SUCCESSFUL farmers are no longer asking, "Shall I buy an engine?" They have passed that point and now inquire, "Which engine shall I buy?"

A little careful observation will show that International Harvester engines are the most satisfactory. No doubt is left when features like the following are studied: Detachable valve guides, offset cylinder head, fuel pump, split-hub fly-wheels, extra large intake and exhaust valves, etc.

Ask the men who have used IHC engines. That is the best test. They will explain the excellence of IHC construction, simplicity, strength and durability. Study the engines yourself at the nearest dealer's where International Harvester engines are sold. They are made in all styles, and range in size from 1 to 50-H. P. They operate on low and high grade fuels.

Write for our interesting and instructive catalogues, and when we send them we will tell you where the engines may be seen. A postal will do.

GARFIELD

Fine Nebraska weather this week. Lots of sunshine and no rain.
The election went off smoothly with 63 votes cast, 14 against and 49 for the court house.
Two good potato days came together this year and there ought to be a good crop for Good Friday and the 100th day came on the same day this year. This only happens once every hundred years.

The following children from district 85 took the 8th grade examination at Red Cloud last week: Mabel Fisher, Flora Osborne, Lavin and Ella Harris, George Amack and family were visiting in Garfield last Sunday.

A Useful Dance.

During the Civil war, General Edgewick had on his staff a very dull lieutenant, who seemed never to be able to do anything without making a mistake. One day a friend asked the general:
"Why do you keep Jones on your staff? He seems a perfect dunce."
"Do you know," replied General Edgewick, "Jones is one of the most useful members of my staff. Before I send him on a mission, I always have him read to me. If he can tell what it means, an officer should be a dunce; that means he will understand it. It's Jones's duty."

Keats a Great Poet.

One of the highest of authorities declares the "Ode to a Nightingale" to be "one of the final masterpieces of human work in all time and for all ages." The same high authority refers to the odes to "Autumn" and to the "Grecian Urn" as being unequalled and unrivaled, the "triumphant accomplishment of the very utmost beauty possible to human words." In Keats's larger poems are passages that approach very near to poetic perfection. Keats died at twenty-six. And yet he lived long enough to have written some of the finest things in literature.

Georgia Invasion.

"It's been the dream of the old man's life to see Wash-ton," said the Billville matron, "an' now he's a-goin' thar, an' I'm a-goin' with him. I won't be unknown thar," he says, "for I've been a member of six Georgia legislatures, an' any one of 'em could beat congress a-raisin' of the place whar Satan lives at an' a-doin' of nuthin'!" But what we want to see most is the place whar they make the money, an' find out how come an' why we don't git our share of it.—Atlanta Constitution.

Poets Put to Hard Labor.

The sixth grade of a certain school in a foreign settlement in South Dakota was learning the use of possessives.
The book required the pupils to correct and expand into a complete sentence the following expression: "Milton and Shakespeare's works." Joseph Nikolay handed in this sentence: "Milton and Shakespeare work in a coal mine."—Youth's Companion.
