the deceased and family.

At 10:30 o'clock after the arrival of the funeral procession a solemn Requiem Mass was celebrated, the Father Fitzgerald officiating. After mass the Reverend gentleman delivered a most eloquent and impressive address and spoke at great length on the exemplary life deceased has led.

She was born at Belfast, Ireland, in the year 1847 and came to this country at the age of 18. She belonged to the Brian family, noble and strong agitators for Irish justice and national autonomy.

Besides numerous friends, she leaves a large family and many grand children to mourn her loss as follows: Mrs. A. Williams, Mrs. E. Elliot, Mrs. C. Fruit, three stepdaughters Mrs. B. Ring, Mrs. R. Ring and Mrs. E. J. Pulpipher, and three sons—Francis, James and Joseph, and a brother Mr. Paul Brian and a sister Mrs. Patk. Horner who reside at Belfast, Ireland.

Bank Deposits

During the six months preceding Dec. 1, 1913 the deposits in Nebraska banks averaged $187 per capita, according to figures compiled by the state board of agriculture. This showing is a remarkable one and is a reliable index to the prosperity of the state.

If it happened—you will find it here.
